FLIERS OFF ON FIRST LEG OF HOP TO HUNGARY

OTHERS SEEK RECORDS

Yerrington and Maloney in Crash During Hop from New York to Mexico

Mexico City—(AP)—The pilot of a Mexican Aviation company plane bound for Brownsville reported by wireless this afternoon that he had sighted a plane, apparently the "Captain Emilio Caranza," crashed on the beach between Tampico and Brownsville.

Henry Dorrell, the Mexican line pilot, said he could see the number NR-965-V on the plane. This is the number of the Captain Carranza in which Edward Maloney and Seth Yerrington took off from Roosevelt field yesterday afternoon for a flight to Mexico City. The two men on the beach waved to him, he said.

Dorrell reported that a light plane could be landed on the beach to rescue the castaways. The spot where he saw the wrecked plane is about 60 miles north of Soto la Marina, in the state of Tamaulipas, between Tampico and Brownsville. Dorrell said the left wing tip was smashed.

Long distance fliers were hard on the trail of new records today.

Joseph Lebrix and Marcel Doret of France, passed over Moscow at midnight on their attempt to set a new straight line flight from Paris to Tokio.

Reg. L. Robbins and Harold S. Jones, forced down on a refueling flight from the west coast to Tokio, were on their way home to make another try.

Roosevelt Field, N. Y.—(AP)—After waiting almost two years for just the right combination of conditions, atmospheric and mechanical, Alexander Magyar and George Endres took off today on the first leg of a flight to Hungary.

They expected to reach Harbor Grace, N. F., before dark and after replenishing their fuel supply begin the Atlantic hop in the morning. They hope to fly nonstop from Newfoundland to Budapest or at least to some point within the borders of Hungary.

The decision to start the long delayed flight was reached so suddenly that no one was present to watch the take-off except field employees and a few visitors who didn't even realize that they were witnessing the beginning of an ocean flight.

The fliers took off here at 9:53 a. m., (E. S. T.) and in their low winged Lockheed which has a cruising range of from 160 to 175 miles an hour, expected to reach Harbor Grace in about seven hours.

They started with 350 gallons of gasoline and will take on 650 gallons in Newfoundland. The weather was clear almost all the way from New York to Harbor Grace and though there were headwinds they were light and were not expected to diminish speed materially.

Both fliers are reserve officers in the Hungarian army and planned the flight to call public attention to wrongs they believe have been inflicted on Hungary as a result of the Treaty of Trianon. The plane is black with a white stripe across the nose and with trimmings in yellow and gold. On the fuselage is painted the plane's name and on wings and rudder is the license designation Nr. 115 W.

The Magyar-Endres plane is of the same make and has the same general equipment as the world girdling Winnie Mae of Wiley Post and Harold Gatty.

Against Wage Cut

New York—(AP)—In an address before the International Longshoremen's association, United States Senator Royal S. Copeland declared today it would be unwise for industry to cut wages during the present business depression.

The senator approved President Hoover's plan for the debt moratorium, declaring war debts and reparations interfere with international trade.

2 Arrested In Wisconsin Bank Holdup

Milwaukee—(AP)—Arrest of two suspects in the robbery of the Brookfield State bank, Waukesha co, and recovery of $700 of the $1,000 stolen was announced by authorities here today.

Fred Appell, 18, and Roman Yunk, 22, are in custody and have confessed, authorities said. A third man, named by the prisoners as an accomplice, was sought. All three were employes of the Milwaukee County hospital.

An anonymous tip furnished by a Wauwatosa woman, who recognized the description of the robbers' automobile published in local newspapers, led to Appell's arrest yesterday. He turned over $381 as his share in the robbery and revealed the identity of his companions.

Yunk was arrested at his rooming house early today and readily admitted the charges, his captors said. The officers seized $341 he carried.

The bank holdup occurred Friday afternoon, two of the robbers entering the bank while a third remained waiting in the automobile. After forcing Cashier Nelson A. White to hand over all available money in the cage, and ignoring the vaults containing most of the bank's funds, the trio fled.

TWO YOUTHS KIDNAPED BY S. DAKOTA ROBBERS

Omaha—(AP) — Police today were seeking two men who kidnaped two South Sioux City, Neb., youths last night and, while driving with them to Omaha in the latter's automobile said they were members of the robber gang which last Friday held up the American State bank at Yankton, S. D., and escaped with $18,000.

The two victims of the kidnaping were George Howard, 17, and Charles Sohn, 16, who told Omaha police their abductors released them here early today and fled in their car.

Howard and Sohn related that they were returning to their homes last night from a dance at Sioux City, Iowa, when they were flagged by two men afoot, who asked them for a ride to Sioux City's outskirts. When the pair entered the car, they said, they pulled guns and ordered them to drive to Winnebago, Neb.

When Winnebago was reached the men ordered them to continue to Omaha, the kidnaped couple reported. Omaha is 100 miles from South Sioux City.

MAP 50-YEAR BATTLE ON LIQUOR IN AMERICA

San Francisco—(AP)— A fight to last 50 years if necessary, to free the nation from the "curse of intoxicating liquor," was in the making as the Christian Endeavor society of the United States went into business sessions today.

The golden jubilee convention, by resolution yesterday changed its slogan, adopted in 1911—"a saloonless nation by 1920"—to read "a nation freed from the curse of intoxicating liquor, if it takes 50 years to bring it to pass."

By acclamation, some 16,000 delegates voiced their approval of a resolution carrying the new slogan and denouncing "the unwarranted attacks that are being made by selfish interest upon the present generation of American youth."

MAJORITY AT MEETING SEE HARM IN PLAN

Minority Favors Proposal to Allow 15 Per Cent Increase in Rates

Madison—(AP)— The majority of some 40 representatives of freight shippers and receivers met here today with A. R. McDonald, member of the Public Service commission, expressed disapproval of the proposed 15 per cent increase in freight rates.

Commissioner McDonald last week was chosen one of seven state commissioners who will attend the first hearing before the Interstate Commerce commission in Washington Wednesday. He took no stand at today's conference.

Some shippers expressed the opinion that an increase in rate will cause railroads to lose patronage and that the increase will add $15,000,000 to Wisconsin's freight bill. Others expressed a belief that railroads could aid business by reducing operating costs rather than by gaining higher rates.

The Gisholt Machine Co., Madison; General Products Co., Manitowoc, and Cooper's of Kenosha dissented from the views of the majority. The Oshkosh Chamber of Commerce took no stand inasmuch as its members are divided on the question. F. W. Coombs, vice president of the Gisholt company, pointed out that the prosperity of his firm depended upon the well being of the railroads. He said the rate increase would do no harm if advanced uniformly throughout the country.

Paper Mill Objects

Among the firms which registered opposition to the proposed increase were the Hamilton Manufacturing Co., Two Rivers; the Marathon Paper Mills Co., Merrill; the James Manufacturing Co., Ft. Atkinson; the Kohler Co., Kohler; the Malleable Iron and Range Co., Beaver Dam. Among the representatives here were:

C. A. Granger, Lehigh Valley Coal Sales Co.; A. Teller, Western Fuel Co.; H. C. Maas, Callaway Fuel Co.; John F. Mayer, United Coal and Dock Co.; all of Milwaukee; W. H. Johnson; Kiel Woodenware Co., Kiel; J. G. Kelley, Gillette Rubber Co., Eau Claire.

W. F. Kerwin, Green Bay Traffic association; Lyman C. Conger and S. J. Hoehmke, Kohler; H. E. Bocher, Hamilton Manufacturing Co., two Rivers; J. W. Whitaker, Aluminum Goods Manufacturing Co., Manitowoc; R. J. Laubenstein, Green Bay Association of Commerce; J. R. Davy, Sheboygan Association of Commerce; George F. Kull, Madison, secretary, Wisconsin Manufacturers' association; R. T. Luess and J. A. Schmercin, Menasha Woodenware Co.; J. R. Hapstrom, Marathon Paper Mills Co., Merrill, and G. C. Campbell, Oshkosh Chamber of Commerce.

PASSENGER TRAIN IS DELAYED BY COLLISION

Green Bay—(AP)—A four-hour delay in the schedule of Chicago and Northwestern passenger train No. 111 operating between Chicago and Ashland, Wis., was caused Saturday night shortly before midnight by a collision with a freight train at Duck Creek, near here.

The passenger train, northbound out of Green Bay, traveling on the main track at a low speed struck three rear cars of the freight train pulling in to a passing track, derailing them and damaging the pilot and cylinder head of the locomotive. Neither the locomotive nor cars of the passenger were derailed, and there were no injuries.

SAVE LIFE OF MAN OVERCOME IN WELL

Green Bay—(AP)— Dragged from the bottom of a 35-foot well overcome by dynamite fumes, William H. Platen, 39, Oneida, was recovering in a hospital here today after physicians had despaired for his life. He was overcome from the fumes while working in the bottom of the pit. Artificial respiration and oxygen was applied for more than an hour before he emerged to consciousness.

Justice Delays Action In Fall's Prison Decision

Texas or New Mexico Institution to Receive Former Interior Secretary

Washington—(AP)—After a lengthy conference with attorneys, Justice Bailey in the District of Columbia Supreme court today postponed action in the case of Albert B. Fall until tomorrow. There was no explanation for the postponement.

Justice Bailey on Saturday had refused to suspend the one year jail sentence given Fall for accepting a $100,000 bribe for an oil lease while he was secretary of the interior.

The justice had agreed, however, to permit a consultation to determine whether Fall would agree to have a day added to his sentence so that the attorney general might be given the discretion of assigning him to a western prison.

Physicians had reported that Fall was a victim of inactive tuberculosis and that if he were brought to an eastern jail it might become active. Either Texas or New Mexico, has been suggested as a place where he might be sent to serve his sentence.

Fall was reported to have agreed to the change and Frank Hogan, his attorney, was expected today to present the motion for the modification to Justice Bailey, but apparently some hitch developed.

Neither Hogan nor District Attorney Rover would comment after the conference in Justice Bailey's chambers. Hogan said the matter would be presented to Justince Bailey tomorrow but declined to say whether he would ask for a modification.

Fall now is in El Paso, Texas.

El Paso, Texas—(AP)— Albert B. Fall was resigned today to the prospect of serving a prison term on conviction of accepting a bribe while he was secretary of the interior.

Ending a long fight based on the assertion Fall's health would break in confinement, a member of his family announced yesterday that the former cabinet officer had agreed to the addition of a day to his one-year sentence in order that the time might be served outside the District of Columbia.

Te expressed a desire to enter the penitentiary of New Mexico, his home state. That plea was contained in a message from Dr. J. H. Gambrell, his private physician, to Frank Hogan, Fall's Washington counsel.

Dr. Gambrell said the climate of Washington would affect adversely the health of the former secretary, who was convicted of accepting $100,000 from E. L. Doheny for leasing of the Elk Hills Naval oil reserve.

Fall came to the El Paso home of his wife several weeks ago from his Three Rivers, N. M., ranch for physical examinations following refusal of the supreme court to review his conviction. His physicians said service of the sentence in an eastern prison would result in his early death. An order that he serve the term was based on a subsequent report of government physicians.

Members of Fall's family said his side of the case had never been told, and that when the public learned the facts it would recognize him as "the most unjustly treated man in history."

ASKS FOR DATA ON OFFICIAL'S OUSTER

Lamont Calls for Full Statement on Discharge of Economist

Washington—(AP)— Secretary Lamont today called on the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce for a full statement on the controversy which resulted in the discharge of Dr. Ray O. Hall, former economist of the department.

Hall, in a letter to Secretary made public last night, charged the division of finance and investment had suppressed facts and falsified figures used in computing the balance of international payments. A study issued annually by the department carrying estimates of all items that make up the country's foreign trade.

It includes many items such as tourist expenditures and imports and exports that cannot be listed through customs houses and purports to show within a reasonable percentage the total trade of this country with the rest of the world.

The secretary received the letter at the president's Rapidan camp yesterday. Assistant Secretary Klein was with Lamont and the letter was turned over to him with instructions to obtain a full statement. Klein asked Director Feiker of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, to obtain the statement.

The secretary said that any further comment from the department on Hall's charges would depend on the nature of the statement.

Hall in his letter claimed that the estimate of $733,000,000 for net exports of capital during 1930 was "greatly exaggerated" and that statements as to prohibition's effect on tourist travel to Canada and the influence of the Smoot-Hawley tariff on merchandise imports were suppressed.

He also charged the United States had been alternately inflating and deflating the totals of the capital importing nations of the world and that statements from 20 leading economists bearing out this fact had been deleted from the study.

2 HUGE TRUST FUNDS ARE HELD TAX EXEMPT

Washington—(AP)—Two trusts aggregating $39,643,000, created by the late James B. Duke for his daughter Doris Duke, today were held exempt from federal estate taxes by the board of tax appeals.

The board overruled the commissioner of internal revenue who included the trusts in Duke's gross estate and sought to collect a $9,040,000 deficiency tax. It allowed a deficiency of $500,000 which was admitted by the executors of Duke's will.

4 TO BE QUIZZED IN FATAL DRINKING PARTY

Milwaukee—(AP)—Coroner A. C. Grundman today planned to question four men concerning an alleged dringing party that preceded the deaths Saturday of Mrs. Elizabeth Palowski, 60, roomig house landlady and Anton Tomekewicz, 58, a roomer. They burned to death when the place caught fire.

Firemen stumbled over their bodies as they entered the kitchen of the burning house. The fire was started in a lean-to shed adjoining the kitchen, and cut off their only means of escape from the kitchen, a window.

IOWAN ELECTROCUTED DURING HEAVY STORM

Des Moines—(AP)—A man tentatively identified as Beech Aiken of Clarinda, Iowa, was killed as a result of a heavy wind and rain storm which struck southwest Iowa Sunday evening. He stepped on a power line wire which had been broken and was lying on the ground. A small fire broke out in the Burlington hotel after lightning struck a nearby tree.

Additional damage was reported from New Market and Blockton and electricians from nearby towns were called in to restore telephone, telegraph and electrical service in the towns affected by the storm.

SCHMELING IN GERMANY

Bremerhaven, Germany—(AP)—Max Schmeling, world's champion heavyweight prize fighter, was welcomed by hundreds today as he arrived aboard the liner Europa. He took a plane for Berlin.

Filipinos Stone Group Of U. S. Army Officers

Manila—(AP)—At least two Americans were slightly injured today when a crowd of between 200 and 300 Filipinos overran the grounds of the Army and Navy club and stoned army officers and their wives in an outdoor swimming pool when club attaches sought to expel the mob.

Captain Fred Adams, Thirty-first infantry, and Robert Davis, young son of an army officer, were reported hurt. Police cleared the grounds of the intruders.

The independence demonstration, staged for Senator Harry B. Hawes of Missouri and Senator Key Pittman of Nevada, advocates of Philippine freedom, drew a throng estimated at between 100,000 and 200,000 persons. Another 50,000 participated in a parade described as a gesture to convince the senators that the people of the islands were united in their desire for political freedom.

The crowd was so dense that only a fraction of the paraders was able to pass the reviewing stand, in which Hawes and Pittman stood. The paraders carried banners in English, Spanish and Tagalog (native language) bearing independence slogans.

Both senators spoke, asserting the demonstration was the most convincing proof they had yet seen of the desire of the people for independence.

MILD DECLINE ON U. S. MARTS IN REICH CRISIS

Selling Pressure Lightens Shortly After Weak Opening on Exchanges

New York—(AP)— Although Germany's financial crisis gave the New York Stock market a flurry in the early trading today, prices rallied sluggishly from the lows during the ensuing hours and closed with moderate net declines.

New York—(AP)—American financial markets weakened at the start today, in response to the weekend developments in Germany, but selling pressure lightened as trading wore on.

Several prominent stocks dropped $1 to $5 as the market opened, but these losses were reduced substantially by the end of the first hour. Trading was only moderately active.

Wall-st banking circles looked to the meeting at the world bank at Basle today for constructive measures. While formal comment was withheld, it was understood that American banking interests are prepared to participate in a large credit to Germany.

It was pointed out in banking circles that the drastic measures taken in Germany, were necessary to assure success of an international credit. Bankers here asserted last week that a "housecleaning" in the German financial situation must precede such a move. They explained that the credit arrangement would have to include all of the leading capital markets, pointing out that it would be futile for New York and London to extend a large credit, then have it offset by withdrawals of credits to Germany by French banks.

Trading in the German mark was virtually at a standstill, owing to the measures taken by the Reichsbank to check its losses of foreign exchange. The mark closed here on Saturday at 23.70 cents for cable transfers, and was nominally quoted around 23 cents today after sharp declines at the start of trading. Some dealers had quoted as low as 18 cents, and it was rumored that there had been quotations as low as 16.

Losses are Checker

U. S. Steel common dropped $3.50 at the start with a 5,000 share transaction, then reduced its loss to $2. American Telephone, after selling $2.52, recovered about $1. American Can regained about half of a loss of nearly 2. Auburn Auto, always an erratic performer, dropped nearly $9, then reduced its loss to $5. Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe, after selling off about $5 rebounded about $2.

General Motors and Bethlehem Steel sold off nearly $1, then recovered much of their loss. General electric and several other important issues lost less than $1.

Attention converged upon the German government issues in the bond market. The Young plan, or 5½ per cent issue, tumbled to its previous low of $830 per bond of $1,000 par value, then was supported. It was turned over in large volume, the 7 per cent, or Dawes plan issue, dropped more than $60 per $1,000 bond to a new low price.

Further conferences were in progress at the New York federal Reserve bank today, following the protracted discussions there over the weekend. While comment was withheld, it was understood that Owen D. Young, and other prominent persons were in attendance.

BANK AT EAU CLAIRE IS ORDERED CLOSED

Eau Claire—(AP)—The Eau Claire Savings bank was closed today by the state banking department at the request of the institution's board of directors.

A statement issued by the board said plans for reorganization were being made and that the closing was deemed best in order to safeguard depositors following withdrawals after rumors of the institution's condition had been circulated.

The last statement, published July 6, showed deposits of $753,554.74 and loans, discounts and rediscounts of $559,623.56. The bank was incorporated in 1906 and was capitalized for $50,000.

Pantages Is Free In Girl Market Case

Three Co-defendants Also Escape Further Court Action in Charges

San Diego, Calif.—(AP)—Alexander Pantages, multi-millionaire showman, and his three co-defendants in the "girl market" case, were freed of conspiracy and morals charges today by Superior Judge L. N. Turrentine on motion of District Attorney Tom Whelan.

Whelan informed the court when the case was called for retrial that he did not believe a jury would bring in a verdict of guilty as a result of the showing made at the first trial as to the past life of Lydia Nitto, youthful complaining witness.

Pantages was accused of conspiring with Jesse H. Shreve, prominent San Diego business man, and Olive Clark Day and William Jobelmann, alleged operators of a Hollywood "girl mart," to bring Miss Nitto here to a hotel party for immoral purposes. The jurors at the first trial disagreed, nine of the twelve favoring acquittal.

Whelan also moved for the dismissal of charges against Shreve, Mrs. Day and Jobelmann, accused in a separate complaint of bringing Helen Livingston, another girl, from Hollywood to the party last Oct. 30.

Judge Turrentine granted the dismissal motions without comment.

POST AND GATTY MAP AIR TOUR OF COUNTRY

New York—(AP)— Wiley Post and Harold Gatty return to New York this week to prepare for a tour of the country, to last from six to eight weeks.

The National Broadcasting company announced today that their itinerary has not been completed, but present plans, in filling as many requests as possible, call for a figure eight" flight over the continent.

The aviators will wing across New England, into the central and middlewest, across the southwest, up the Pacific coast, through the northwest, over another middle western route into the south and up the Atlantic coast to end in the east.

MISTAKES GRANDSIRE FOR DOG, KILLS HIM

Ashland—(AP)—Mistaken for a dog, William Roehm, 76, Ashland milk man was shot by his grandson, Forest Munson, 14, and died last night.

The boy was sleeping in a tent Saturday night and rapped on his grandfather's window when dogs began molesting pet rabbits and chickens nearby. Roehm gave his grandson a rifle, helped rout the dogs without shooting, and it was believed went back to bed.

MISSING PROSPECTOR SOUGHT BY AIRPLANE

Phoenix, Ariz.—(AP) — An airplane search of the Superstition mountain range for A. Ruth, 65-year-old former government clerk of Washington, D. C., missing since June 15, was directed today by his son, Dr. Erwin C. Ruth, also of Washington.

QUICK RELIEF IS NECESSARY, SACKETT SAYS

Collapse of Large Berlin Bank Subject of Discussion at Basel

HOOVER STUDIES CRISIS

Europe's Banking Institutions Must Take Lead, Is American View

Basel, Switzerland—(AP)—Directors of the Bank for International Settlements met today for what was expected to be one of their most important sessions.

Dr. Hans Luther, head of the German Reichsbank, arrived by airplane from Berlin.

The collapse of the Darmstaedter und National bank of Berlin and overnight developments in the German cabinet were subjects of grave discussion at the world bank headquarters and it was assumed that any action toward extending credits to Germany would be deferred until Dr. Luther arrived.

In quarters usually well informed it was suggested that extension of short-term credits is likely to be the measure the directors will take for Germany's relief.

Washington—(AP)— Speedy financial relief for Germany was declared essential in a report to the state department today from Ambassador Sackett at Berlin.

Meanwhile, President Hoover returned to the White House from his Rapidan camp in Virginia and gave close attention to the situation. He had no engagements for the day and was able to devote his entire time to the German crisis.

Acting Secretary Mills of the treasury was an early caller at the White House remaining closeted with the president for a lengthy conference.

The administration had announced that while American banks were ready to cooperate to help Germany in her struggle against large withdrawals of short term foreign credits, it was up to Europe's banking institutions to take the lead.

Ambassador Sackett made no mention of American assistance in his report to the state department. But he did say help must be forthcoming quickly. His report was dispatched after a conference with German officials.

In a statement last night following a meeting of Federal Reserve bank officials in New York, Acting Secretary Mills said the American government regarded the latest German problem as fundamentally European and one to be solved "through the initiative and concerted action of those who are closest to the situation."

He added that over $400,000,000 had been available for rehabilitation of German industry and commerce by virtue of the Hoover debt moratorium.

"That," he said, "is the only direction in which our government has either the opportunity or the authority to intervene."

Berlin—(AP)—Chancellor Bruening's government today appealed to the German people to keep their heads in this time of financial distress and not to make things worse by losing confidence in the Fatherland.

"President Hoover's moratorium plan afforded a great relief to our economic situation, a proclamation issued in the name of the government asserted. "A large sum which Germany was entitled to claim to retain could, by virtue of that plan, be restored to the banks.

"The weeks during which the struggle in connection with this plan has gone on have, however, done enormous damage to private business. Millions loaned to Germany from abroad have been withdrawn because of the uncertainty of the situation.

"Even today complete tranquility has not been restored.

"Although our aim must be that the German economic system shall once more be able to work with its own means, it is now necessary if severe interruptions are to be avoided that further withdrawals shall cease.

"Efforts of the Reichsbank and gold discount bank are directed to obtaining from abroad credits of the longest possible term to aid private business and to relieve their distress.

"Despite all efforts, in the course of these events one of our largest banking institutions—the Darmstaedter und National bank—has suspended payments.

"The government considers it to be its duty—and the president had granted the necessary powers—to meet the great dangers which threaten as a result of this suspension.

Must Save Customers

"It is not a question of saving the bank's assets, but of saving the property of hundreds of thousands of its customers, thereby saving their business from interruption or even from ruin.

"From these viewpoints alone the government will, in case of deficien-

Twelve Lives Lost In U. S. And Canada In Airplane Crashes

TWO PERISH IN CHICAGO AS SHIP FALLS TO EARTH

Two Die in Arkanses, Two in Missouri and Two in Saskatchewan

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Airplane accidents over the week-end claimed the lives of twelve persons in the United States and Canada, and another died as a result of injuries he suffered in a plane crash last Wednesday.

Chester Bailes, 32, Kansas City and William Warren, 22, San Antonio, Texas, burned to death in a crash at the Chicago municipal airport. Bailes was a pilot for the Braniff Airlines, Inc., and Warren a pilot for the Century Airlines, Inc. Witnesses said the plane had risen to approximately 700 feet when the motor quit after a takeoff.

Miss Elizabeth Osborn, 16, and Miss Ruby Hinson, 18, both of Jonesboro, Ark., were killed when the plane in which they were riding with H. E. Lewhead, pilot, fell to earth near Janesboro. Lewhead was dangerously injured.

At Harrisonville, Mo., an airplane piloted by Irwin Vrooman, Kansas City, became entangled in a tree and crashed in flames burning to death George Colburn, 17, Manhattan, Kas., and Ershul Thomas, 24, Harrisonville. Vrooman, who suffered burns, died early today.

Art Bielby, pilot and William Bramphall, passenger, both of Lloydminster, Sask., were killed Saturday night at Lloydminster. Their plane fell from a height of 1,200 feet. W. Lang, Kitscoty, Alta., another passenger, was injured.

Charles Sugg, 30, St. Clair, Mich., died yesterday in a Martins Ferry, Ohio, hospital of a fractured skull received last Wednesday when his plane smashed into a hill at Yorkville, Ohio, while he was participating in a national air tour.

Two Trinidad, Colo., business men lost their lives Saturday in the crash of a plane at the Trinidad airport. They were F. L. Hazeltine, licensed pilot, and Martin J. Gleason.

Frank Stage, 42, pilot of a plane which crashed at Buffalo, N. Y., yesterday, died today of internal injuries. Two passengers in the plane at the time of the accident are in serious condition.

TRAGEDY IN CHICAGO

Chicago —(AP)— Two experienced pilots were carried to their deaths yesterday when a giant, $20,000 airplane crashed to the ground at 150-mile speed from an altitude of 700 feet.

An explosion, which followed, caused a fire which charred the bodies of Chester R. Bailes, 32, Kansas City, pilot for Barniff Airways, Inc., and William R. Warren, 32, of San Antonio, pilot for the Century Airways. They were old friends. Warren was flying with Bailes on his day off, merely to keep him company.

The ship was borrowed by the Barniff Airways last week from the Detroit Aircraft company. After a slight accident yesterday morning, Bailes was instructed to return it to Detroit. He had traveled only a half mile when the motor sputtered. Making a sharp bank, he lost altitude. At about 60 feet, the nose dipped and the plane drove itself deeply into the ground.

The accident was under investigation today by the Barniff company, the airport officials, the city aviation commission and the state commerce commission.

Two arms of fire leaped 50 feet into the air from the wing gasoline tanks as 125 gallons of fuel flared about the trapped men, strapped to their cockpit, as the explosion followed the crash.

The motor was shoved so far back that Bailes, at the controls, was found astride it. When firemen finally extinguished the flames, it was little more than twisted metal.

The ship came into the municipal airport Saturday evening with six passengers. Yesterday morning it was wheeled out of its hangar to carry two passengers to Kansas City. At that moment an inconing Century Airlines plane, taxiing across the field, clipped a wing, damaging the body fabric, but causing no structural injury apparent at the time.

Bailes, reporting the accident to his Kansas Cit yoffice, was instructed to cancel the Kansas City flight and fly the plane back to the Detroit distributors.

After the damage was repaired, Bailes, with Warren as a passenger, took off.

"It got off nicely," G. W. Beam, licensed mechanic for the Century lines said. "It reached an altitude of 700 feet in a few moments and headed toward Detroit. Half a mile out of the airport I heard the motor sputter and cough. Bailes swung into an abrupt bank for a turn back to the airport, the angle carrying the plane so low that it barely had clearance over the line of houses.

"The ship lost flying speed on the swing and wasn't over 60 feet in the air when the nose dipped and the plane roared straight for the ground, diving at 150-mile speed."

E. Haldemann-Julius, above, publisher in Girard, Kan., has been sued for $500,000 damages in federal court at Chicago by Harold A. Moore, vice president of the American Bond and Mortgage Company, now in the hands of a receiver, which financed the Mayflower hotel at Washington, D. C. Moore alleges that the publisher, in magazine articles, linked his company's financing of the hotel "in a defamatory manner" with the allegedly small rent paid by Vice President Curtis who has an apartment therein.

CANTON QUIET AFTER FLOOD WATERS SUBSIDE

Hongkong—(AP)—Canton remained quiet today while relief for sufferers from recent floods and speculation on the attacks of Korean mobs on Chinese monopolized the attention of southern insurrectionist leaders.

However, with the return of flood waters to their natural channels, some military preparations were resumed against a feared invasion of Chiang Kai-Shek and his Nationalist troops from the north.

Canton troops were being concentrated in Wuchow and Liuchow for an advance into human province. Several units, whose loyalty was questioned, were disarmed.

The former Kwangsi province leader, Wang Shao-Hung, who was repudiated by southern leaders after his reconciliation with Nanking, has been readmittted to the Kwangsi fold and offered a military governorship.

The southerners were reported actively inviting all available support from other provinces and were sending abroad propagandist emissaries, including Yu Hing-Wo, who left for the United States.

MAY FINISH CONCRETE PAVING BY WEDNESDAY

If weather permits, all concrete paving in the city will be completed by Wednesday night. However, traffic on the three newly paved streets will not be permitted until the concrete sets.

The east end of South River-st, left open to permit hauling to the new Institute building, was paved Saturday afternoon, and Verbrick-st was finished Saturday. The paving of W. Washington-st. started Monday and will be completed Wednesday.

The grading on Ida-st is finished, and the curb and gutter has been laid on River-dr. These two streets will be finished with warrenite bitulithic.

P. T. A. ANNUAL PICNIC SET FOR NEXT SUNDAY

GRAIN CORPORATION LEASES WAREHOUSES TO HANDLE CROPS

Also Acquires Sufficient Additional Space for Emergency Use

Chicago—(AP)—The Farmers National Grain corporation announced today that 39 warehouses and elevators have been leased in Idaho and Utah and that negotiations had been practically completed for the purchase of the Soo line terminal elevator at Minneapolis.

The Minneapolis elevator, the corporation announcement said, has a capacity of 2,300,000 bushels, is of modern concrete construction and is electrically equipped for fast operations. Sufficient ground for additional storage space, should it be found desirable later, was included in the purchase.

Twenty-three of the 39 warehouses and elevators leased in Idaho and Utah were from the Colorado Milling and Elevator company, Denver. The other 16 were from the Globe Milling and Elevator company, Ogden, Utah.

Several other elevators have been purchased or leased in the Colorado territory, insuring stockholders of the grain corporation in the three states efficient service in handling the new crop, the corporation said.

"Acquisition of elevator and warehouse properties in the inter-mountain territory, following the launching of a $1,000,00 facilities program in the Pacific northwest, puts the National Grain cooperative in a strong position for the handling of the grain business of these two territories," said C. E. Huff, president of the corporation. "Facilities built and to be built or acquired in the Pacific northwest include not only local warehouses, but considerable storage space both at the important terminals and inland.

"Important expansion of Farmers National Grain corporation operating plans in other areas also has taken place. Stockholders of the corporation in Colorado, Missouri and Nebraska, in addition to those in the Pacific northwest and intermountain country, have contracted with the national agency for the direct handling of members' grain.

"Under these agreements, Farmers National Grain corporation will meet the growers of grain at their local shipping points, permit them to exercise full option as to when their grain shall be sold, provide a continuous market for grain in any quantity and at the same time eliminate duplication of service in the handling and selling of the commodity.

"In areas where co-operatively owner facilities do not exist, Farmers National Grain corporation, under the operating agreements with its stockholders, undertakes to provide such facilities, by purchase, lease or construction, and to operate them in the most efficient and helpful relationship to the local producer groups."

BREWERY BUSINESS GROWING IN ENGLAND

Chicago—(AP)—The Woman's Christian Temperance union today said in a statement that the brewery business in England has been expanding year by year in spite of bad business in other lines. "England is spending one-thirteenth of its entire national income for liquor," the statement said.

Dirigible Destroyed As Storm Blows It Against High Tension Power Line

Kansas City —(AP)— A sudden storm swept the $60,000 Goodyear dirigible Mayflower to destruction against high tension wires near the municipal airport here last night.

Capt. Charles E. Brannigan, 35, the pilot, was burned dangerously in an attempt to weather alone a high wind that jerked the 140-foot craft from its mooring and a ground crew.

Gasoline spilling from tanks ruptured by a crash against the roof of the army hangar was ignited as the Mayflower hurtled against a transformer. The bag was filled with helium gas, which is non-inflammable, but flames poured over the gondola. Captain Brannigan fell with the cage in front of a northbound freight train on railway tracks below. The train halted 50 yards away. Brannigan was rescued by a co-pilot, R. H. Hobensack, who with Claude Hendershot, a member of the crew, had dropped to safety a moment before. Hobensack, his clothing drenched by rain, was burned slightly. Hospital physicians said Brannigan's condition was critical.

The Akron, Ohio, airship carried passengers over the city throughout the afternoon. It had been moored to a portable mast for the night less than hour before the storm struck.

The mast held through the first blow, but indications that it would increase in intensity caused Captain Brannigan to order the dirigible released to ride it out. A heavy gust, however, caught the dirigible before the crew could act, wrested away ground ropes and tore out the six stakes holding down the mast.

Ray Horton, a crew member, dropped to earth from an outside railing. The ground men were left sprawling. Hobensack and Hendershot seized opportunities to jump from the cabin. Hendershot lost two teeth. The fuel tanks burst as another gust hurled it to the roof of the hangar.

"I don't know how far it was to the ground," Hendershot said, "but I took the frames of two windows with me getting out of there."

One burst drove the ship to the ground, the fuel tanks burst when another hurled it to the roof of the hangar. The high tension line was struck a moment later.

The Mayflower was used by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in experimental meteorological work two years ago of south Dartmouth, Mass., under sponsorship of Col. E. H. R. Green, Texas and Florida financier.

DOG SLED RACER AND ENGINEER ARE WED

Elizabeth Miller Ricker Is Bride of Kaare Nansen, Son of Explorer

Boston—(AP)—In a romance of the great outdoors Elizabeth Miller Ricker, internationally known dog-sled racer, and Kaare Nansen, a forest engineer and son of the late Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, famous Norwegian explorer, have been married.

Mrs. Ricker was introduced to Nansen about eight months ago and they were married last Tuesday, six days after her divorce from Edward P. Ricker, Jr., of Poland Spring, Me., wealthy resort owner, became absolute. Ricker sued for an obtained the divorce. Mrs. Ricker did not contest the suit.

Her keen interest in Nansen's work in plotting the vast Canadian north woods was reciprocated by his admiration for her achievements as a dog sled racer and writer.

Mrs. Nansen's, probably the best known woman dog sled racer in the world, broke the record for the 25-mile course at Poland Spring in 1930, defeating Leonard Seppala by 90 seconds. A native of Providence, R. I., she was married to Edward P. Ricker, Jr., in 1922. She has written several stories based on dog sled racing, including "Togo's Fireside Reflections," a tale woven around Seppala's famous dash in 1925 with anti-toxin to diphtheria-stricken Nome, Alaska.

Nansen is the eldest son of the Arctic explorer who died in 1930. The couple will spend part of their honeymoon in Norway, where Mrs. Nansen will devote some time to practicing for dog sled races she plans to enter in 1932.

LIST RULES FOR KRAFT INDUSTRY

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)

Washington—Trade practice rules for the kraft paper industry are made public today by the Federal Trade commission following the industry's acceptance of changes of wording the rules as originally drafted at a conference held in Washington in June 1929. This conference represented 85 per cent of the kraft paper industry and was held under the direction of Commissioner William E. Humphrey of the Federal Trade Commission and Stephen C. Van Fleet, and George McCorkle, Assistant Directors, Trade Practice Conferences.

Ten group 1 rules were approved by the Commission for legal enforcement. They prohibit such practices as inducing breach of contract, defamation of competitors, false disparagement of the grade or quality of a competitor's paper, enticing employes of a competitor, price discrimination, secret payment of rebates, selling goods below cost with the intent of injuring a competitor, deviation from established standards of the industry, and offering merchandise for sale at a price reduced from a marked-up or fictitious figure.

One other suggested first group rule suggested by the industry for enforcement by the Commission was rejected by the trade governing body.

Two group II rules were accepted by the Commission as expressions of the trade, not for legal enforcement, but five other proposed rules in this group were refused acceptance by the Commission.

The accepted second group rules condemning the selling of kraft paper in violation to the new rules under an old contract, if the old contract is invalid, and provides for the creation of a committee on trade practices to cooperate with the Federal Trade Commission in putting the new rules into effect.

MOST ACCIDENTS AVOIDABLE, SAY CIVIC LEADERS

Impress Children With Need for Caution, Parents Advised

Accidents of all kinds and especially automobile accidents, are avoidable, in the opinion of Appleton civic club leaders.

"Safety week brings to mind the constant yearly increase in accidents of all kinds," said Dr. J. B. MacLaren, president of Appleton Rotary club. "They are largely avoidable, particularly those occurring to automobiles in which injuries sustained by the occupantts are often diabbing and disfiguring and the pedestrian is no more safe than occupants of vehicles.

"This week stress should be laid on these facts in every home in Appleton so they will be ever uppermost in the public mind.

"There is no amount of insurance or damage that can compensate for the loss of life or a crippled body and it behooves all of us to prevent accidents whereever possible."

A plea to parents to drill into minds of children the need for caution when they cross streets, either while going somewhere or while playing near their homes, was made by George E. Johnson, president of the Lions club.

Up To Parents

"If parents impress upon children the need for caution when playing about streets or when crossing streets, accidents will be cut down materially," Mr. Johnson said.

"Youngsters are at an impressionable age, and strict training and teaching in their manner of crossing streets will remain with them for years. It takes but a few minutes daily to warn youngsters about automobiles. If they are thoroughly impressed with the need for care they'll stop the minute they step off a curb and look in both directions before venturing a step further. Children of parents who have received proper warning always can be noted as they cross a street.

"No automobile driver, no one, as a matter of fact, wants to injure a child. The responsibility for accidents that may befall youngsters therefore remains with the parents first and the children second—but primarily with the parents. A word of warning now and then will remain firm in a child's mind."

That motorists would do well to check their automobiles, especially the brakes, and when driving at night, the windshields, is the warning of Walter Hughes, president of the Kiwanis club.

Should Check Brakes

"Every day one hears of motorists who comment on the narrow escape from an accident they have had," he said. And all too often the comment is that 'the brakes didn't hold.' The condition of the car isn't negligence—it's usually carelessness, for the driver no more cares to get smashed up than to injure someone else. Check those brakes—it may save the life of a youngster or an older person who might dodge in front of your car or it might save you from smashing into some other car or leaving the road if you misjudge speed at a corner.

"Wind shields, something seldom considered by motorists, often cause accidents and many motorists can't figure out 'how it happened' or 'I never saw him'

"Drivers carelessly permit windshields to become dust covered or spotted with bugs. The glass becomes cloudy and diffuses light of approaching cars so much that objects along side the street or highways cannot be discerned until it is too late. And dirty, dusty windshields often cause the glare that blinds drivers when another car approaches."

TOM THUMB GOLF TEAMS PLAY 1ST TOURNEY OF YEAR

The first miniature golf tournament of the season will be held at 5 o'clock tomorrow night at the Tom Thumb course, Superior and Franklin sts, when a team of four picked players representing that course will tackle a team of four players representing Carey's Barbecue course. The teams will battle 36 holes. A sharp rivalry is said to exist between the stars of the two courses and a hard fought contest is expected. The public has been invited to watch the contest.

The down-town course will be represented by a team composed of Robert Roemer, Jack Kimball, Arthur Loose and Joseph Gilman, while Carey's Barbecue course will send Howard Melzer, Clarence Eggert, Gerald Frogner and Karl Zilske to uphold its supremacy. It is probable a return match will be played later at the Barbecue course.

SIX BADGERS ATTEND BAPTIST CONVENTION

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)

Washington—Wisconsin is represented by six delegates at the international convention of the Baptist Young People's Union of America now in session in Washington.

The Rev. W. L. Harms of Oshkosh, Kay Mullin and Frances Straw, both of Kenosha, and Willard Le Grand and Caroline Schmitz of Milwaukee comprise the Wisconsin delegation.

Among the interesting features of the convention program was a forum discussion of modern problems facing young people of today. This included a discussion of prohibition. Visits to Mount Vernon and other historical points in Washington and its vicinity were also included in the schedule of the convention delegates.

CONFESSION OF YOUTH BRINGS OTHER ARRESTS

Wisps of Oat Straw Leads to Arrest and Solution of Badger Holdup

Milwaukee — (AP) —After Sheriff John Anderson of Racine-co obtained a confession from a Rochester man of the holdup of Mrs. Roberta Winkler, assistant postmistress of Rochester, Wis., two Milwaukeeans were arrested today and confessed complicity.

Of the $800 loot seized in the holdup local authorities announced recovery of $62 in cash and $42 in stamps. The remainder, the officers were told, was buried in a field near Waterford. Sheriff Anderson left here this morning with the two Milwaukeeans to recover it.

Young confessed, Sheriff Anderson said, after six hours of questioning. The youth was picked up at Rochester on suspicion when the shreiff noticed wisps of oat straw on his trousers cuff and the framework of his automobile. The sheriff previously learned the robbers' automobile was parked in an oat field near the scene of the hold-up, which occurred Saturday night.

Anderson and Buege admitted, local authorities said, they became frightened after the robbery and did not return to the oat field. They proceeded to Milwaukee on an interurban while Young waited vainly for their return and finally drove to Rochester.

Mrs. Winkler was held up in her garage while carrying the day's receipts from the postoffice and the general store in which the postoffice is housed. Postmaster C. W. Atherton was absent.

DIVORCES APPLETON MAN IN OSHKOSH COURT

Mrs. Ethel B. Dengel, Oshkosh, was granted a divorce from her husband, Jacob J. Dengel, Appleton, formerly of New London, in municipal court at Oshkosh Saturday morning. Dengel works in Appleton.

Mrs. Dengel alleged her husband became deeply interested in another woman and no longer cared for her. She also stated he had been quarrelsome. The plaintiff stated she has been in ill health and needs a surgical operation.

The Dengels were married Jan. 29, 1917 and have no children. Dengel will assume joint indebtedness and will pay $45 a month alimony. Mrs. Dengel resumed her maiden name, Ethel B. Williams.

OVER 3,000 ENROLLED AT GUARD ENCAMPMENT

Camp Douglas, Wis. —(AP)— More than 3,000 young men of Wisconsin, members of the national guard, were started on intensive military training here today.

this year has a better attendance

The 15-day training encampment than for several years, said Adjutant General Ralph M. Immel, camp commander.

Gen. Immel said unemployment this year had contributed to the ability of citizens to attend the camp, which provides two weeks of "employment" with expenses paid. Many organizations within the guard reported full attendance.

The guardsmen attended church services yesterday, organized their camp, and underwent medical inspections. Today's program calls for unit instruction under regular army men attached to the guard.

Baseball teams and other sports organizations are being formed for the recreational activities.

WANTS EDUCATED FOLK TO BATTLE INJUSTICES

Madison—(AP)—There is more to life than earning a living and raising a family "when there is so much injustice," according to Prof. Jerome Davis, of the Yale Divinity school.

He would have educated persons work to relieve economic and social injustices first, and then take care of their domestic responsibilites. Prof. Davis made these statements in an address last night to a Baptist Young People's club on the University of Wisconsin campus.

The speaker, now lecturing at the university, advocated unemployment insurance and asserted fraternities on the campus should be abolished because they discourage student thinking.

Mostly fair; slightly warmer except in extreme northeast portion tonight; Tuesday partly cloudy; somewhat warmer in east and south portion.

General Weather

Light to moderate showers occurred over practically all of Wisconsin during the last 48 hours except the northeast portion, where the precipitation was light. Showers occurred quite general over the rest of the north central states and lake region since Saturday and conditions still remain unsettled because of low pressure which overlies the northwest and extends southward over the whole mountain region. Mostly fair weather is expected in this section tonight and Tuesday, with rising temperature Tuesday.

FRENZL TELLS COURT ABOUT FIGHT AT INN

Says He Was Stabbed in the Arm by Leo Sambs on Night of June 28

An account of the fight at the Blue Goose Inn on the Apple Creek-rd, north of Appleton, early Sunday morning, June 28, in which Frank Frenzl, dance hall inspector, was stabbed in the left arm, was told in municipal court by Frenzl before Judge Fred V. Heinemann Monday morning.

Frenzl occupied the stand all morning, with the exception of a few minutes when Sheriff John Lappen was called to testify about finding the knife on the side of the Inn.

Three brothers, Leo Sambs, 22, Milwaukee; Edward Sambs, 23, Appleton, and R. J. Sambs, 21, Milwaukee, are charged with assault with intent to do great bodily harm, resisting an officer and drunkenness and disorderly conduct. In addition, Leo Sambs is being charged with wielding the knife with which Frenzl was stabbed.

Frenzl testified that the trio refused to leave the Inn at 1 o'clock Sunday morning, when the place was to be closed in accordance with the county closing ordinance. He said he told the three to leave quietly, and without making a disturbance, but the trio started the fight.

Leo Wielded Knife

He testified that Edward and R. J. Sambs struck him, and that Leo Sambs wielded the knife which cut a gash six and one quarter inches long in his left elbow. He also testified that Leo Sambs ran out of the door with the knife in his hand, and pushed the railing off the porch, part of which he used to swing at the officer's head. The piece of rail, a two by four, about six feet in length was produced as evidence.

Frenzl said he charged them with arrest, and when they failed to heed his charge, he ran around the back of the Inn and produced his revolver which he had in his car. The bullet, he said, penetrated the radiator of the Sambs machine.

Frenzl said he handcuffed two of the brothers and then brought the trio to Appleton where where they were lodged in the county jail.

Bonds on the first three counts against the three was set at $300 for each and an additional bond of $1,000 was required for Leo Sambs.

M'CAULEY IGNORANT OF CANNON ENTRY IN CASE

Kenosha—(AP)—Donald McCauley, Milwaukee, carferry mate, Saturday said he didn't know anything about Raymond J. Cannon, Milwaukee attorney, being engaged as a member of defense councel for his trial on a charge of slaying Arthur H. Millies, near here, May 1.

Cannon, recently re-instated to the bar by the state legislature after the supreme court had disbarred him for "unethical conduct," announced in Milwaukee several days ago that he had been retained to defend McCauley. A. L. Drury, Kenosha attorney, engaged by McCauley, said he knew nothing of Cannon's connection with the case.

A motion before Circuit Judge E. B. Belden to set bond for McCauley will be argued Tuesday, Drury said. District Attorney Morris Barnett said he would oppose the motion.

UMPIRE HAS PLAYER ARRESTED FOR SLANDER

Donald Andrews, Weyauwega, is one baseball umpire that sticks by his own decisions to the extent of having a dissatisfied player arrested on a charge of slander. When Albert Wing, Readfield, was brought before Justice W. E. Clark Friday morning on a charge of slander, he was fined $1 and costs, amounting to $19.23. Wing protested against a close decision at second base in the Weyauwega-Readfield baseball game played at Weyauwega July 5.

ALPHABETICAL PLAN USED BY PARENTS TO NAME 16 CHILDREN

Bowman, Ga.—(AP)— For family nomenclature Mr. and Mrs. John R. Ginn, who live near here, recommend the alphabetical system, especially for a family with 16 children.

Relatives ages, they find, are easily called to mind and all element of error virtually is eliminated in giving a complete enumeration.

Their children are named as follows: Brodie, Corbin, Dorcas, Elmira, Fezzan, Gregor, Hassie, Ithmar, Jessie, Kester, Lisbon, Ramson Nelson, Ornice, Pascal and Quaver.

Ten of the children now are married and have children of their own. The family's aversion to the leter A was unexplained.

In Gas Rate Feud

Henry L. Doherty, above, New York utilities magnate, and Governor Harry H. Woodring, below, of Kansas will carry their feud over gas rates in Kansas to the courts. Doherty assailed Governor Woodring's demand for reductions as unjustified and the state has barred the sale of stock in Doherty's Cities Service Company.

FARM BOARD GETS CHEERS AT LAST, THANKS TO CO-OPS

Dairy Cooperatives Like Federal Body as Result of Ruling

BY RUBY A. BLACK
(Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent)

With the wheat belt rebelling against the refusal or the inability, of the farm board to "do something" about wheat, and that grain threatening to be the deciding factor in the 1932 presidential elections, it must be a pleasure to the farm board to be able to do something that will bring cheers from somebody.

Philadelphia dairy wholesalers complained against a reduction in milk prices made by cooperatives, specifically by Land O' Lakes Cream eries, Inc., of Minneapolis, Minn., which sells dairy products from Wisconsin and Minnesota all over the country—at least, all over the middle west and the east.

The Philadelphia concern, P. E. Sharpless company, complained that the farm board, through loans to the Land O' Lakes, is "subsidizing the cooperative, and that the cooperative is cutting prices to the detriment of privately owned competitors. Farm board speakers have repeatedly referred to the Land O' Lakes in their stories of success of cooperatives.

Claimed Price Cutting

Being hit by the competition of the cooperatively marketed Wisconsin-Minnesota milk and butter, the Philadelphia concern accused the cooperative of "indiscriminate price cutting," and extension of credit to "uncertain credit risks" in attempting to increase its sales in the Philadelphia area.

Now Philadelphia is surrounded by a rich dairy territory itself, and naturally resents the competition from the Badger and Gopher states. But somehow the great disturbance of the Philadelphia dairy wholesaler over the possibility that the cooperative would lose a lot from bad debts as a result of its activities in the City of Brotherly Love did not impress the farm board as being particularly altruistic.

Anyhow, W. F. Schilling, farm board member representing the dairy industry, wrote Sen. James J. Davis, the iron puddler, solon from Pennsylvania who was secretary of labor for so long, that the board would do nothing at all to punish the cooperative, that it exercises no paternalistic control over the cooperatives to which it lends money, that he did not care to discuss the business methods of Land O' Lakes, and that the farm board is concerned with helping the dairy industry help itself and with making loans only to cooperatives which do business in such a way as to give reasonable assurance that the loans will be repaid.

Futhermore, Schilling came back, "the board believes no private distributor of agricultural products has very much to worry about if he is performing a necessary service at a cost as low or lower than that service is being performed by the competing cooperative."

QUICK RELIEF IS NECESSARY FOR GERMANY

World Financial Experts Considering New Crisis After Bank Fails

cies, step in. It is self-evident that the bank's business will be watched by the government trustees.

"No irregularities contrary to law have been discovered.

"It is essential that the German people in this difficult situation retain their courage and not increase the trouble by losing their self-confidence."

An emergency decree, issued under the so-called dictatorship clause of the Reich constitution, was signed by President von Hindenburg and under it the Reich undertakes to guarantee deficiencies arising from the Darmstaedter's "non-liquidity."

The run which closed the Darmstaedter extended in some degree to other banks this morning, and to help prevent the panic from spreading the government closed the stock exchange for today and tomorrow.

Jacob Goldschmidt, head of Darmstaedter and regared as one of the ablest bankers in Germany, asserted today a moratorium should have been declared by all the German banks weeks ago and it ought to be declared immediately. He blamed his bank's crash on the press of the political opposition which "crystallized vague fears into the one specific fear that our bank was unsound."

Meantime the cabinet, whose members are worn by the constant sessions of several days past remained on the job.

Dr. Hens Luther, whose efforts to obtain French participation in a foreign credit for the Reichsbank were unsuccessful in that the government declined to accept conditions imposed by France, left by plane this morning for Basel to attend a meeting of the world bank directors there.

On the doors of the great Darmstaedter und National bank, one of the five largest in the country with capital and reserves of about $30,000,000, on its 63 branches in Berlin and on others throughout the Reich hung notice that it had been compelled to suspend payment.

The notice carried the assurance, however, that the government would guarantee all deposits and that "orderly liquidation" of the bank's business would be carried out.

To protect other banks and the general credit structure of the country, the government decided to issue an emergency decree binding all important banks into a credit block through which any weak unit would be protected by the assets of all, and creating a special "commissioner of devisen" with extraordinary powers to combat the alarming run on foreign currencies.

The Prussian minister of trade ordered stock exchanges in the province to remain closed today and tomorrow and at the request of the central government all other bourses did likewise in order to forestall a possible panic.

Chancellor Heinrich Bruening and his cabinet members, worn out by 40 hours of almost continuous efforts to save German credit and industry, broke up their conference with leading bankers early this morning and snatched a few hours sleep in preparation for resuming the struggle later on in the day.

A decree embodying substantially the same measures as are contemplated now would have been promulgated last night—it was already in type—but the bankers developed unexpectedly stubborn opposition, fighting against making themselves liable for the huge losses of the Danat bank.

When the bank finally was thrown overboard with the government itself assuming to guarantee its deposits, the financial leaders seemed more inclined to enter a national credit block where by they would stand or fall together. By this time, however, the morning papers had gone to press and it would have been impossible to reach the breakfast tables with the decree.

Although it was known that the Danat bank had been involved in the crash of the Nordwolle concern in Bremen, one of Germany's greatest wool-combing and worsted-spinning firms, yet other banks were affected and no one dreamed it would be forced to close its doors.

Established in 1879, it paid a dividend of 8 per cent in 1930 and dividends of 12 per cent in previous years. It employed more than 7,000 people in all its branches and was considered a financial rock. It was reported to have lost about $12,500,000 in the Nordwolle collapse.

SLENDER WAISTLINE SAVES PARACHUTE JUMPER FROM DEATH

Lewiston, Idaho —(AP)— Jackie Brown, 95-pound Los Angeles parachute jumper, has a new argument in favor of slim waistlines. Her's probably saved her life.

Jackie bailed out of her ship for an exhibition jump, intending to slip her parachute eastward to land on the airport. Instead she dropped straight down through a high tension electric power line. Two wires, two feet apart, carried 2,300 volts.

The girl, who had struggled vainly to guide the parachute away, said she just stiffened, closed her eyes, and waited. She slid between the wire and the folds of the 'chute settled down over them.

Power men said if she had closed the circuit between the two wires she undoubtedly would have been electrocuted.

Plain Women Are Easier To Photograph, It Seems

BY JESSIE HENDERSON
(Copyright 1931 by Cons. Press)

He ought to know. He has photographed a couple thousand famous people, beautiful and unbeautiful, and done it so successfully that Fox studios recently brought him here from New York to photograph their leading players. Not to photograph them for the films, but to take those "stills" which appear in theatre lobbies.

"The reason," Phyfe explained, "is that the photographer, faced by a beautiful woman, thinks to himself that his task is easy. As a rule he doesn't take such pains with her as with a woman who is unattractive. Consequently, he often doesn't do her justice.

Phyfe, by the way, after serving with the British American forces during the World war, studied sculpture for two years in southern France. "To my mind, the pointed chin type of woman is less beautiful than the woman with interesting planes in her face. Garbo and Dietrich have these planes, for example, and so have many others. The eyes have a great deal to do with beauty, and the eyelashes also.

Eyes Tell Character

"You can tell by the expression of the eyes in a photograph what sort of character the subject of the picture possesses.

The mouth may be bent into a sweet curve, but few people can turn a mean and ill tempered eye into a kindly one no matter how they try. Your life and character are written in and around your eyes.

"It's a mistake, in my opinion, to have a smiling photograph, much less a photograph showing your teeth in a grin. The mouth may have a slight inclination to smile, but no real smile should be on it. What makes the Mona Lisa fascinating? The fact that you can't tell what she's thinking about. You can imagine she's thinking about anything you like. Why? Because you're not absolutely certain whether her mouth is actually going to break into a smile. When you are photographed smiling, the mystery is gone. There's nothing to stir the imagination. Everyone knows you're thinking of something pleasant, or trying to look as though you were."

Phyfe says the rarest bit of beauty in the world is a beautiful feminine knee. "A knee ought to flow into the leg," he said, "not stand out as a knob."

And he also says women spoiled their best play for beauty when they bobbed their hair. "Though, at that," he added, "American women are the best looking in the world outside of pictures you see more beautiful women in New York than in any town on the globe."

SHORT SELLING GHOST REFUSES TO BE BURIED

Subject Continues to Crop Up as Government Expresses Views

BY CARLTON A. SHIVELY

Copyright, 1931, by Cons. Press

Wall Street, New York—(CPA)—The short selling ghost refuses to be laid. Wall Street had one of its periodical proddings on the subject a little over a month ago, when the stock market was lurching heavily. Stock exchange authorities announced, without explanation, that they would require a daily list of short sellers with stocks and amounts, to be furnished by each member firm. This requirement was reduced to a weekly report on June 29 and as such is still in effect.

A similar report on short selling was requested by the stock exchange in the autumn of 1929, shortly after the great market crash. A somewhat similar but milder form of inquiry was made in 1919.

Wall Street was considerably perplexed at receiving the inquiry last month, it being generally thought that while stock prices were declining, the market was falling of its own weight. Few believed that the shorts were responsible for the drop, although as usual the bears to some extent were taking advantage of the trend by selling short.

For some weeks the turnover had been quite small, averaging 1,500,000 shares a day, and many of the well-known bears were reported to be inactive.

Not Much Happened

Nothing happened beyond mild buzzing around the brokerage house board rooms, and it was not until the banks announced that they had cut brokers' loan margin requirements and that the government had decided to drop its opposition to the Standard Oil of New York-Vacuum oil merger that the market began to rally. This rally was, of course, greatly stimulated by the Hoover debt proposal.

Those given to digging for explanations were inclined to attribute the initiative in the latest stock exchange move to people "higher up." President Richard Whitney of the stock exchange and his predecessors have on numerous occasions made it plain that they regarded short selling as a legitimate and necessary part of the markets. Moreover, in a recent survey of the markets President Whitney cited figures to show that short selling, even in the autumn of 1929, was insignificant compared to the liquidation by holders of stock. Rightly or wrongly Wall Street assumed that the criticism of short selling over the country, where the tendency has been to attribute all the woes of the business depression to the stock market bears, had incited the administration to suggest that something be done to combat the impression of stock exchange indifference to the matter.

New Barrage Real

There is no doubt about the latest barrage laid down against the short seller. President Hoover, with characteristic energy, has openly denounced the short sellers in wheat. Just about a year ago, Wall Street recalls, certain wheat hedging sales by the Russians were denounced as the cause of upsetting values. In trading circles the view is strongly held that short selling at present is but a small factor, except insofar as the shorts are hedgers, a class exempted by President Hoover.

In the grain and cotton trades it is held that the speculative short interest is not unduly large. The government itself published Saturday forecasts for grain crops which suggest the explanation of lower prices. Harvests promise to be well above those of a year ago, and in addition there is an enormous carryover, partly held by the federal farm board. The same is true of cotton. However, Wall Street is willing to accept unorthodox views on the subject of short trading or anything else if prices will only move higher.

STATE BEGINS NEW SYSTEM OF INCOME TAX DISTRIBUTION

Revisions Are Applicable to Taxes Collected After July 8

Madison—(AP)—Although the new income tax rates are not effective until next years, the revised system of distributing the tax is applicable to income taxes after July 8, 1931, the state tax commission has informed county treasurers.

The change in the distribution methods was made in the Groves income tax bill which was passed by the 1931 legislature. It raises the rates on incomes over $3,000 and increases exemptions.

Under the terms of the Groves bill, each town, city and village is entitled to 50 per cent of the tax collections if they do not exceed seventh-tenths of one per cent of the assessed value of all taxable property in the municipality. By the terms of the Zimmerman income tax law the maximum was two per cent of the assessed valuation.

If the tax collections exceed seventenths of one per cent of the assessed valuation, the county will retain the excess and distribute it according to school population. The tax commission's interpretation of the new provision in the law is that the limitation of seven-tenths of one per cent applies to total collections of each calendar year. Under this interpretation the limitation for the precent year would apply only to the total collections from July 9 to December 31.

The reduction of the amount which may be returned to municipality was made in an effort to eliminate "tax colonies." Sponsors of the bill contended that several summer resorts and similar places of temporary residence which harbors payers of high income taxes have benefitted at the expense of other communities. Such "tax colonies," they said, have used the high income tax collections to dispense with many other taxes.

Open Court Hearing In Cities Service Dispute

Topeka, Kas. — (AP) — A district court hearing to determine whether there was legal justification for an order barring sale in this state of curb stocks of the Henry L. Doherty Cities Service company got underway here today.

Judge George L. Whitcomb was asked by Doherty attorneys to make permanent a temporary injunction to prevent Carl Newcomer, blue sky commissioner, from execution of his order forbidding sale in Kansas of all the Cities Service curb stock except the first preferred.

Several legal battles probably will follow in the campaign of Gov. Harry H. Woodring and the Kansas City Star for a reduction of 10 cents a 1,000 cubic feet in the city gate rate for gas supplied by the Cities Service company to Kansas communities. The present rate is 40 cents a 1,000 cubic feet.

Last week Doherty through his legal representatives, filed suit in the Jackson-co, Missouri, circuit court seeking $12,000,000 from the Kansas City Star for alleged libellous articles the newspaper printed in connection with its editorial campaign.

The Kansas banking department withdrew approval from the Cities Service stock following an announcement by Governor Woodring that negotiations instigated by him with Doherty officials in New York had failed to gain the desired reduction.

Governor Woodring later said the banking department's action was not inspired by him and was not a deliberate attack on Doherty as part of the state's campaign for lower rates.

B. C. Adams, Kansas City, vice president and general manager of the Gas Service company, holding company for Doherty subsidiaries in Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma, said Doherty would not be present at the hearing here.

THE DRAGON SNORTS FIRE

Henry L. Doherty, head of Cities Service, a gigantic utility holding company, with assets of over a billion, gross income of two hundred million, net profits of fifty million, and claiming a million stockholders, faced with an order of the Kansas Securities commission, prohibiting the sale of Cities Service common stocks, and several editions of the Kansas City Star fiercely attacking its rate schedules, has taken a new course for a utility head, the reckless course of throwing the gauntlet down, gnashing teeth and trumpeting out to battle.

Mr. Doherty probably would call himself "of the old school," ready to fight at the drop of a hat, always bloody and always erect. But he is in fact evidencing the arrogance that comes to some men when they get into their hands either a great deal of money or the direction of the affairs of some corporation worth a fabulous amount.

Already Mr. Doherty has started a damage action against the Kansas City Star for $12,000,000 and, without reckoning that the Star isn't worth that much and his demands should be cut a bit, he announces that other damage actions are to follow in behalf of the stockholders of Cities Service. Now, if each of the million stockholders sues for another twelve million, a total of twelve trillion dollars will be demanded of the Star, which is the greatest financial compliment ever paid a newspaper. This battle is likely to degenerate into a mad scramble of Cities Service stockholders for the type fonts and slugs found lying around newspaper offices or they may have to content themselves with each taking a copy of the Star's last issue as it turns up its toes.

Anyway Mr. Doherty wants the country to sit up and take notice that when he sues he sues and doesn't care a snap for a few lousy millions.

He also filed a petition with the postmaster general asking him to prohibit the mails to the Star.

He wanted to strangulate that newspaper before its presses could turn over another time. But the postmaster general returned to Mr. Doherty a crisp, direct denial of the petition. He let it be known that it simply couldn't be done.

How "bleeding Kansas" would bleed again from every capillary in its body if Henry L. Doherty could only silence the press. How quickly would all our civilization turn back several centuries if self-constituted barons could only prevent the people from learning the truth.

There is one fortunate ray of happiness through these black clouds, because an individual cannot sue a state and so Kansas is saved from some sort of a foreclosure action that Mr. Doherty would otherwise begin. Only the federal constitution saves the sunflower state from becoming a feudal appendage to Cities Service.

Mr. Doherty is going to find that when he wants to quit these lawsuits, this battle, he will probably be fighting someone who won't even permit him to let go. He seems to have forgotten what happened to Goliath at the hands of a little fellow called David.

There isn't any billion dollar Colossus that is going to pulverize anyone in this country and if you stand quietly on the side lines you will have to hold your sides with laughter at Mr. Doherty's flying coattails.

A NEW ERA IN BUSINESS

We are going forward into times of better business. There is little chance to go wrong about that. Progress and advancement cannot be stopped any more than can the rise of the morning sun, for however black the skies the sun has always shone again.

Nights of darkness must come to teach us the beauty of the day. Foolish dreams of prosperity without end we have found cannot be realized without stopping to take a new breath and pay our bills.

The new business will be on a more stable basis than ever before. Progress will be slow and sound, and it will continue sound until we again lose our heads.

Business will be more exacting in its requirements. Manufacturers will give more attention to better and cheaper methods of production; they will increase their research efforts to find new and interesting things for labor to make and the world to buy. Merchants will add to their services as efficient middlemen, and by so doing continue to perform a function so necessary to trade. Purchasers will be more exact and discriminating in the matter of price and quality.

Profits of business enterprise will be reasonable. It is an element which connot be cast aside, but speculation and "the getting of something for nothing" will have no place in daily transactions. The producer only will receive his reward.

Slowly and soundly shall we progress. Slow and sound—words full of meaning and bearing a hopeful vision of the future. Hard work, sacrifice, thinking through; efficient and understanding leadership; the helpful cooperation of labor, capital and government—all these shall bring to us a new era in business.

PARENTS AND CHILDREN

The mother in Hammond, Indiana, who drove her 5-year-old boy away from home because he was a bother around the house and kept her from living the care-free sort of life she pined for, is too much of an exception to the general rule to be worth much comment.

Any mother who could do a thing like that must be so lacking in the fundamental human traits of ordinary decency and compassion that she is no more worth talking about than any other uninspiring vagary of nature.

Nevertheless, the whole miserable affair deserves a second glance; for a great many parents who would never dream of doing as this woman did have, nevertheless, more than a trace of the feeling that motivated her.

That is the feeling that finds expression in laments about the ingratitude of children, the "sacrifices" that parents have to make for their young, and the hard lot that befalls so many adults whose children do not realize how much they owe them.

Plenty of parents nurse that emotion pretty constantly.

This Indiana affair, which simply carries that feeling to an extreme conclusion, ought to show us how absurd it is.

The plain fact of the matter is that the average child owes his parents very little. When he is grown, of course, he will do everything in his power to protect his parents and to care for them in their old age, and it is right that he should; but that is not a matter of balancing the books, and repaying a stupendous debt.

Children do not come into the world of their own volition. The least the parents can do is give them a decent home, loving sympathy, and the wisest kind of training they can possibly provide. That is the parents' duty, and it is a duty that takes precedence over everything else on earth.

Naturally, all have to make sacrifices to do these things. But have we, after all, any right to call them "sacrifices"? Have we any right to feel that we are noble and long-suffering because of them?

For many centuries the world has listened to gray-beards mumbling about the duty of children toward their parents. If there had been more talk about the duty of parents toward their children it would be, by a good many miles, a better world.

Opinions Of Others

MR. HOOVER'S VETO

The President's veto of the veterans' loan bill is a vigorous statement which recapitulates the effective arguments advanced against adoption of this measure. Mr. Hoover points out that the bill will impose upon the government a cash outlay of approximately $1,000,000,000 and insists that there is "not a penny in the treasury to meet such a demand." He asserts that while adoption of the measure would thus compel the government either to raise taxes or float new securities, the actual benefit to individual veterans would be very small: "Over 800,000 men will be able to borrow less than $200, and of these over 200,000 will be able to borrow an average of $75." He insists that it is a mistake to believe that the distribution of money from the treasury will help to restore prosperity. "We cannot further the restoration of prosperity by borrowing from some of our people, pledging the credit of all our people, to loan to some of our people who are not in need of the money." He warns Congress against "the whole tendency to open the federal treasury to a thousand purposes * * * (which) threaten burdens beyond the ability in our country normally to bear."

If Congress were in a reasonably sober state of mind it would find these arguments persuasive. Unfortunately, Congress has been stampeded. Fear of retaliation at the polls has driven reluctant members into line. If the loan bill is adopted over the President's veto a compact minority of well-organized voters will once more have shown its power.—New York World.

SENATOR Smoot has assured us that there will be no tariff changes this fall . . . very well, Senator, if we can depend upon that . . . but that's not nearly as important as the possibilities of not talking about tariff when you boys get together . . . it seems as though when the Senate gets into a spot where it might be embarrassing to talk about anything else, it talks about the tariff . . . and a senator can talk about the tariff for days and days and none of us out on the plains will have the slightest idea about what he's talking . . . but you hate to say anything about it just for fear that the senator might actually be saying something . . .

One of the things which keep bothering is that problem of why the comic strips can get so darned serious and sad and absolutely desperate sometimes.

* * *

Yeah, nowadays when you want a good cry, you don't turn to the death notices or read about the latest coocoo murder, you just turn to the page of "comics and humor."

* * *

Gotta have some more prison reforms. We read where 250 U. S. prisoners at Atlanta—men made wealthy through crime—have purchased their way to a transfer from the penitentiary to an army camp where life is pleasant and the accommodations comfortable.

A German and an Italian will fight it out for the world's championship next fall. No Tillie, they will not fight in Germany, nor will they battle in Italy.

They will come to America, Tillie, where people pay a lot of money for such things.

* * *

And Germany apparently isn't so excited about owning the heavyweight championship. The Germans figure, as long as they don't have prohibition and the Sunday driver to bother about, that they don't need the championship to compensate for anything.

One of the saddest incidents we've heard about in weeks is about the lad who celebrated some event or other last week and, just as he was retiring, suddenly realized that it was Friday instead of Saturday.

* * *

Couldn't sleep from thinking about it.

One of the worst things about a vacation—if and when you raise the money for it—is trying to figure out where to go. It's something like having a bad cold. Everybody has a lot of suggestions.

CRAFTSMAN SUMMER

Summer has a wealth of charms:
Marigold and mignonette,
Trees with blossoms in their arms,
Everywhere is beauty set.
Wheresoever mortals stray
Following folly, fame or trade,
In the drama which they play
Perfectly the scene is laid.

Summer is a craftsman rare
Fashioning the drops and wings.
With exquisite skill and care
Doing most surprising things.
With his colors fresh and bold
Splashed upon a background green.
For the young and for the old
Summer builds a perfect scene.

If, as once wise Shakespeare said,
All the world is but a stage
Which the feet of men must tread
To the dreary seventh age
Then from curtain rise to fall
In whatever roles we play,
For the actors, one and all,
Summer builds a setting gay.

Round about us as we seek
Fame and fortune through the years,
And our little lines we speak,
Beauty everywhere appears.
Amid scenes of splendor rare
Which the summer time prepares,
Man goes rushing here and there
Busy with his small affairs.

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
Monday, July 16, 1906

Cecile and Earle Beaulieau, 11 and 12 years of age, saved the lives of five Appleton people when they towed a rock-gauged launch on the river to safety.

Miss Carrie Morgan was re-elected as city superintendent of schools at a meeting of the board of education on that morning.

G. T. Moeskes, Gustave Keller and Thomas Ryan left on that day for Marshfield as delegates to the biennial convention of the Catholic Knights of Wisconsin.

G. Kamps and Harry Ricker spent the day at Oshkosh to help Harry Schommer of this city celebrate his twenty-first birthday.

The Appleton delegation of singers to the big Saengerfest at Oshkosh returned to this city with great enthusiasm for the convention.

TEN YEARS AGO
Monday, July 11, 1921

Teachers of Outagamie-co contributed $1,653.43 toward the state teachers' retirement fund according to the 1921 report of the county superintendant.

Miss Melba Reitz became the bride of Harlow Wickert the previous morning. Miss Hesser and Erwin Zumach attended the couple.

C. A. Pardee, Sr., entertained friends at a house party at their cottage near Waverly in honor of Mr. and Mrs. William Rosier of Hartford, Mrs. Carrie Kluge and Herman Bellinger of Milwaukee.

Col. Hugh E. Pomeroy and Miss Ruth E. Whittier were married the previous day at the home of the bride's parents in Ashland.

Mrs. M. S. Peerenboom and two sons left the following day for Thorold, Canada, where they visited Mrs. Peerenboom's sister, Mrs. Ray Onkles.

Mrs. Bernard Saiberlich and Miss Tana Wolf meyer visited at Seymour the previous week.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

HOW THE BRASS SPECIALISTS WORK.

Almost every wiseacre invalid or valetudinarian these days has two affectations which eventually become affections hard to cure. The first is possession and use of an automobile much more expensive than he can honestly afford, but which will be his after nine more payments. The second is an addiction to brass specialists.

Just what is a brass specialist, you may ask. Oh, dear, must I explain that all over. Well, listen: A brass specialist is almost any physician or healer who is far enough away or sufficiently stand-offish and pretentious to take from fifty to a hundred berries out of the snob where an honest family physician would render the same or better service for ten.

There are a few real specialists in practice, very few indeed compared with the epidemic of brass ones that scourges the country. A real specialist is a doctor who has served his apprenticeship in the ranks, in general practice, a family physician, for at least five or ten years, and then, having laid a solid foundation and found out what his own aptitudes are or what branch of work he seems best suited for, returns to school and pursues special study and research in that direction, and finally returns to private practice and announces to his medical colleagues only (not to the public) that his practice is now limited to whatever specialty he has chosen. His work comes mainly from his colleagues who recognize his honest attainments or ability in his chosen field and refer patients to him or call him in consultation whenever they feel his counsel may be advantageous for the patient. His opinion, advice or treatment is carried out or considered by the patient's physician, the family physician; it is not given to the patient directly, unless the family doctor requests it.

The brass specialist not only does not cater to his medical colleagues; he catches whatever custom he gets by very sharp competition against the general practitioners of the community. He avails himself of the cheap advantage of popular credulity by posing as a specialist in the eyes of the public, and the public assumes that in order to pose as a "specialist," a doctor must be better than the average.

In a following talk I shall cite an instance from actual practice to illustrate what I mean. No names, of course, but a typical case report.

Meanwhile, I wish every reader would ask himself this question: "How does Brady dare make such talk in the press if he is not absolutely right in what he says?" And also this question: "Why the silence of the beneficiaries of the evils attacked, if there is any answer the brass specialists in the regular medical organization dare make to Brady's charges?"

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Only a Sweet Memory.

I sympathize with your lament about fried mush. I can tell you why it doesn't taste like the kind mother used to make. It is simply because the name corn meal is a misnomer as applied to the modern packaged article. I used to grind my own meal down in Indiana. I ground the corn and bolted it thru one-sixteenth wire. The first meal that goes thru the one-sixteenth wire screen is the old fashioned corn meal that made the mush you hanker after. (Fond Memories.)

Answer.—Thank you. Gosh, it is nine hours since breakfast, too. Please send me tidings when you find the little backwoods country mill that makes the old-fash.oned corn meal. One more platter of real fried mush and I can die happy.

Proof of Self-Evident Fact.

A large number of readers have recently contributed reports of their own experiences or observations which satisfy them that no illness comes from mere exposure to cold or wet I am glad to know that the light is permeating the shadows, but bless you, friends, your experiences are not news. It might be news, at least an interesting coincidence, if anybody should develop some illness within a reasonable time after such exposure. (Ol' Doc Brady.)

Going At It Intelligently.

For the last two winters I have suffered constantly from nausea—no other complaint, just nausea. . . One doctor said lack of acid . . . I want to go at this intelligently . . . find out what is wrong with my way of living, my diet . . . (Mrs. D. A. G.)

Answer— Nonsense, Madam. Consult a physician and leave it to him to find out what ails you. Your notion of going as it intelligently is silly.

Lightning.

What is best to do if one is in bathing when a lightning storm comes. I notice some stay in the water, but others seek shelter . . . (B. K.)

Answer—I don't think it matters which you do, so far as the risk of being struck by lightning is concerned.

Children Too Precocious.

I am 15, sophomore in high school, I think fully eight out of 10 of the boys in my class smoke . . . (S. J. C.)

Answer—Well, if they do, eight out of 10 of 'em need a good hiding.

The Tinymites

By Hal Cochran

THE native kept on shooting fast. It seemed his arrows wouldn't last, so Scouty said, "Gee, wait a bit while I get those you've shot. Although I 'spose that I'll fall flat, I'd like to try by luck at that. You'd better rest. You've shot so much, you're looking tired and hot."

"Oh, don't you fret about me, lad. A lot of training I have had, but I will let you all shoot once and see how good you are. Each Tinymite can take a turn. There's much about this sport to learn. You have to pull the bow just right to send the arrow far."

So, all the Tinies, one by one stepped up and had their share of fun. Wee Scouty proved the best of all. His shot brought forth a shout. Then Clowny, with a friendly grin, exclaimed, "Aw, shucks, you ought to win. You've had a lot of training 'cause you are a real Boy Scout."

The Travel Man then said, "Let's skip upon our way. There is a ship that we are going to ride upon. It's big as big can be. Australia is where we are bound and there some new sights will be found. I'm sure that we will all be glad to sail upon the sea."

"You bet," replied the Tinymites. "We're always ready for new sights." They rode back into town and then went promptly to the ship. "Oh, look!" cried Clowny. "What's that there, that's swinging 'round up in the air?" The Travel Man replied, "That lifts the freight on for the trip."

Just then the great big hook swung out and grabbed a box. Then, with a shout, brave Clowny jumped upon the box and cried, "Hey! Keep your eyes on me. I'll show you that I'm pretty slick at pulling off a clever trick." As he was lifted in the air, the others shouted, "Gee!"

(Copyright, 1931, IEA Service, Inc.)

(The Tinymites visit a beach at Sydney, Australia, in the next story.)

The fellow who rides the rods thinks he'll get better service if the I. C. C. grants the railroads higher freight rates.

A Bystander In Washington

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—These thousands of people who visit the capital at this season of the year—and it seems there are as many as ever—are asking new questions of their guides.

"Point out Lindy's father-in-law, won't you? — The senator, you know." That one is a favorite.

Time was when they were all anxious to see Tom Heflin of Alabama. But no longer. Dwight Morrow of New Jersey seems to have become the senate's prize exhibit to the tourists.

Guides say the visitors ask to be shown every person and thing that they see mentioned prominently in the newspapers. And they don't like to take "no" for an answer—especially the women. If an exhibit is said to be in a museum, it's there. Men generally take the guide's word.

There was one bright young chap, however, who had to be shown by comparative figures that the building he was in was not large enough to hold a German submarine and that only the engine of it was on display.

Real Senator A Thrill

With the capitol deserted as it is now that congress is away, nothing is to be seen there except the building itself. Occasionally a senator, in town for the moment, will pass a group of sightseers. If his name is familiar, a guide will point him out.

"Joe" Robinson of Arkansas walked through the rotunda the other day ogled by some 100 pairs of eyes and amid much whispering.

Lindbergh's plane, "The Spirit of St. Louis," in the Smithsonian is still a great favorite.

The women, however, divide their interest between the plane and costumes of the presidents' wives. Wax figures of these First Ladies, displayed in the costumes of their day, draw most of the women. Many of them note the absence of Mrs. Hoover and must be told that her likeness has not yet been added to the collection.

Peaks In Curiosity

The visitors ask to see every conceivable thing. Often they are not convinced until a long search proves fruitless.

One old lady had it from her daughter that a perpetual motion machine was on display at the Smithsonian.

A boxing enthusiast asked to be shown the typewriter that Jack Dempsey hit when he went through the ropes after Firpo punched him.

But perhaps the prize one was the request made of the guides by a man who visited the National Museum:

"Where," he asked, "is that cat they threw off the top of the Washington monument—you know, the one the dog killed after it got up and started to run away?"

JEWISH LAW APPEAL

On July 13, 1917, the text of the decree of the Russian Provisional government repealing all laws restricting the civil, political and religious rights of the Jews was rejected.

"All existing legal restrictions," the report said, "upon the rights of Russian citizens, in connection with this or that faith, religious teaching or nationality, are revoked. In accordance with this:

"1. Repealed are all laws existing for Russians as a whole as well as those of seperate localities, embodying limitations concerning:

"2. Selection of place or residence and change of residence and movement.

"3. Engaging in all kinds of trades, commerce and industry, not excepting mining; also equal participation in the bidding for government contracts, deliveries and in public auctions."

In the drafting of these laws, Jewish lawyers were called into consultation by the ministry of justice.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY RICHARD MASSOCK

New York—Oddities of the Big Town:

Scottish chieftains — there are two in New York.

One is The Macneil of Barra. The other is The Chief of Clannfhearghuis of Stra-chur and ClannAilpein, to quote his visiting card.

The Macneil of Barra is an architect, his professional name, Robert Macneil. Thousands of his highland clansmen would hail him as chief, if they could be assembled at his 1,000-year-old family stronghold, the ruined castle of Kisimul on the island of Barra.

He and his wife and two children live in Great Neck, the Long Island actors' colony, The Macneil commuting to his office.

The chieftain was born at Marshall, Mich., 41 years ago. His mother was a Michigan girl, whom his father, an artist, met and married while traveling in this country.

Kilted plaid of clan royalty habitually is worn by The Chief of Clannfhearghuis, a soldier of fortune who lives at the Explorers' club, where Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd is a fellow member.

Born in Poland of a Scottish father and Spanish mother, this chief came to America after the war and commutes between Broadway and his family seat at Argyll.

Nixies

Nixie-readers—they are six and work in a rear room of the New York postoffice, interpreting freak addresses.

The postal regulations define "nixies" as mail matter "incorrectly, illegibly, indefinitely or insufficiently addressed, so that it cannot be transmitted."

For instance, a letter comes address to "Al, Ny." It is routed by the nixie-readers to Alfred E. Smith, the former governor.

Armed with directories of all kinds and places, including the International Postal guide, and his specialized knowledge developed out of long experience, the nixie-reader is able to recognize "Pochips, Neumeurca," as a Neapolitan's phonetic spelling of "Poughkeepsie, N. Y."

A letter addressed to 5309 Fifth avenue, New York, is forwarded to Pittsburgh, because the experts know that Pittsburgh is the only city in the country having a Fifth avenue with numbers running that high.

What Price Tickets

This may not have been a new high, but it was unusual. The all-time high seems to have been $225, paid for a single seat at Jenny Lind's first Broadway appearance in 1850. It was paid by one Genin, a hatter, and the next morning American newspaper readers learned of Mr. Genin and his hats.

So well advertised were his wares that a man out in Iowa who owned a hat with a Genin label auctioned it a few days later, getting $14 for it.

At the other extreme of ticket sales was the next to final performance of an ill-fated play last winter. Only one paid admission was recorded by the box office, the rest of the meagre audience seeing the show on passes.

U. S. RAILROADS ARE VALUED AT OVER 24 BILLION

Interstate Commerce Commission Publishes Data in Rate Hearings

Washington —(AP)—The value of the country's railroads was fixed at $24,978,000,000 on Dec. 31, 1930, by the Interstate Commerce commission Saturday in data made public for use in rate hearings.

The valuations, which include working capital for the various districts as adjusted by the commission engineers and accountants, follow:

Eastern district $10,370,000,000; Southern district $4,158,000,000; Western district $9,550,000,000.

The tentative valuations of the commission adjusted to Dec. 31 without working capital were:

Eastern district $9,318,000,000; Southern district $3,758,000,000; and Western district $8,615,000,000, a total of $21,691,000,000.

The net book value of the roads without the adjustments made in tentative valuations and the working capital was placed at $23,518,000,000. The Eastern district lines were valued at $9,565,000,000 as the net book valuation, the Southern district $3,955,000,000, and the Western district $9,998,000,000.

In 1920 at the time the railroads were making an appeal for increased rates the commission fixed the following figures of value for the roads:

Eastern district, $8,800,000,000, Southern group $2,000,000,000, and Western roads $8,100,000,000, a total of $18,900,000,000. The railroads at that time claimed a valuation of $9,088,194,615 for Eastern roads, $2,183,923,124 for the Southern group and $8,818,454,872 for the Western lines, a total of $20,040,572,611.

In 1929 the commission's accountants estimated the value of the roads plus working capital and with adjustments was $23,701,000,000, the tentative valuations adjusted to Dec. 31 without working capital $21,172,000,000, and book values without working capital $23 048,000,000.

The values by districts with working capital at the end of 1929 were fixed for the Eastern district at $10,145,000,000, Southern district $4,128,000,000, and Western district $9,428,000,000.

Interstate Commerce commission tentative valuations without working capital adjusted to Dec. 31 1929, by districts were Eastern district $9,032,000,000, Southern district $3,702,000,000 and Western district $8,438,000,000.

The net book value Dec. 31 1929, without working capital, was Eastern district $9,305,000,000, Southern district $3,892,000,000 and Western district $9,851,000,000.

The net railway capital of all steam railways in the country excluding securities of switching and terminal companies in 1929 was $18,680,000,000 of which $7,213,000,000 was capital stock and $11,467,000,000 was bonded indebtedness. This figure compares with the 1920 totals of $16 994,000,000 total capital which consisted of $6,707,000,000 of capital stock and $10 287,000,000 of bonded indebtedness.

MOVE MADE TO BOOST PARCEL POST SERVICE

Washington —(AP)— Postal officials have mapped out a plan of education whereby they hope to increase the parcel post business and wiped out that portion of the postal deficit.

The department announced Saturday parcel post supervisors would be appointed at 60 of the largest post-offices, with directions to contract shippers and the public generally to encourage increased use of parcel post facilities.

Plans looking to this end were drafted following approval yesterday by the Interstate Commerce commission of Postmaster General Brown's request for increased size and weight of parcel post packages.

Officials estimated that within a year increased revenues, due to the decision, would aggregate $5,000,000 or approximately one-third of the parcel post deficit for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1930.

PATENTED ROASTING PROCESS CAPTURES FLAVOR OF COFFEE

Accurate Control of Heat Roasts Every Berry to a Perfect Degree

Coffee has the most delicate flavor of any food-product. Yet it is completely developed by Hills Bros.' exclusive Controlled Roasting process.

As the accuracy of the hour-glass depends upon an even, continuous flow . . . a little at a time . . . so the matchless, uniform flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee is produced by Controlled Roasting—the patented process that roasts evenly, continuously . . . a little at a time. The rare blends flow through the roasters in automatically measured lots. The speed of operation and the temperature remain the same. Naturally, Hills Bros. Coffee never varies in flavor.

The usual, bulk-roasting methods can't maintain a uniform roast. That's why ordinary coffees don't have the same wonderful flavor as Hills Bros. Coffee. Controlled Roasting is patented.

Vacuum cans keep Hills Bros. Coffee fresh always. Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is taken out and kept out of these cans. Even ordinary, "air-tight" cans do not keep coffee fresh. Order Hills Bros. Coffee today. Ask for it by name, and look for the Arab trade-mark on the can.

Young Folks At Picnic Of Valley Zone

About 35 young people of St. Paul Lutheran church and 20 from Mt. Olive Lutheran church attended the annual picnic of the Walther leagues of the Fox river valley zone which was held Sunday at Green Lake. The activities for the day began with a church service in the morning. A baseball game, horseshoe tournament, and volley ball games provided entertainment during the afternoon, and a song social was held in the evening.

The picnic was attended by about 200 members. Plans were discussed for the fall rally to be held at Horicon. The date has not yet been set.

* * *

Plans for an ice cream social to be held next Saturday afternoon on the church lawn were made by members of the Intermediate Young People's Union of First Baptist church at a meeting Sunday evening at the church. The social will be held from 3 o'clock in the afternoon until 9 o'clock at night. The proceeds will be used to help send a delegate to Green Lake July 28 to August 7.

The committee in charge of the social includes Marion Zimmerman, Mildred Eads, Helen Jean Babb, Sheldon Noyes and Edward Delrow.

The Intermediate union met with the Senior group Sunday evening for a devotional session. The topic for open discussion was Larry's Philosophy, taken from the book, "Larry, Thoughts of Youth." Philip Johnson was the leader. About 20 persons were present.

* * *

The annual picnic of the Lutheran Brotherhood Conference of the Fox river valley was held Sunday at Calumet Harbor, with nearly 80 persons attending from Appleton. The picnic opend with a church service at 11 o'clock in the mornig, Dr. P. W. Roth, Milwaukee, preaching the sermon. Pastors of the churches of Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Neenah, and Appleton assisted in the service.

In the afternoon ball games were played between the various churches, Oshkosh winning the tournament. Horseshoe and races provided other entertainment. Over 500 persons attended the outing. Appleton was awarded the conference picnic for next year.

SOCIETIES OF CHURCHES HOLD DISTRICT RALLY

Miss Elizabeth Wilson and the Rev. G. H. Blum were the principal speakers at the district group rally of the Women's Missionary societies of Evangelical churches which was held Sunday afternoon and evening at Emanuel Evangelical church, Appleton. Miss Wilson, who spoke in the afternoon, talked on the Intercessory Prayer at Home and Abroad. She was a missionary worker in India with the Y. W. C. A. for a number of years. Delegates from the various societies attending put on the afternoon program.

The Rev. Blum, pastor of the local church, spoke on The Missionary Geniuses of the Gospel at the evening session, which was attended by a capacity crowd, as was the afternoon meeting. The senior choir sang several numbers, and Miss Elsie Wauda, Neenah, presented a solo. The Rev. J. Bleiler, Neenah, read the Scripture, and Rev. E. O. Mashman, Markesan, offered the prayer. The evening service was under the direction of the local society, Mrs. George Breitrick leader.

Representatives to the rally were present from Ripon, Neenah, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac and Markesan.

TWO FAMILIES AT OUTING AT PIERCE PARK

A picnic for the Barry and Van Ryzin families was held Sunday at Pierce park in honor of Mr. and Mrs. John Barry, son, David, and daughter, Mary Margaret, Racine, who are visiting at the home of Mrs. Margaret Barry Fourth-st. Vacation Is Proper Time For Hobbies

BY ANGELO PATRI

Vacation time is hobby time. That means that during the months when school is closed the children take up some work, some plan, in which they are interested for the sake of the joy they find in it. They set to work to follow some line of interest that absorbs them although to you it is silly enough, childish enough to warrant disapproval. Let it alone and encourage the child.

An interest in some field of study, play or work, is an open road to the heart of the child. It is his voice and his right arm. It is his tool. With it, once forged and shining, he opens closed doors and carves out niches for the sole of his foot as he climbs up the heights. In plain English a hobby is the expression of the child as he is, uninfluenced by anybody or anything save his own spirit.

Hobbies are as varied as the tastes and abilities of the children, they run all the way from collecting buttons and cards to flying airplanes. Every field of human interest is searched and tried out. The children are keen to follow where their urge leads them and it is delightful to see them take on new skills, new powers, as they play.

If your boy makes boats endlessly, let him. If he begins to build an airplane in the cellar, clear the way and let him go to it. If daughter makes a doll house, pieces a quilt, collects old prints, cheer for her. Something within the children is driving them on to do a bit of work that will enrich them for ever after.

The hobbies of children change. The boy who made the boats so blithely last year will say no more about them but take up some other line of work—cartooning, perhaps. Sometimes a child drops his hobby in full tilt, and goes to another. Let him. The interest may have petered out, or it may be shifting toward its lasting expression. That is characteristic of all growth during this stage. Don't be impatient because "he goes from one thing to the other." Many a great artist statesman, industrialist did the same thing before them.

Because the hobby is so personal a matter the child is likely to be shy about it. He may not want to show his work. He may not even want to talk about it. Let him alone. So long as he is busy and happy he is growing and that is what you want. And so long as he is busy and happy he is in good company, which is another thing you strongly desire.

Never make fun of the work of a child's hands. Remember he sees his dream in his bit of shapeless material. The lines are straight to his eyes, the color perfect. Never suggest that they are less than lovely until he asks for help. When you praise him and tell him how well he has done he is likely to look thoughfully at his product and say "I wish I could get this end a little better. It doesn't seem exactly right." Now is your time, if you know. If you don't know, say so but find somebody who understands to give the child the lift he is asking for.

Give the children a place of their things. Respect their privacy, their ownership, and their interest. A hobby is a means of salvation.

"DEDICATION WEEK" IS UNDER WAY AT RACINE

Racine — (AP)—"Dedication Week"—the weeks set aside for the dedication of three new administration buildings here opened today with a rodeo on the lakefront in the heart of the downtown business district.

The new 11-story courthouse, which cost in excess of $1,500,000; the city hall costing more than $500,000, and the $400,000 postoffice are the buildings being dedicated.

Tomorrow will be suburban day with a night parade featuring the celebration, while on Wednesday rural visitors are expected to be attracted by a baseball game and a street dance. A school children's pageant will feature the celebration Thursday, and for the remainder of the week open house is to be held in the new structures.

The Kenosha county board, the Burlington city council, and village and town officers in other parts of the county are to be guests of the Racine county board at the dedication of the courthouse.

Poisons Daughters

Sitting stolidly and silent in her cell at Lebanon, Ind., Mrs. Carrie Simmons, above, showed no sign of emotion when a sheriff read to her murder indictments charging her with poisoning her two daughters, Alice Jean, 10, and Virginia, 14, at a family picnic near Greenfield. She is alleged to have inserted strychnine capsules into sandwiches carried to the picnic.

POST-CRESCENT EMPLOYES HOLD PICNIC AT LAKE

The annual picnic for the Appleton Post-Crescent employes and their families was held Sunday at Judge E. V. Werner's cottage at Shawano lake. Tennis, swimming and boating were part of the day's activities. The feature of the day was the softball game between the married and single men of the group, with Judge Werner and H. L. Davis as umpires. The single men were victors.

BEAUTY QUEENS APPEAR AT THEATRE TONIGHT

Miss Sharon, Pennsylvania beauty queen for four successive years, will make her first and only stage appearance in Appleton tonight at the Fox theater. She will appear with Miss Elaine Williams, Appleton, winner of the title "Miss Wisconsin" in 1931 and five other beauty entrants who won places in the contest.

The beauty queen, 19 and a blonde, is one of America's most beautiful girls who has never been defeated in any contest which she has entered. Miss Sharon won her first beauty contest when she was three months old, competing against 30 other babies in the Stone Bora Fair Baby contest in Pennsylvania. She is now touring the country with Merriman's Attractions, choosing winners for 1931 Beauty contests throughout the various states. When she arrives in Hollywood Miss Sharon will make a short talkie on perfect form. Together with this stage attraction the screen program features William Powell with Carole Lombard in "Ladies Man."

PROBE MYSTERY DEATH OF WOMAN IN EAST

Downington, Pa.—(AP)—The mystery surrounding the death of a young woman, whose body was found on a farm near here, puzzled police today. The knee had been crushed and a blackjack lay nearby.

No clue to the identity of the woman was available except a pink-bordered handkerchief and a platinum ring from which the stone had been pried. A man's handkerchief initialed "M" also was found. The body was discovered yesterday by a picnicker.

A coroner decided the woman, about 25 years old, had been dead for three weeks.

10 PER CENT DROP IN CATTLE SHIPMENTS

Madison—(AP)—The state department of agriculture and markets announced today that only a 10 per cent decline in Wisconsin's dairy cattle shipments was recorded during the first six months of this year over shipments last year.

According to the department, declines have been recorded for each six months period since the end of 1929, the heaviest coming for the first period of 1930 when a 44 per cent decrease was shown from the corresponding time in 1929.

"Another encouraging thing about the dairy cattle sales outlook is that the movement of dairy cattle out of the state shows an increase in June over that of May this year," the department said, "although there is usually a decrease at this time."

Figures show that about 3,359 cattle were marketed outside of the state in June as compared to 3,233 in May this year and 3,591 in June of last year.

New Jersey bought 29 per cent of the shipments, Illinois 26 per cent, New York 16 per cent, and the remainder scattered among 24 states and South America.

DENY FRENCH ACTS TO STRENGTHEN FRONTIER

Paris—(AP)—Marshals Petain and Lyautey, with other high ranking officers of the French army had luncheon today with Premier Laval at the ministry of war, and it was understood the conversation had to do with the situation in Germany.

No decision was taken since a number of foreign military attaches were present, but Minister of War Maginot later issued a denial of a newspaper report that preparations had been made to reinforce the frontier guard.

FAMOUS MINNESOTA DETECTIVE SUCCUMBS

Minneapolis—(AP)—John P. Hoy, 68, former Minneapolis police department detective, who won fame for his work in several murder mysteries here, died at a local hospital last night.

He helped solve Minneapolis' most famous murder case, the slaying of Miss Katherine Ging, dressmaker. Her body was found on a road near a lake Dec. 4, 1894. At first she was believed to have been the victim of a runaway accident, but later a bullet wound was found in her body.

Hoy eventually traced the murder to Harry Hayward, handsome youth popular with the younger set. Hayward was convicted and on Dec. 11, 1895 he was hanged for the crime.

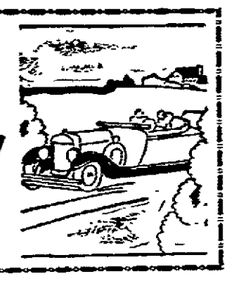
The Shop Window

By PEGGY POST



THE much sought after brown and white combination is still in the lead for summer colors, which is the reason why PETTIBONE'S are sponsoring it first on their fashion list! There is one thing about it, this brown and white is certainly charming when it's expressed in true Pettibone taste. Adorable frocks are white with a luscious, warm brown jacket or perhaps a white print with a tracery of brown in the summery pattern. But the winner of them all is a white polo coat (polo coats are another thing that no one can go wrong on this season) of a sort of spongy crepe called chongella. It is a dream, simply ravishing with style . . . form fitting, collarless neckline that is oval and inset with a wee strip of brown. The hand made tie is familiarly Ascot variety of white and brown, the buttons are chalk white as is the belt buckle and the belt is centered with a strip of brown insert. Never anything snappier! A white pigskin bag boasts it colors with its three rough brown buttons set diagonally across its clipped off flap. By the by, I saw this much wanted shade of brown in a separate jacket that is very swanky!

DO YOU know what to wear on your trip? If you don't, travel into GENIESSES for brief time and you'll soon find out, and if you do, this is also the shop where you'll find what you are looking for. About the nattiest things I saw were some clever knitted outfits. One darling in white of a firmly woven wool. This was a one piece dress with clever seams piped in color and a round yoke neck with scalloped edges. The little jacket ties together at the waistline. Knitted boucle turbans in color complete the outfit.

IT'S altogether surprising what a few coins saved here and there can buy. For instance at GALPIN'S I saw many useful things for the kitchen and not a one cost over a dollar! Four bowls, the largest a monstrous fellow all of eleven inches across the top, that fit into one another in varying sizes. These were awfully nice, blue speckled with a wide blue band around the top edge. Some were in all white crockery with a scalloped edge that might well be used right on the table with your dinnerware when you needed an extra bowl. Every stove should have its individual salt and pepper shaker, of course, but if you saw these attractive (and most capacious) crockery shakers here, you'd decide that these especially every stove must have. The most interesting item was a Swedish Spritz Spruta. yes indeed none other and a very good one too! I have Mr. Galpin's word that this means "cookie maker" and the little contraption surely makes unusual cookies. The dough is turned out of a small aperture in one end of the maker and as the cook turns the handle she spreads the dough into any sort of design. It would be loads of fun as well as artistic, it seems to me.

FOUND two popping ideas at the IDEAL PHOTO AND GIFT SHOP! One is to cajole your husband into a grand humor when he gets home from work because there is just nothing else to do but chuckle delightfully every time one looks at the glass humidor that strangely resembles a well-fed dog. It stands on four glass feet with its well rounded body topped with a massive silver dog head. The second idea would be a slick gift for a convalescent or the member of your family who stays up into the wee small hours with a novel. It's a wee reading lamp that hooks right onto your book. Throws all the light onto the reading matter.

YOU'LL find your chance at WALK-OVER'S SHOE SHOP this week, for they are having a grand sale of all their white, blonde and a few fabric shoes. They're the very thing you'll need to finish out the summer. Sounds like a gold mine to me, especially when summer purses and Walk-Over hosiery is included in the sale! Three pairs of stockings in any summer shade for $2.35 is what I call a bargain!

YOU know it's not the years that make a person look old and drab . . . it's their appearance every time! Why, people don't even get old anymore, not with a place like ELLYN'S to keep your general appearance right up in the front line. Facials not only feel awfully good but they add a youthful freshness to your face. Once you let Ellyn's deft fingers soften the lines of your face with a gorgeous finger wave or marcel, you'll be convinced that good looks make all the difference in the world.

IN A wander through the incomparable DIEDERICH'S, I found that mirrors can be beautiful things when they are with the right sort of furniture. I had really thought mirrors quite common looking and just one of those things people put into houses to fill up wall space until they can afford a good picture. However I speedily changed my thoughts when I saw an exquisite ensemble in walnut, a rather small mirror edged in a lovely frame that was centered with a small gold crest near the top, hung above a walnut end table.

PRICES are topsy-turvy at HERNER'S HOSIERY SHOP this week when gorgeous silk knits sell for $12.95 (formerly $17.50) and Gordon's hosiery right from the stock is put out for $1.00. The knit suits are three piece and in pastel shades, including white, pink, yellow and a few other light colors. The sizes aren't broken yet, so immediately if not sooner would be a good time to be on hand to fit into one. The stockings are in all summer shades ranging from the popular tones to the summery colors for white.

THE old red pencil is working double time at GEENEN'S this week, crossing out the old sale price and putting on the new one. It's really great fun elbowing your way through this busy place and especially more fun when you find just what you're looking for at practically a whistle. The whole idea behind the sale is to give Appleton folks a bargain party they'll never forget. Geenen's made the first move and now it's your turn, with a chance to buy nearly anything at all at a sale price. It's a great chance to buy so many interesting things for your home, you can get so many more for the original cost. Clothes, accessories, right through the whole store you'll find great bargains. This week everything has a further reduction, so you'd better get in the store as early as ever you can to get whatever you crave. I've my eye on one of the smart purses that was red lettered down to $1.59. Irrevelant with the sale but of interest is the fact that the Mary Quinian beauty sets are $2.50. They were quoted at a much higher price a few weeks ago. That's more encouraging and awfully reasonable for all one gets in the beauty box.

DISCOVERED the very thing for tea time parties and informal company! Where? Why where else but the TREASURE BOX GIFT SHOP! This discovery comes all done up in gay pasteboard files, about so-big, some in chintzy designs and others with delightful prints. When you untie the little colorful ribbon, then you find the surprise! Paper guest napkins, and the sweetest things you ever hope to lay your eyes on. In plain colors with scalloped edges and in chintz designs. There are several colors of these in each pack.

IT WAS AT KANOUSE'S of course, that I spotted the first silk tweeds of the season . . . and many of them in the coveted oh-so-rare half sizes! Another name for them and well applied, is travel tweed because this material is grand for utility wear. It doesn't wrinkle easily and looks very trim in its tailoring. One brown and blue flecked tweed in my favor is a darling two piece affair, a simple one piece dress with short sleeves and a jacket with all the trimmin's of a pleated flounce at the bottom and a bit of pleating on the sleeve. Looks like a million but costs under $20!

I OVERHEARD a conversation on the bus between two women the other day, couldn't resist listening because the discussion was about hosiery. One asked the other rather exasperatingly why it was SHE never got runs in her stockings and that some people must just be born lucky. The second woman assured her neighbor that luck had nothing to do with it, she merely bought her hose at GLOUDEMANS-GAGE where their Rollins hosiery has a lace stitch top to keep it from running. And that's not the only enlightenment! Gloudemans-Gage is starting a big special on Rollins hosiery for four days beginning Wednesday. The important part about the event is that it's for the whole family, including hosiery for men, women and children. There will be different prices offered but I'll assure you that they will be real bargains. Here's your chance to get some lovely stockings for yourself, brightly colored anklets for the kiddies. Some very nifty patterns in the men's hose, all silk ones will be about thirty-three cents. It's about time someone was giving friend husband a break!

AS FOR light lunches on "hurry days," which all of us have on occasion, the first place to think of is SCHLINTZ! They have the best toasted sandwiches in the whole town, actually with no exception. I'm terribly partial to their ham, tomato and lettuce, but you ought to have one with a malted milk. Gotten in a hurry and delicious just the same. There's an awful lot to this thing called service, and Schlintz certainly have the system well learned because you can always get waited on here. Another thing about this place is that the girls can always suggest tempting dishes to you when you are in the mood of being hungry but not knowing just what you want to eat.

* * *

SOMEONE the other day was bemoaning the fact that summer entertaining was just too much trouble when the weather is so hot and even cool menus are too tiresome to bother with on a sultry day . . . but it isn't the weather's fault at all, summer parties are ever so much fun when you can have them all done for you at the CANDLE-GLOW TEA ROOM, for instance. There, the rooms are kept cool and inviting, and the place itself is delightful with its little black tables cheerily keeping tone with the traceries in the bright wallpaper. As for the menu, heavens above, all you have to do is to telephone 1544 and if it's too tiresome to choose, let the managers do it for you. They know just what to have and how to have it.

* * *

IF SOMEONE would come right up and ask me where could they find some swelegant bargains in town, I'd shout right back with "VOGUE HAT SHOP!" because it is here that you'll find some most stunning summer hats for a mere song. All it takes is about $1 or $2.50 and a very quick sprint to get there in time for a hat. Some of these bonnets in this clearance formerly were priced at $16.50. Among the new arrivals (not on sale) are some very tricky French felt berets all ready for a good time.

IT ISN'T the work that modern housewives mind but the loss of dignity that often comes with it. Just for instance, what woman wants to stand above an ironing board with an iron that keeps getting hotter and hotter when she knows that there are heat controlled electric irons at the WISCONSIN-MICHIGAN POWER CO. that are really quite inexpensive? Then too, why should anyone have to run the risk of scorched fingers, of ruining her husband's white shirts, baby's dainty clothes and ruining her temper, when one good iron would do the work well? The Hot-Point iron at the Power Co. has three ways of heating and the heat is automatically controlled. By setting the heat knob at either the place for silk, wool or ordinary ironing, the automatic control takes care of the rest. This particular iron costs but $8.75 but other models may be had for as little as $3.95. For the worry and bother a "Watched" iron demands it is worth having a Hotpoint automatic.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE

© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

SUE wanted to buy a dress with Ted's check, a very simple, inexpensive frock. She was afraid that she might need the money for necessities. But Sarah had different ideas.

"Ted said that you are to spend every cent of that check on yourself," she insisted. "A dress and slippers and hat. Honey, we're being married! And neither of us thinks that we'll be taking the step again. You can't ever dress up to see us to this stunt again."

So Sue yielded to the charm of a deep blue tucked chiffon afternoon dress with a pink suede belt and a blue hat that was big enough to have a brim that drooped a little. Sarah insisted on pink gloves that matched the belt and Sue remembered gratefully that her own dark blue pumps were almost the shade of the dress.

"It's sweet and yet it's smart," Sarah approved. "And you'll be supplied with an afternoon dress. You know, Sue," and her voice was a little wistful, "I always dreamed that I would wear ivory satin. And now I'm doing it in a beige suit. You'll have to uphold the formal honors when your turn comes. Corrinne didn't even buy a new frock, did she?"

Back in the room, dressing for the evening, Sarah's animation waxed high one minute, to be followed by a breath-taking silence the next. Sue, going up and down the emotional see-saw that her roommate had created, didn't have time to wonder if she would get a job. Or what she would do if she didn't. Something would happen, though. Something always did. That thought chased away the spectre that tried to slip in now and then.

"Ted is getting the ring this morning .... Oh, I forgot, it's afternoon now." She wrinkled her nose, remembering, "We haven't eaten! Hurry up and put on a dress. We can go to that crazy basement place and grab some sandwiches and coffee. For an ordeal of any sort, especially a marriage, drink coffee. Ted took along another ring of mine to measure by. I didn't have time to go with him."

Sue smiled at her own reflection in the mirror as Sarah talked. She certainly had no intention of going to the place which Sarah had suggested. And she didn't intend to tell her about the embarrassment of the night before.

"You get ready. I'll run and buy some stuff," she suggested, planning to go to the nearest drug store where sandwiches, wrapped in waxed paper, were reserved under a glass jar, and coffee could be bought in paper containers.

Sue sat down on a stool in the drug store to wait for her packages. She wished that the waiter would hurry. She wondered why everyone who was ahead of her had to order some sort of whipped-cream-nuts-and-fruit concoction that took a long time to make.

Two men, leaning against a counter just in back of Sue, were talking in low tones. She didn't pay much attention to them at first. Then, because there was nothing to prevent her from listening, she let their words register.

"They've even sent a lawyer out there to try to find the papers and I've got the things shut up in my desk at home," one voice said. "The deed to the whole thing! Let them hunt. They'll never find it. Of course that fool brother of mine thinks he has it. It was supposed to go to him and then the property be divided with me. But he hasn't it. I was too slick for him."

Sue glanced at the man. A careless scrutiny that was anything but careless.

NEXT: The wedding.

WE WOMEN

By Virginia Vane

GOOD COMPANION NOT ALWAYS TRUE LOVE—TELL THE TRUTH FOR PEACE OF MIND

Dear Virginia Vane: Can anybody understand me? I thought I did. Several boys have proposed to me and I've always thought I understood them so well that I could tell whether they were really in love or not, but now I've been disappointed in love just like anyone else. The man in the case, L., has the perfect complement for my nature. And we have similar tastes. And for two years we have been working together, to further some amateur theatricals in our neighborhood. We have shared enthusiams, disappointments, and always remained the best of friends. A dozen times I've thought he was on the verge of proposing to me, and always I've been disappointed. Now our work is very nearly finished, and already he is interested in another girl—a frivolous type of butterfly who wouldn't help him in anything he undertook. I know that he loves me. I know that our tastes are absolutely similar. Why should he suddenly lose interest in me?

Mary G.

Because he never did have the sort of interest in you which you so confidently expected. Because you mistook companionship for a case of real love. Companionship is the best basis in the world for a successful marriage, but unfortunately if it hasn't a good bit of love attached, it's an absolute waste.

You've been too hopeful because L. has probably been more attentive, admiring and devoted than he realized—sheerly out of his love for whatever work you were doing together, and his appreciation of your help. Half the time you were imaging him ardent, he was merely enthusiastic about some success. He found you the most willing, helpful companion in the world, and he took it for granted that you met him on the same impersonal basis, as he himself had established in his own mind.

Don't be too bitter about it. He probably didn't encourage you at all. It never occurred to him that you were founding a romance on the work you did together. And now that the job is nearly at an end, he no longer feels the need of your constant companionship—so he turns his mind to more romantic matters. Possibly he's chosen a much less suitable companion than yourself—but the point is he's chosen her, and that he may find more reason to be sentimental about a fluffy-haired little idiot who ignores his work, than a good pal who appreciates and understands him.

Don't make your head ache trying to think these things out. Love isn't an easy matter to dope out. You've made a mistake, but you haven't really lost anything. You still have a good friend, and if you are tolerant and understanding, you'll keep him. Whereas if you turn bitter and resentful, scenting injury where none was meant, you'll estrange your good companion forever.

Let Time Decide

THE DANER: Doesn't the letter above have some similarity to your own?

Aren't you too, rather banking on the fact that having enjoyed work with someone you loved—and hoping that work will be the means of drawing you into an even closer relationship? It's a splendid beginning for a real love, but you mustn't hope too hard. You mustn't pin all your faith on this one man. Let time decide the question and do try to interest yourself in other things. All the factors you name, are favorable to your cause, but only a good dose of real love will bring about the proposal you desire so much, and that sort of love can't be forced.

BROWN EYES: Tell the truth. That's the only way to ease your conscience. You won't know any peace of mind while you attempt to deceive the man you love.

Some women keep silence forever, finding it easy to do so, and believing that they are acting for their greater happiness, in so doing. But you aren't made of that material. You'll suffer and worry and spoil every bit of peace and joy that might come to you, with your own uneasy conscience. So get the worst over with now, and be perfectly honest.

MY NEIGHBOR Says —

In cooking anything in which milk and the acid of vegetables, such as tomatoes, are blended, dissolve a pinch of soda in the milk and there will be less danger of curdling.

To remove rust from the inside of a dish cover, you should rub the discolored part well with sweet oil and leave for a day or two, then rub with finely powdered, unslacked lime until all the rust disappears. Give another rubbing with oil and keep in a dry place.

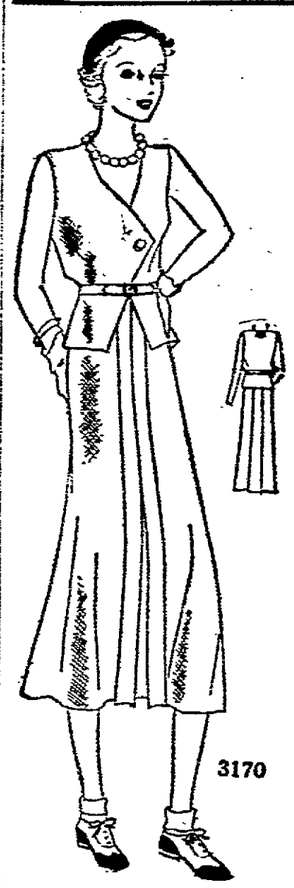
Waistcoat Effect



BY ANNEBELLE WORTHINGTON

Various fascinating materials are suitable for this jaunty model.

The original chose white cotton mesh and accented its slim waistline with a red patent leather belt. A matching red bone button gives it a smart touch.

Style No. 3170 may be had in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards 39-inch.

HAIR TONICS ARE EXCELLENT FOR DANDRUFF

Dandruff is a nuisance, besides being a signal that your scalp is not in good condition.

Nor does any woman want the bother of itching that dandruff has a way of bringing in its wake.

If you have dandruff and keep on having it, don't complain about how mean nature is, or the summer or anything else. You can get rid of it, if you will. But it takes a strenuous regime of hair-care. Make up your mind to go in for this and you'll have a scalp clear as a baby's.

There are two kinds of dandruff, one the light, powdery scales, the other the yellowish type. The former usually comes with dry scalps, the latter with oily hair.

Both require about the same kind of treatment, only you use different kinds of tonic. For the first type, get a tonic for dry scalps, the latter one for oily scalps.

Invest in a fine tooth comb and gently go over your whole scalp, scraping the dandruff loose. Don't scratch it so hard you hurt your head. All you need do is to loosen it slightly. Putting on your tonic and massaging does the rest.

Use the tonics every night for a week, then give yourself or have somebody else give you a herb shampoo. These come especially prepared for dandruff and are very refreshing in addition.

May Cure In Week

After your shampoo, use a medicated ointment by applying it to your scalp after parting all the hair out of the way. Then massage your head firmly until it sinks into the scalp.

OMRO DEFEATS FALCON NINE BY 3-1 SCORE

Victors Bunch Hits in Seventh Inning to Push Over Their Runs

Menasha—Bunching their hits in the seventh inning, the Omro nine stopped the winning streak of the Menasha Falcons with a 3 to 1 win on the Omro diamond Sunday afternoon. The defeat forced the Menasha team into third place in loop standings, with seven wins and four defeats.

"Shawano" Zenefski, Falcon speed ball hurler, worked on the slab for Menasha, allowed only five hits, and rapped out the triple that drove in the only Falcon run. In spite of Zenefski's performance, the Menasha aggregation failed to find the offerings of Vern, Omro hurler, for more than five safeties, and could chalk up only one talley.

The game soon developed into a pitcher's battle with the Falcons holding a one run lead after the third inning. Omro trailed until the seventh, when a volley of hits brought in the three runs that sewed up the ball game.

Zenefski went the route in the pitcher's box, with Krysiak catching. The Omro battery was Vern and Falker.

WILLIAMS PLACED ON PROBATION BY JUDGE

Sentence of From Two to Five Years at Waupun Is Suspended

Menasha—Henry J. Williams, who pleaded guilty of embezzlement of $8,565.64 of the funds of the Valley Plumbing and Heating and Supply Co., of Menasha, in municipal court July 9, was placed on probation to the state board of control by Municipal Judge S. L. Spengler at Oshkosh, Friday afternoon. Several persons, including those who had been injured by the embezzlement, interceded in William's behalf, it was stated.

He was sentenced to serve not less than two nor more than five years in the state penitentiary at Waupun, but sentence was suspended and probation will be effective during the same period. District Attorney Frank Keefe, who acted for the state, stated that he believed Williams would make a good citizen if given the opportunity to make good.

The supply company, of which he was formerly vice president and manager, as well as the bonding company which was required to make good his defalcation, asked leniency for Williams.

That the defendant has already made restitution of $3,500, and that arrangements which have been made are satisfactory to all concerned, was the information given to the court. Relative to the probation, Attorney Keefe stated that the amount involved was not as important in this case as the previous record and attitude of the defendant. He asserted he believed the defalcation of the defendant had resulted from bad company and outside influences.

SCHNELLER SPEAKS TO CHILD SAFETY CLUB

Menasha — Colonel Frank J. Schneller of Neenah, was the principal speaker at the Kiwanis boys' and girls' safety club meeting in the Brin theatre Saturday afternoon Schneller urged the youngsters to watch in both directions, while crossing streets and to exercise care wherever traffic is involved. He illustrated his talk with stories of accidents resulting from carelessness, and added a number of entertaining anecdoes relative to camp life.

About 325 youngsters were in attendance Saturday afternoon. The talk was given in conjunction with the regular motion picture entertainment and was sponsored by the Kiwanis club.

MERCHANTS TURN BACK KAUKAUNA TEAM, 19-15

Menasha —The Menasha Merchants scored a 19 to 15 victory over the Kaukauna Merchants in a free for all slug fest on the Third-st diamond Sunday morning. Trailing 8 to 1 in the fifth inning, the Merchants squad started a rally that sent 18 runners across the plate before the end of the game. Resch drove out two home runs for Menasha, while Trilling and Fahrenkrug were also credited with circuit clouts.

The Kaukauna battery was Cook and Hopfensperger, while Voss and Resch performed for the Merchants. The Merchants will continue a seven game series with the Loop Merchants Monday and Tuesday evening.

FIRE EXTINGUISHED IN PARKED AUTOMOBILE

Menasha—The Menasha fire department was called out about 6 o'clock Saturday evening, when a fire started in an automobile parked on Main-st. The blaze was apparently started by a cigaret dropped in the rear seat, and both the back lean and seat were damaged. The car carried an Illinois license, but the owner failed to appear while department employes were at work and his identity was not established.

AUTOMOBILE STOLEN FROM PARKING PLACE

Menasha—Menasha delegates to attend the state convention of paid firemen at Oconto Aug. 4, 5 and 6 will be named at a meeting of the Menasha fire department in the city hall Monday evening, according to Paul Theimer, department chief. The attendance of two delegates, at city expense, was authorized at the common council meeting last week.

MAN DROWNED IN MILWAUKEE NOT FORMER MENASHAN

Identification of Peter Novak Made Certain by Police

Menasha—That the Peter Novak who drowned at Milwaukee last Wednesday, is not the former Menasha resident by that name, who has been absent from this city for about two and one half years, was assured in a communication to Chief of Police James Lyman, from Milwaukee police headquarters today.

"Referring to your long distance communication of July 10, relative to ascertaining in behalf of Mrs. Novak of your city, whether Peter Novak found drowned in the Milwaukee river, near the Racine-st bridge here, is her missing husband, we are giving below the information gleaned by our investigating officer.

"Peter Novak, the deceased, was born in this city, and has been a permanent resident here. He has been married eight years to Hattie Novak of 1523 West Lincoln-ave; and has been employed by the city of Milwaukee for the last three years as a bridge painter. He is described as age 41, five feet 11 inches tall; medium build; weight, 190 pounds; blue eyes, and has a noticeable scar on the left cheek. Has a brother residing in West Allis.

"Our investigator is satisfied, through his inquiries, that the deceased man is in no way related to the Mrs. Novak of your city."

STIEGLER WINNER IN JUNIOR YACHT RACE

Neenah—Two dorys took part in the Saturday afternoon Junior yacht races sailed over a three mile triangular course on Lake Winnebago. Three boats started, but that skippered by Howard Neubauer was ruled out at the start for not starting with the others. The other two boats, skippered by Welberg and Stiegler, sailed a pretty race and it was nip and tuck at the finish, until Welberg took too long a tack in order to make the home buoy and lost to Stiegler by about three minutes.

Last Thursday afternoon the alternate section of the Junior club sailed a heat which was won by Lowell Zabel. John Farmakes was second and Lyall Stanton, third. A race for the mid-week section of the club is scheduled for Wednesday afternoon, July 15.

Fred Solomon and Gilbert Neff, Jr., are acting as starters and judges for the Junior division.

Each boy skipper is marked by a point system. The one having the largest number of marks to his credit at the end of the season will be presented with a pennant by the Nodaway Yacht club, which is sponsoring the Junior activities.

WOULD MAKE BANDS IN TWIN CITIES OFFICIAL

Neenah—A bid has been made by the local C. M. T. C. committee to have the Neenah-Menasha high school bands designated as the official band at the 1932 camp at Ft. Sheridan, Ill. The idea is to enroll all male members as a band unit for the month's training and form a nucleus for a band at the fort. The plan will be discussed in January at a meeting of officials at Chicago. The two bands could offer a large number of boys eligible for enlistment for the annual camp.

HAUFE WINS HONORS AT CLAY PIGEON SHOOT

Neenah — Carl Haufe won first honors Sunday afternoon at the first of a series of clay pigeon shoots conducted at the Lakeview traps by the Twin City Sportsman club. He broke 70 out of a possible 75 birds. George Buser was second with 67. The shoot was attended by a large number of sportsmen, who will meet again next Sunday afternoon for another shoot. A group of men will meet Wednesday evening at the traps to practice.

MANY UNEMPLOYED LOOKING FOR WORK

More Than 300 Men Register for Jobs on Highway Overhead

Neenah—That there are many unemployed persons in this vicinity who are willing to work was manifested Monday morning when more than 200 men and boys appeared at the city hall to register with the state highway commission for jobs on the overhead to be built over the Soo line tracks on highway 26.

Each man was compelled to sign cards concerning his former work, tell how long he has been out of work and the kind of work desired. Married men and those with dependents will be given first choices.

The state will construct the viaduct about four miles west of this city. In order to give people residing in the neighborhood a chance to work, notice was given that a highway commission representative would be at the Neenah city hall to select men for the work. Most of the applicants were from the twin cities while a few were from Appleton and Oshkosh. The work is expected to get under way within a short time after letting the contract.

TWIN CITY DEATHS

JOSEPH CEPELIK

Menasha—Joseph Cepelik, 26, 797 Racine-st, died at Theda Clark hospital about 7:30 Monday morning after an illness of six weeks. He was born in Cleveland, O., March 3, 1905, and came to Menasha from Greenleaf, where he resided for 15 years. He has been a resident of this city for three years.

Survivors are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Cepelik; five sisters, Mrs. Dean Weston, Milwaukee, Mrs. R. Evans, Dearborn, Mich., Mrs. Clarence Letzer of Edgar, and the Misses Marion and Rose Cepelik of Chicago.

Funeral services will be held at St. John's church at 9 o'clock Thursday morning, the Rev. W. B. Polaczyk officiating. Interment will be in St. John's cemetery. The body will be removed to the residence from the Laemmrich funeral home Monday evening.

JOSEPH DORO

Menasha—Funeral services for Joseph Doro, 565 Appleton-st, were held at St. Patrick's church at 9 o'clock Monday morning. The Rev. G. A. Clifford officiated, and interment was in St. Margaret's cemetery.

COUNCIL COMMITTEES MEET TUESDAY NIGHT

Neenah—A meeting of committees of Neenah and Menasha city council members, appointed to discuss the municipal court question, will be held at 7:30 Tuesday evening at Neenah city hall. A similar meeting was called last week at Menasha but no action was taken. It is understood that the committees are not in a hurry to appoint a judge at this time, preferring to lay the matter over until next April when the people may cast their own votes. The municipal judgeship will be one of the questions on the ballot next spring. A judge appointed now by the twin city committee would only hold office until that time.

Who's News Today

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON
Copyright, 1931, by Cons. Press

New York — (CPA) — American financiers are citing hopefully records of past performances of Clement Moret, governor of the bank of France. Just now it is M. Moret's play, as he sits in with the other money magnificoes of Europe, with Germany's fate possibly hinging on the turn of a card.

Last January M. Moret made an impressive speech to the stockholders of the bank of France, in which he indicated a break with the traditional French policy of financial insularity. He deplored the glut of gold in France and said this gold ought to be out working, all over the world, rehabilitating trade and industry and lubricating business. "Now—as you were saying about this gold reserve," his confreres may now remark.

At 46, M. Moret has spent 23 years in state finance. Entering the ministry of finance in 1908, he was director of Alsace-Lorraine finances until he was made assistant governor of the bank of France in 1928. In March, 1930, he succeeded Emile Moreau as governor. Through M. Moreau, he was the inheritor of the Caillaux tradition of dynamic money, working day and night.

He lives behind a tall garden wall, with characteristic French reserve, has a huge library, in which he is deeply absorbed, and no particular diversions or hobbies. He is modern in his financial views and victorian in his personal life.

Never much good at team work, Anthony H. G. Fokker, who absentmindedly rolled up millions in airplane building, withdraws from the subsidiary corporations of General Motors. Mr. Fokker is an individualist who insists that he does not remember his first wife's name. Building a $500,000 mansion on the palisades, he lives in a caretaker's shack and, intent on problems of stress and strain or pay-load, wanders into the Hudson with his clothes on swimming is one of his favorite diversions. In Holland, at 18, he built and flew a plane which won the prize in a Russian military competition. The Germans took this over, and 8,000 Fokkers roared over the western front.

Sleep is a waste of time, he says, but he does a little casual sleeping. Rolling up Fifth-ave in a 16-cylinder Cadillac, with a liveried chauffeur, Mynheer Anthony, coatless, in a grease-smeared shirt, snoozes in the back seat.

He Irritates Directors

By munching candy at directors' meetings. He built the Josephine Ford, which took Byrd to the North Pole; Kingsbury Smith's world girdling Southern Cross; Amelia Earhart's Friendship; Byrd's America and the Bird of Paradise which flew Maitland and Hegenberger to Hawaii. He came to America in 1923 and established the Atlantic Aircraft Co., at Hasbrouck Heights, N. J.

For 37 years, Nikola Tesla has been out-dreaming other scientists and inventors. But his fanatsies of the nineties became the realities of the nineteen hundreds. Celebrating his seventy-fifth birthday, he projects inter-planetary exchanges of energy which will end stellar isolation.

Back in 1894, a long, lean, almost cadaverous man used to enthrall Ward McAllister and other playboys at Delmonico's with dissertations on the fly—and how he could fly! And maybe man would get that way some day too. That was Nikola Tesla from the kingdom of Lika, Austria-Hungary border state, rubbed out long before the big war. Mr. Tesla's visions suggested Hashish to some rock-ribbed scientists, but in 1915 he got the Nobel physics prize for his research in energy transmission, his take-off in today's prophecy.

While he has called many of the modern scientific miracles in advance, some are still in suspense, notably his prediction that some day the Atlantic ocean will be lit up like Forty second and Broadway by some comparatively simple electrical conjuring.

NON-SUPPORT ACTION HEARD BY BEGLINGER

Neenah—A non-support action, a Calumet-co case, was heard by Judge Beglinger Saturday in circuit court. Thomas O'Neil, Appleton, was released under bond and arrangements are being made for entry of a court order to require him to care for two minor children. O'Neil declared he is willing to support his children if given employment and pointed out he has paid his wife more than $4,000 since his divorce in 1926. He has been out of work for several months, he claimed.

Fete Celebrities At Nations Capital City

BY DOROTHEA J. LEWIS
(Post-Crescent's Washington Society Editor.)

Washington—Time whirled itself backwards into the very height of the season last week, or so it seemed for the Nnational Capital was again entertaining celebrities.

During the winter months, there was a steady procession and progression of at least "a lion" a week. Royalty, diplomacy, art, aviation each had its day with famous representatives climbing the stairways and crossing the doorsteps of Washington.

The National Capital welcomed Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, great fliers who have made Jules Verne a tottering old fogie of conservative ideas, with enthusiasm and celebration on Monday but minus New York's yards of ticker tape and small town hysteria. The White House, which has during a year seen Lindbergh, Byrd, Balchen, Coste, Rickenbacker, Earhart and other famous eagles, welcomed the latest air heroes with luncheon. The Secreatry of Commerce Robert Patterson Lamont, who will join Mrs. Lamont at their summer home at West Bay, Land O' Lakes, Wis., this month, was one of the small but interesting company of guests at the luncheon.

Hold Reception

There was also, in one short day, a reception, a dinner and Post's delightful tale of fisherman Hoover and Gatty monopolizing the luncheon conversation with stories of fighting fish.

* * *

Dr. and Mrs. Charles Marsh, formerly of Green Bay spent the weekend in Washington with Dr. and Mrs. Delos O. Kinsman and Dr. and Mrs. Harold Golder, all formerly of Appleton.

Until this year, Dr. Marsh was a member of the faculty of American University here, which claims Dr. Kinsman as head of its Economics department and Dr. Golder as a professor. This year Dr. Marsh was a member of the faculty of the College of William and Mary in quaint Williamsburg, Va., and is continuing his teaching in summer school.

It was the Marsh's first visit to the National Capital in months and they had a busy time. Mrs. Marsh was formerly Miss Chloro Thurman.

* * *

Dr. and Mrs. John Rich McDill of Waukesha, Wis., and Washington ton Arms school and Vassar college have just announced the engagement of their daughter, Jane, to Giles Greyville Healey of New York.

Miss McDill is a graduate of Holwhile Mr. Healey is a graduate of Yale.

* * *

Miss Harriet Winslow, sister of Carlisle Winslow director of the Forest Products laboratory at Madison, left Washington for Canada to spend part of the summer. She will sail later in the season for Europe and does not expect to return to her Georgetown home until autumn.

Asher Hobson, formerly of Madison and now a member of the department of foreign relations of the Agriculture department, is expected back in his Washington office next Wednesday (July 15).

Since attending the Congress of Agriculture in Czechoslovakia some time ago, Mr. Hobson has been traveling about in Europe, visiting foreign offices of the Department of Agriculture. During his absence, Mrs. Hobson has been staying in Wisconsin.

Dr. and Mrs. E. L. Ford, formerly of Racine, are spending some time at Carlisle, Pa., where Dr. Ford is lecturing in the Dickinson summer school of religious education.

In August, Dr. and Mrs. Ford and their daughter, Alice Louise, will go to Wisconsin for a vacation. They will visit Miss Louise M. Collier, Mrs. Ford's sister, in Racine and then journey about the state.

Hartman Listens

Douglas Hartman of Watertown, secretary to Rep. George J. Schneider of Appleton, spent the eve of his Fourth of July dancing on the Shoreham Terrace and listening to Graham McNamee becoming breathless over the championship fight.

* * *

Mrs. Oscar Juve, formerly of Madison, spent Wednesday picnic-fashion at Bay Ridge as a guest of Mrs. Arthur Palmer. There was swimming, and loafing and luncheon. She motored down and back.

Dr. William F. Notz of Watertown, dean of the school of Foreign Service of Georgetown university, will have a nice, new campus building soon.

* * *

Ever since its founding in 1919, the Foreign Service school has been located in Washington's downtown, business section, far from the very lovely Georgetown university campus on the hilltop. Now the university hopes to remove the school from its unattractive site by October 1932 and house it in a new and appropriate building. The first step will be the moving of the graduate department to the Healy building on the hilltop this October.

Dr. Notz has just begun a six-weeks teaching course in economics in George Washington university's school. Later in the year he will probably go to Europe.

* * *

Mrs. John C. Schafer, wife of Rep. Schafer of Milwaukee, left Washington Thursday to drive to Wisconsin. She was accompanied by her four children. Rep. Schafer, who has not been well recently will follow later by train. They expect to spend most of the summer in Milwaukee.

Since the end of school, the Schafers have been spending much time at a cottage at Bay Ridge and frequently entertained Rep. Schafer's Naval academy appointees over week ends. The four Schafer youngsters are violently sunburned and love it.

FIRE DESTROYS BUILDINGS ON LEEMAN FARM

George Jones Loses Barn, Milk House, Machinery and Stored Crops

Special to Post-Crescent

Leeman—Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the barn, milk house, wood pile and hay, feed, three load of oats and farm machinery about noon Sunday on the George Jones farm about 2½ miles east of this village. The family was spending the day with relatives near Green Bay, and did not learn of the loss until members returned hoem about 6:30 that evening. Neighbors who discovered the burning barn fought vainly to save any part of the building, and worked steadily with buckets and wet blankets to save the house which was on fire several times. The barn was a new building built on the foundation of one destroyed just a year ago this month. The loss was estimated at $4,000. It is partly covered by insurance.

A ball game played between Deer Creek and Nichols at H. F. Schroeder's corner Sunday was won by Deer Creek, 10 to 12.

The Lutheran Ladies Aid society will hold its annual bazaar next Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. Raechel Thompson. Supper will be served.

NEAR COMPLETION OF NEW BUILDING

Special to Post-Crescent

New London—Construction of the building at the west foot of Wolf River-ave by the city to house trucks and machinery municipally owned is nearing completion. It will be finished with the hanging of nine pair of double doors, which are being made this week. The building, 140 by 32 feet, is of brick construction. It is built to provide ample and well lighted space for inside work and will be heated with a steam unit system and automatic fans. The boiler will be located at the west end. It is of fire proof construction. Lighting fixtures and the heating unit will be installed later in the season. The plans were drawn by Victor Thomas of this city, and the construction work has been in charge of Albert Gesse, head of the street commission.

Mr. Gesse states that his crew will begin work soon repairing the bridges on Dorr and S. Pearl-sts. All bridge work was taken over by the state last year, but city crews may do the work, being reimbursed for labor and material at state expense. Walks will be repaired and ceniers tarred, no painting being necessary this season.

A crew also is at work on the annual cleanup of sewers. This is being done with the aid of two sewer cleaning machines which operate with an underground cable and bucket running through the block. Many sewers in the down town district have been cared for, as well as those in the residence districts. The work upon the bridges will begin as soon as the lumber arrives.

FIND STARLING NEST ON FARM IN LIBERTY

Special to Post-Crescent

New London— The westward spread of the English starling again has been noted. The attention of Giles H. Putnam and Rev. F. S. Dayton was directed to a strange bird which had made its appearance at the August Braatz farm, in Liberty township. Mr. Braatz first saw the bird as it poked its head through a hole in the eaves of his house. The bird uttered strange cries and appeared unable to make its escape. Mr. Braatz, with the aid of a ladder and a saw enlarged the opening but the bird returned to make its nest.

NEW LONDON DEFEATS APPLETON SOFTBALLERS

Special to Post-Crescent

New London—New London's soft ball team had an easy time for five innings with the Appleton Service Bakery Sunday morning. Thirteen hits were made off Crane for eight runs. They held the losers scoreless until the ninth, when the Bakers pounded three runs off Much. Greaenz, who went in for the bakers in the fifth, held New London scoreless and hitless. However, eight runs were too much of a handicap for Lewis' team to overcome. Huntley and Heinz were the big shots at batting, while Barlow was the whole works in the local infield.

WEYAUWEGA NINE HELD SCORELESS

Westphal Allows Only Three Hits as New London Wins, 8 to 0

Special to Post-Crescent

New London—Pete Westphal turned in his second no run game of the season when he held Weyauwega sluggers to three hits here Sunday afternoon. In the meantime his team mates were making 13 hits count for eight runs. Westphal also had the edge on strikeouts, getting nine to Wahl's six. Weyauwega's infield kept Wahl in hot water continually. Yost and Lasch were the whole fireworks, from New London's viewpoint. Twice, with Lasch on second, Larry placed his hit perfectly on the hit and run sign. Lasch scored and Larry stretched measley singles into doubles.

New London scored in the first when Lasch's single drove in Dobberstein, who had got on bases on an error. New London scored again in the sixth when Lasch singled and stole second. Yost's hit brought Lasch in and Blink's grounder sent Larry to third. Yost came in when Wahl threw away Magolske's slow roller to third.

In the next inning Dobberstein started a rampage when he singled. Dernbach bunted and both came home on Lasch's double. Yost again pulled a hit and run to send Art home. New London scored again twice in the eighth to make the game perfectly safe on hits by Westphal, Dobberstein and Sweedy.

RASPBERRY CROP LIGHT BUT GOOD

Peak Prduction of Late Crop Expected on Market This Week

New London—Berry growers of the district will this week see the high point of what is termed a small crop of the finest black and red raspberries ever grown here. Winter killing of many patches brought about inestimable losses, but where any protection from wind and cold was offered, bushes came through in good form. The summer's plentiful rains have developed wonderful berries.

The first pickings of the early berries came on the market last week, selling for 30 to 35 cents, according to the grower. This week will mark the appearance of the late berries. Many growers are selling to a Black Creek man who calls for the berries shipping them independently. Others are hauling them out of town.

If the summer rains continue there will be no shortage of black berries, as the bushes are loaded and there is every evidence of a crop of both wild and tame berries. Many of the growers south and east of the city notice a few of these berries becoming ripe, which would point to an early ripening, since the season usually falls at about the middle of August. Many of the largest growers of this section are located within the city limits. These include W. W. Willard, Mrs. Henry Ruhsam, John Zitzke, Edward Mouto, Martin Abraham, Sherman Edminister and Henry Reier. The Mosquito hill district also is one of the finest for berry growing.

Piles Go Quick
Without Salves or Cutting
Itching, bleeding, protruding piles are caused by bad circulation of the blood in the affected parts. The parts become weak, flabby, almost dead. Only an internal remedy can remove the cause — that's why salves, suppositories and cutting fail. Dr. Leonhardt's prescription, HEM-ROID, succeeds because it removes congestion, restores circulation, heals and strengthens the diseased parts. HEM-ROID has such a wonderful record of quickly ending even piles of long standing, that Schlintz Bros. say one bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets must end your pile agony or money back. Adv.

BY HAROLD C. FRANCK

SOME heavy artillery from Wisconsin Rapids rolled into Appleton Sunday afternoon in the form of a "cracker-jack" baseball team and thundered its way across "Auggy" Brandt's park to the tune of a 13 to 8 victory, wrested from the mits of the Appleton club, leaders in the Fox River Valley league contest.

The old grandstand in the park fairly bulged as it was filled to capacity with one of the most enthusiastic crowds in Appleton's baseball history. Experts estimated the mob all the way from 1,500 to 2,000 people.

And the weatherman furnished as nice a dish of weather as any ball player could wish for. "Old Sol" reposed behind a screen of clouds all day, and the mercury registered 74 degrees above.

Everybody seemed satisfied and thrilled to the marrow except the Fords—and they can't be blamed for that. The Rapids crew was just "on," and that's about all there was to it. The old horsehide fairly jumped every time it struck one of their bats, and that wasn't "Arty" Behr's fault either. The Ford pitcher tossed an excellent game, as is evidenced by the fact that he retired eight Rapids sluggers on strikes.

Tough Luck "Joe"

If there was a mind reader in the crowd yesterday, "Joe" Shields would probably get arrested for what he thought about the game. Joe's offerings at the bat were a perfect example of how the game "went" for the Fords.

Everytime "Joe" went at bat, determined to knock the Rapids fielders of their feet with a hot one, the ball took a long ride, straight up and straight down, into the hands of the catcher, pitcher or one of the Rapids basemen.

The big innings for the Fords were the fifth and eighth. In the fifth they threatened to steal a march on the invaders when "Len" Smith, sick and tired of the way things were going, pounded a homer far over the right field fence. "Dats" Crowe was on second and Behr on third when the ball went for its long ride.

In the eighth "Sonny" Tornow, who was playing a game far away from the old Tornow standard pounded out a homer, but there wasn't anybody on base to cash in on the drive. Shields popped to second base, and Eggert sent a hot one whistling into left field where it was caught by Graber, newcomer in the ranks of the Rapids aggregation.

Crowe Opens Up

It was after the two outs, and Bowers took first base on four balls, that things started popping for the Fords. Crowe socked a fast one between second and third and went home on a single into right field by Behr. Behr scored when Bowers pounded out a long hit into center field. But Bowers was caught short trying to stretch the hit into a three bagger, much to the Fords' dismay.

The final Ford run came in the final inning when Smith went home on a long single pounded out by Tornow. Smith had gone to first on a single, and was followed by Murphy, who was allowed to take base on balls. Tornow went to bat with his right leg in pretty bad shape, and swatted a fast one between first and second. Verbrick went in to run for Tornow, but was obliged to keep first base warm while Eggert struck out and Bowers flied out to third base, retiring the side.

The invaders held a typical track meet in the fourth, scoring five runs off three hits. The Fords looked their worst in that frame, and were credited with an error when Tornow let an easy one roll between his legs between first and second.

In Hot Water

"Arty" Behr found himself in hot water at the start of the frame. Huber walked and went home a few seconds later when Graber slugged a three bagger which was lost in the deep grass bordering the fence far in center field. Brandt walked, and McLain flied out to short stop. It was then when "Sonny" Tornow was credited with the first "bingle."

Eastling, who is not recognized as such a "sure fire" batter pounded a slow ball just to the right of second base. The ball rolled between Tornow's pedal extremities and Graber went home. Brandt advanced to second while Tornow chased the ball.

Kuenn slugged another single, scoring the pitcher. Judnick flied out to Smith in center field, and Bromley pounded out a two bagger, which brought Kuenn home. Bromley died on second when Hribernik flied to Smith. "Len" made 100-foot dash to nail the horsehide sphere.

Score Two Runs

Two runs manufactured from five hits wrote another chapter in the history of the game. Kuenn started the ball rolling with a single and Judnik popped to second base. Bromley hammered a single but went out at second when Hribernik hit a short single to third base. Kuenn scored on the play.

Hribernik stole second shortly before Huber smacked out another single. Graber followed with a two bagger, scoring Hibernik. Brandt popped to first base.

The climax for the Rapids crew came in the eighth. They scored three runs off four two three baggers, and two doubles. Judnik opened the frame with a triple and scored on Bromley's double. Hribernik let three strikes go by and was followed by Huber, who scored Bromley on a double. Graber flied out to left field and Brandt scored Huber on the longest line drive of the entire fracas. The ball was lost in the grass in deep center. McLain walked, and then stole second base. Eastling struck out for the third time in succession, retiring the side.

Calling the Strikes

New York—(CPA)—Ever since Colonel Doubleday, invented baseball, players have been superstitious. They will walk blocks out of their way to find an old horseshoe, but they won't go out of their way to practic when it is 100 in the shade.

The Cleveland club was in training. One of the players, something of a wit, said in a stage whisper: "We are jinxed, and I like the boy, too." "You are not the man to fall for a jinx," was the reply. "But I tell you it's true. Our club has got the only player in the world with that name." "What name?" "Jonah, Jonah Goldman."

Goldman was then Cleveland's shortstop. He has just been traded to Indianapolis. What's in a name?

TUSTIN DEFEATS APPLETON NINE IN HARD FOUGHT TILT

Merchants Froze Out in Initial Frame on Error by "Pete" King

A promising victory for the Appleton Merchants' baseball team was a "freeze out" in the initial frame when an error by "Pete" King, Appleton third baseman resulted in a run for Tustin on the home lot here Sunday afternoon.

The fracas was one of the fastest and most furious played in Central Wisconsin league competition this season. Neither team scored after the initial frame. The Tustin aggregation pounded out only four scattered hits off Buss, clever Appleton hurler, and the local sluggers were able to reach Noel for only three scattered pokes at the horsehide.

Buss retired eight Tustin men on strikes and Noel struck out 15 Appleton players. It was a pitchers' duel from start to finish.

The Tustin aggregation pounded their hits in the first, fourth, sixth and eighth innings, while the Appleton team pounded their's in the second, third and fourth. In the eighth inning King, Tornow and Laabs struck out in succession.

HAGEN, ALLISS TIED IN CANADA TOURNEY

Two Veteran Golfers to Clash for Honor of Tommy Armour Title

Toronto, Ont.—(AP)—Walter Hagen, Detroit veteran, and Percy Alliss, British-born pro at the Wannsee club in Berlin, tomorrow will play 36 holes in an effort to determine which shall succeed Tommy Armour as Canadian open golf champion.

Unruffled by a driving rain, Alliss rammed home an 18-foot putt at the home green late Saturday afternoon for the birdie three that enabled him to tie Hagen at 282 for the 72 holes of the championship proper. The playoff for the title was put over until Tuesday because Alliss already was booked for exhibition matches yesterday and today.

Hagen had the championship apparently sewed up until the last four holes of his fourth round. At that point he held what looked like a safe lead but he messed his tee shot at the 15th and finally took six and then slipped one over par four at the 16th. He got his pars at the 17th and 18th but by that time the damage had been done. Alliss, six strokes behind after 63 holes, used up only 32 strokes on his last nine and climaxed a display of brilliant golf with that long putt at the 18th that he needed so badly.

Hagen and Alliss will collect $500 and $300 for first and second money. Other prize winners, with their scores, were: 283—Johnny Farrell, New York, $200; 284—Mortie Dutra, Long Beach, Calif., $150; 286—Ed Dudley, Concordville, Pa., $75; 291—Jules Huot, Quebec, $50; 292—Aubrey Boomer, France, $30; 292—Auguste Boyer, France, $30; and 292—Cyril Walker, Ridgewood, N. H., $30.

TILDEN OUTCLASSES RICHARDS IN MATCH

The tall Philadelphian who used to rule the amateurs, needed only 59 minutes to trounce Vincent Richards, defending champion, in the final round of the United States pro championship yesterday, 7-5, 6-2, 6-4. These two were the survivors of a field that included all of the leading American pros and Europe's two outstanding masters, Karel Koseluh and Albert Burke.

Only in the first set did Richards seem to have a chance. In this set he stormed the net to gain a 3-1 and 4-2 lead but Tilden unleashed the full power of his tremendous service to draw level at 4-4 and finally to win 7-5. After that the match was a runaway for Big Bill.

The doubles went to Richards and Howard Kinsey of California who beat Tilden and Frank Hunter, 7-9, 7-5, 6-3, 6-4, 6-3.

LEE HANLEY SIGNED BY AMERICAN CLUB

Evanston, Ill. —(AP)— Lee Hanley, brother of Dick Hanley, Northwestern's football coach, and a star on Wildcat gridiron and baseball teams, has been signed by the Indianapolis club of the American association.

Hanley, an outfielder, led the Northwestern team in batting and stolen bases for the 1931 season and played quarterback on Northwestern's championship football team last fall.

Hack Wilson Aids Cubs In Sharing Double Bill

Associated Press Sports Writer

THE new and less capricious ball that has given major league pitchers a new lease on life this season evidently is losing its magic qualities as the sun beams stronger and the batters begin to reach their top form. At any rate, the doctored sphere was forced to take a lusty beating over the week-end.

Hitting predominated in almost every instance yesterday as fourteen contests were unreeled in the two circuits, including a full set of doubleheaders in the National. Only ten pitchers out of twenty-eight who started were able to go the distance, and no club was held to less than two runs. Thirty runs crossed the plate in one tilt, twenty-one in another and nineteen in a third. Hits for the most part ran into double figures.

The Chicago Cubs and St. Louis Cardinals gave the day's most boisterous exhibition in the second game of their pair, the Cards pounding six Cub pitchers for 21 hits and a 17 to 13 victory. Three Card moundsmen gave up 16 hits. Chicago captured the first tilt, 7 to 5, largely the result of homeruns by Hack Wilson and Hazen Cuyler. Both sides used three hurlers.

The crippled New York Giants took two free-hitting contests from the Phillies, 13 to 6 and 9 to 4, to pick up a full game on the Cards. Berly and Heving held the Phils to eight hits in the first, while Freddie Fitzsimmons allowed only six in the nightcap. Frank Hogan hit two homeruns in the first game and Mel Otto a pair in the second.

Cincinnati's last place Reds came back after five straight defeats to sweep their holiday bill with the Pittsburg Pirates. Red Lucas bested three Pirate twirlers, 14 to 7, in the opener. The second, a pitcher's battle, went eleven innings before the Reds won out, 6 to 5.

Dodwn Boston Braves

Odolfo Luque, Brooklyn's veteran Cuban, pitched his fifth victory of the year as the Robins downed the Boston Braves, 7 to 4, in their first, but the Braves fought twelve innings to win the added attraction, 4 to 3. Socks Seibold went the route for the winners.

A pair of Connie Mack's second line pitchers, waite Hoyt and Leroy Mahaffey, gave the Athletics a clean sweep over the Boston Red Sox, 7 to 2 and 6 to 2. Hoyt allowed only six hits in the first, while Simmons and Foxx contributed homeruns to the champions assault on three opposing moundsmen. Mahaffey gave up seven in the nightcap, which was called at the end of the sixth to comply with a Sunday law. The two wins enabled the leaders to pick up a game and a half on the second place Washington Senators, who were tamed by the Yankee veteran, Herb Pennock, 10 to 4, in a single game at Washington. Both teams made 11 hits, but five Senator errors damaged their cause.

Cleveland and Chicago divided their American league double-header, the Indians winning the first behind Wes Ferrell's steady pitching, 10 to 4, but losing the nightcap, 7 to 5, when the White Sox jumped on Mel Harder for three runs in the seventh inning.

Elon Hogsett of the Detroit Tigers gave the day's best pitching exhibition when he held the St. Louis Browns to four hits and beat them, 7 to 2. He also helped the cause along with three hits off a trio of opposing hurlers.

KAUKAUNA DEFEATS GREEN BAY, 8 TO 3

Shawano Indians Lose to Kimberly in Fast Fracas, 6 to 2

Kaukauna —Pounding two Green Bay pitchers for 12 hits, Kaukauna took a Fox River Valley league fracas here Sunday by a score of 8 to 3. The game was finished in the ninth inning under protest, because Richard (Red) Smith, who plays with Manitowoc in the State league, had played with the locals. Michelson, the winning pitcher, allowed eight hits and two walks, striking out 11 men.

PICK COMMITTEES FOR WOMEN'S GOLF MEET NEXT WEEK

State Tournament to Be Conducted This Year at Janesville

Janesville —(AP)— Committees for the Wisconsin Women's Golf tournament, to be played over the 18-hole Janesville Country club course here July 20-25 were announced Saturday by Mrs. R. E. Wisner, Janesville, president.

With Mrs. Wisner as its chairman, the tournament board will be composed of Mrs. John E. Alexander, Wisconsin Rapids; and Mrs. S. S. Solie, Mrs. H. R. Green, and Mrs. Richard Taylor, all of Janesville.

Thursday, July 23—Second round match play, first round in consolations, second 18 holes medal handicap play for non-qualifiers, junior finals, and approaching and putting contest.

The course is 6,239 yards long and the oldest in Wisconsin. Women's par for the layout is 76, a mark never equaled, Miss Page's 83 being the closest approach.

With Mrs. Wisner as president, other officers are Mrs. Alexander, vice-president, and Mrs. Howard R. Green, Janesville, secretary and treasury.

TIE FOR FIRST PLACE IN RIVERVIEW TOURNEY

Lyle Spencer and Norman d C Walker handed in 73 cards in the President's cup tournament to tie for first place at Riverview Country club Sunday. The tie is to be played off some time this week, according to Oscar Riches, club pro.

The President's cup must be won three times by an individual player before he can take permanent possession. The cup is the gift of C. S. Boyd. Medal play with handicap governed competition in the tournament.

Next weekend the monthly tournament will be conducted at the club, Mr. Riches stated. Entries are already being received for the contest.

TOLEDO DROPS TWO IN DOUBLE HEADER WITH ST. PAUL CLUB

Minnesota Aggregation Caps Margin for First Place, Win 9-8,4-3

CHICAGO—(AP)— Most of the tension has been removed from the battle for the leadership of the American association, but Indianapolis and Kansas city are staging quite a struggle over the cellar position.

The blues today were in eight place and one-half games behind Indianapolis, and seemed likely to remain there at least until their series with Toledo and Minneapolis, respectively, are decided. The Indians yesterday divided a doubleheader with Kansas City, and the one game remaining in the series, left the Blues no chance of climbing out during the set.

St. Paul added another game to its first place margin by winning a pair from Toledo, 9 to 8, and 4 to 3 yesterday, while Louisville was splitting a pair with Milwaukee. The Saints scored eight runs in the first two innings of the opener, but had to repel a ninth inning rally by the hens to get the decision. A two-run effort in the seventh at the expense of Carl Mays, gave them the edge in the second contest.

Benny Bengough became the hero of 11,838 Milwaukee fans when he cracked out a home run with two men on in the ninth inning to give the brewers, a 10 to 8 victory over Louisville in the second game, after the Colonels had won the opener 15 to 5. Bengough's Frank Merriwell caused him to be carried from the field by a number of the customers. Errors, three of them by Danny Bloxsom, helped Louisville to eight runs in the first, making the Colonels' 21 hits more than ample. Bill Herman, Louisville infielder, accounted for a homer in each game.

Columbus Wins

Bud Parmalee held Minneapolis to five hits in the first game of another double bill to help Columbus to an 11 to 1 victory, but the Millers hopped onto Chapman and Ash for 17 hits and a 15 to 5 decision on the other one. In the opener, five homers, two by Riggs and one each by Hunt, Yoter and Crawford, made Parmalee's task easy, while Bob Meusel's circuit drive with the bases full helped the Millers along in the second game.

Bax Thomas outpitched Oral Hildebrand in the second game to give Kansas City a 3 to 2 edge over Indianapolis, after the Indians had won the first one, 10 to 7. Hildebrand did his best to down Thomas all alone, collecting a double and three singles, but received little help from the other Indians. Ed Holley, Bill Bayne and Bill Swift, all were hit hard by Indianapolis in the first game.

Plans are under way for $10,000 Kansas City open golf tourney next year.

NEENAH NINE TRIMS GREEN BAY; MARCH TOWARD 1ST PLACE

SUNDAY'S GAMES

Neenah 8, Green Bay 2.
Appleton 8, Menasha 0.

AN upset victory by one of the weaker teams of the Little Fox River Valley league Sunday afternoon caused a virtual tie for first place in the loop standings between Neenah's Merchants and the Little Chute Hollanders. De Pere, which had won but two previous starts in eight games and both of these from the last place Menasha squad finally found itself and aided by ragged fielding by the usually reliable Chute infield, squeezed out a 7 to 5 win at the Chuters' home field.

Score Tied

The score was tied 5 to 5 at the start of the ninth frame, but the Baymen counted twice more in that session. Jansen and Le May relieved Wildenberg and Evers for Little Chute when the going got hard and Kellerman and Mommartz finished for Buck Clark and Pitten for De Pere in the final frames.

It was Art Wildenberg's first league loss this year. Meanwhile Neenah batted around in the first inning to whip the strong Green Bay nine, 8 to 2 at the Bay. Hodek ruled nice ball after that frame and Merchant sluggers found him harder to hit each succeeding frame after he settled down and started to work the corners well.

He fanned 13 of Neenah's heavy hitters but meanwhile allowed 12 safeties most of which came in that disasterous first frame. Konetzke allowed six hits, one in each of the four four innings, two in the fifth and none thereafter. He fanned four men. Eddie Gullickson led the winners at bat with a home run and two singles followed by Luby with two doubles. Clancy had a double and a single to top the Bays.

Appleton further added to Sunday's jinx by trouncing Menasha, 8 to 0 at the Industrial City, after what started out to be a beautiful battle. The Athletics led, 1 to 0 in the fifth, but the Eagles caved in completely the last four games.

Share Third Place

The win tied the Athletics with Green Bay at Interlake park. In two previous encounters Green Bay won, 3 to 2, at Green Bay and Appleton 5 to 2 in this city.

Neenah has a postponed game with the tailend Menasha nine, which should be an easy victory, to prevent a tie with Little Chute in the percentage column. The two leaders meet at Neenah next Sunday in their second encounter, the Hollanders having taken the first battle between the pair by one score, 9 to 8, and the Chuters in the first game of the season.

BAETZ DECISION IS APPROVED AT MEET

Valley "Moguls" Rally at Green Bay Club for Annual Fish Fry

The decision of C. O. Baetz, president of the Fox River Valley Baseball league in regard to the "no-contest" game between Wisconsin Rapids and Kimberly, Sunday, June 28, was stamped with approval at a meeting of league "moguls" at the North Side Community club, Green Bay Sunday evening.

"Len" Smith, Elmer Schabo and Mr. Baetz, represented Appleton at the meeting. Two representatives were present from Kaukauna, Green Bay, Shawano and Wisconsin Rapids. The annual fish-fry preceded the business session.

The monthly financial report was given by Treasurer John Coppes. It was pointed out that Wisconsin Rapids and Appleton are leading the procession in paid admissions.

Matters pertaining to two play-off games also were straightened out. The Kimberly game is to be played on Sunday, Sept. 6, and the Kaukauna tussle will take place some time before Labor Day, it was stated.

FORESTERS WALLOP MOOSE NINE, 15 TO 0

The Catholic Order of Foresters softball team Friday evening whitewashed the Moose aggregation by a score of 15 to 0 on Wilson Junior high school diamond. The Moose team was unable to reach Griesbach, Forester hurler.

Schwab, Forester left fielder, hammered the ball out of the lot in the sixth inning of the fracas. The winners scored one run in the first inning, four in the third, three in the fourth, two in the sixth and five in the seventh.

Kitzinger and Griesbach furnished the batteries for the Foresters, and McGillan and Peotter for the Moose aggregation.

Physician Says Stribling Should Be Given Long Rest

BY FRANCIS J. POWERS
Copyright 1931

CHICAGO—(CPA)—Young Will Stribling of Georgia sensibly has offered no alibis for his overwhelming defeat at the hands of Max Schmeling. Some have dismissed his defeat with the remark that "Will forght one of his customary clutch and grab bouts," while a few are challenging his claim to courage.

A nationally prominent physician, who was at the ringside, gave the writer an entirely different viewpoint on Stribling's almost complete lack of ability against the dark German.

"Stribling has had too many fights for his age," declared the physician. "He is only 25 years old yet has been through more than 350 boxing bouts. The result in his case is exactly the same as with a two year old thoroughbred that has been raced too often. So much has been taken out of the boy in his fast and furious ring career that he had too little reserve when his chance for the championship came. I do not think he is lacking in courage. No man without courage would have continued fighting for so many years and no man without courage is an officer and pilot in the United States reserve aviation corps. Stribling is just worn out and he looked it when he came into the ring.

Might Be Champ

"Retire Stribling from the ring for a full year. Do not permit him to even put on a glove. With that mental and physical rest he might come back and still be a champion for he has natural ability. But against Schmeling he was far removed from the class expected of a challenger."

Schmeling, it appears, was a much underrated fighter before the Stribling bout. His sparring partners declared he was easy to hit. Yet Stribling could not damage him and he made the Georgian's left hand almost worthless. His defense has improved greatly and his ability to land short, hard punches in infighting is devastating. Max still is a slow starter and if any of the present challengers for his title are to beat him they must turn the trick early in the fight. After five rounds, Max comes fast and he has tremendous stamina.

It is presumed Schmeling will defend his title once more this year—likely in

KAUKAUNA HITS GREEN BAY HARD FOR 8-3 VICTORY

Losers Finish Tilt Under Protest, Question Smith's Eligibility

Kaukauna — After the Kaukauna baseball nine had pounded two Green Bay pitchers for 12 hits and had the game practically in the bag, it was finished in the ninth inning under protest of Joe Clusman, manager of the Green Bay club because Richard "Red" Smith played with the locals. Red Smith is a member of the Manitowoc club in the state league, and because of rain the Manitowoc team did not play their scheduled game.

Molenda, regular Green Bay pitcher who has two victories over the Kaws this season, left the game in the third inning, when Les Smith drove a hard liner over the center field wall against the ice house, scoring Phillips and Prange ahead of him. Zuidmulder, who was playing in right field came into pitch, Molenda taking Zuidmulder's place in right field.

Michelson pitched an almost perfect game, allowing eight scattered hits, striking out 11 men, and giving but two men base on balls. He started the game striking out the three men to face him in the first inning and fanning two in the second inning. He repeated the performance in the third inning, having fanned seven of nine men to face him in three frames.

Prange Delivers

Al Prange, who returned from school in the east with Red Smith, gave a fine exhibition of baseball in the seventh inning of the fray, when he jumped several feet into the air to make a one-handed catch of Kremb's line drive through short. He threw the ball to first where G. Zuidmulder was caught off first to complete a double play.

Kaukauna scored in the second, third, sixth and seventh stanzas. In the first they scored two runs, in the third they scored three runs, in the sixth they tallied twice, and a lone marker was added in the seventh. Green Bay tallied in the second frame, in the sixth and eighth frames. A lone marker came in each of these innings.

Les Smith scored a four bagger in the third inning to chase Molenda out of the pitcher's box. Phillips had singled to start the inning, and Prange had walked, both scoring ahead of Smith to give Kaukauna a 5 to 1 lead. The Bays never threatened after this inning.

Fonferek, the former Green Bay shortstop, who returned to the Bays after a year and a half of absence, to fill the shoes of the injured Clusman at shortstop, did a fine day's work at the plate. He was not in very good condition, but seemed not to have lost any of his old ability at the plate, getting three hits out of four times at bat.

An argument was caused in the eighth inning, when Molenda left the batter's box just as Michelson threw the ball. Umpire Lepine ruled that Molenda was all right in leaving the batter's box as the ball was not in motion. Molenda missed the next strike and was out. The ninth was short, four batters facing Michelson.

EDWARD LUDKE LOFT WINS PIGEON TROPHY

Kaukauna— By copping the 500 mile pigeon race from Norfolk, Neb., Edward Ludke loft won the Kaukauna Merchants trophy offered each year to the loft owner with the best average speed. Ludke also won the trophy in the old bird series last year. A silver trophy is given each year by the merchants for the last average speed of the spring and fall seasons.

Weather conditions for the race were very unfavorable, the birds having to fly against strong headwinds, and through some very rough weather on the way. They were released at 4.40 Saturday morning at Norfolk, and the first bird arrived at the Ludke loft at 5.28 Sunday morning. Karl Ploetz won second, Edward Ludke third, Albert Ludke fourth, and Joseph Heindel fifth.

APPLETON MOTORIST FINED $5 AND COSTS

Kaukauna— Lloyd Beach, Appleton, was fined $5 and costs Saturday when he appeared before Justice of the Peace Theodore Seggelink on a charge of reckless driving. He was arrested early Saturday morning by H. Alger, city motorcycle officer, for driving recklessly through the pig fair grounds on Dodge-st.

THE TOONERVILLE TROLLEY THAT MEETS ALL THE TRAINS

MANY FARMERS ATTEND MONTHLY PIG FAIR

Kaukauna—A large number of farmer buyers and sellers attended the monthly pig fair held by the Tri-county Fair association on Dodge-st Saturday. Exchanging began about 9 o'clock and lasted until noon. At the next pig fair, it is expected that a carload of work horses to fill the demand for the shortage, caused by recent heat wave, will be offered for sale by the association.

FINISH ANNUAL SUMMER SCHOOL

200 Students Write Final Examinations Saturday Morning

Kaukauna— Students of the summer session of Outagamie Rural Normal school completed their five weeks of work Saturday morning, when they wrote their examinations. Over 200 students were enrolled.

Classes were held every morning excepting Sunday. A limit of one credit was set by the school, according to W. P. Hagman, who is the principal. Students from Neenah, Menasha, Appleton, Little Chute, Kimberly and Kaukauna attended the classes. Several students came from rural districts near New London. The number of students enrolled was greater than last year even though a course in music, which had 20 students enrolled, was not offered this year.

STEIDEL CHAMPION KAUKAUNA GOLFER

Wins Title in Play Sunday at Kaukauna Golf Club Links

Kaukauna — Joseph Steidel won the annual club championship of the Kaukauna Golf club Sunda, with a score of 172 for 36 holes. Twenty-five players took part in the event, which was a 36-hole, non-handicap match. The match started at 8 o'clock when the entrants drew for partners. William Harwood was runnerup with 183.

This is the first year the tourney for the club championship was held, since the course was opened too late in the season last year. Play for a president's trophy will be held in August, from Aug. 9 through Aug. 30.

LEGION JUNIOR NINE TURNS BACK KIMBERLY

Kaukauna—Kaukauna American legion junior baseball team will enter the district tournament as a result of defeating Kimberly in the final game of county elimination Saturday at Kimberly, 8 to 2. Schuler was the winning pitcher. The team is composed of boys under the age of 17.

KAUKAUNA MERCHANTS DROP GAME TO MENASHA

Kaukauna—In a game full of errors and plenty of hitting, the Kaukauna Merchants were defeated by the Menasha Merchants, 19 to 15, at Menasha Sunday morning. The Kaws were at a loss with the 12-inch ball. A return game will be played at Kaukauna Sunday, July 26. The club will schedule games with any team. It is managed by Wilbur Derus.

KAUKAUNA SOFTBALLERS DEFEATED BY OSHKOSH

Kaukauna—Oshkosh softball team won a Fox River Valley league game from the Kaukauna softball team at the playgrounds Sunday morning, 15 to 4. The Kaws have not won a game in the circuit yet, being handicapped for lack of practice with a leather ball. The 12-inch ball is regulation with most Kaukauna teams use the 14-inch because of the size of the city softball diamonds.

FARMERS FROWN ON TIMOTHY HAY FOR LIVESTOCK FEED

Impoverishes Soil and Does Not Pay Rent or Taxes, They Say

BY W. F. WINSEY

Because timothy hay is of very small value as a feed for dairy cattle, it is a heavy feeder on fertilizer and impoverishes the soil, and does not pay the rent and taxes of land on which it is grown, many farmers in Wisconsin have discontinued raising the crop, and are raising alfalfa and sweet clover instead. Those who have made the change are getting three times as much feed as timothy supplies, a much superior feed, and one that leaves the soil in improved condition for the raising of following crops.

L. F. Graber, agronomist of the college of agriculture, says that he has seen the acreage devoted to alfalfa expand from a few hundred acres to more than a half million acres, and that he is now seeing alfalfa crowd out the once renowned red clover.

In some sections of Outagamie-co the change from timothy to sweet clover and alfalfa has been very large since the drouth and the short hay and pasture crops of last summer. In some townships, many farmers, however, are still pasturing and harvesting timothy.

The increasing acreages of sweet clover and alfalfa in Outagamie-co are largely due to such progressive farmers as Walter H. Wieckert, proprietor of the Wieckert Farms, route 4, Appleton. This season Mr. Wieckert has 28 acres of alfalfa and 36 acres of sweet clover.

From his first cutting of alfalfa he got enough first class hay to feed his herd of 60 cattle throughout the year. Last year he harvested 178 tons of alfalfa hay and something like 65 bushels of alfalfa seed.

This summer he is pasturing his herd, horses and hogs on 30 acres of sweet clover, and because the animals have a hard time keeping the sweet clover down he is reserving another six acre field for seed. If the conditions are favorable he will raise another crop of alfalfa seed this season.

MOTORCYCLE COP INJURED IN CRASH

Harold Alger Forced to Curb by Motorist Who Speeds Away

Kaukauna — Harold Alger, city motorcycle officer, was cut about the head early Sunday morning, when he was forced to the curb by a motorist he was following. About 1:30 Sunday morning he pursued a car past the police station. The car turned north on the Wisconsin-ave bridge, cutting the corner, forcing the officer to the curb, where he struck his head on the bridge railing, after being thrown from his motorcycle. The driver of the car did not stop, and his identity was not learned.

SOCIAL ITEMS

Kaukauna—Employes of the Chicago and Northwestern Railway company held a picnic at the De Pere fair grounds Sunday. Refreshments were served at the grounds.

Holy Name society of Holy Cross church received communion in a body at the 7 o'clock mass Sunday morning. After mass breakfast was served to the members in the church basement.

KAUKAUNA PERSONALS

Robert Leger and Miss Mary Legen of Milwaukee visited Mrs. Martin Drewenack on Sunday.

COUNTY FARMERS ARE BUSY WITH HAY CROP

BY W. F. WINSEY

Bear Creek—Farmers in this vicinity were busy, Thursday, in their large meadows making hay. The yields of most of the fields is quite large. As elsewhere in Outagamie county the pasture crop is short, the corn crop excellent and the grain crops quite promising. On each farm one or more members of the family are waging war on potatoes bugs that are thick and ravenous and doing great damage in neglected fields. Cabbage is rather small and the fields indicate that much re-planting has been dong due to the hot weather of the past week.

OUTAGAMIE-CO FREE FROM ARMY WORMS

Worms Menace Crops in Other Counties, Reports Reveal

BY W. F. WINSEY

Inquiries in a large part of Outagamie county, Friday, showed that the county is free from the army worm that is now ravaging the crops in Racine, Ozaukee and Milwaukee counties and is doing considerable damage in Jefferson and Washington counties. Clouds of grasshoppers were found along the roadsides.

"The worms appeared several weeks ago in small numbers," according to a newspaper report. "Washington county exterminated them two weeks ago before they got outside of a meadow where they were at work. They ruined about 18 acres there. The pest showed up again Tuesday in a sweet clover field."

"Farmers in Jefferson county are making isolated efforts to wipe out the worms, which have not yet become a serious menace."

"The worms had spread into five townships of Ozaukee county up to Wednesday. About 275 farmers were assembled Tuesday night on three hours' notice for a meeting at which the campaign against the worm was discussed."

"The worm appeared in Racine county about a week ago and by Wednesday three townships were infested. Large quantities of alfalfa and timothy have been destroyed in the vicinity of Yorkville. The worms were progressing with astonishing rapidity, attacking grain and potatoes and on Wednesday morning were reported invading cabbage fields."

The method of control is plowing furrows in the path of worms and scattering poisoned bait in the furrows.

About ten years ago in town of Deer Creek, Outagamie-co army worms made their appearance near the farm of Gust Ponzer, swept away all crops in their path, and disappeared as quickly as they came. The furrows were soon filled with dead worms.

DAIRY COWS FOND OF CLOVER SILAGE, FARMERS DISCOVER

BY W. F. WINSEY

Sweet clover silage of good quality is equal to corn silage as a feed for dairy cows and as a milk producer according to farmers who have tried both and have made comparisons. But it goes without saying that the feed value of either kind of silage depends largely upon the condition of the corn or sweet clover when it is put into the silo. The silo lacks the power of changing feed damaged in the field into anything better. What a farmer puts into his silo he gets out of it and nothing more and often less.

Nearly all the feed in fodder corn or sweet clover is in the green leaves as nearly all the feed in hay is in the green leaves. If the leaves of corn or sweet clover are weathered on the ground, dried and turned yellow before being put into the silo, the change in color indicates that the larger part of the original feed value is gone.

For these reasons corn and sweet clover should be cut at just the right time and be put directly into the silo before losses in feed value take place.

If corn dries in bundles or sweet clover in swaths, a stream of water may be turned onto them as they are put in the silo. The water may prevent the silage from turning mouldy.

Two of the most successful methods of filling a silo with sweet clover are: First, cutting the sweet clover with a grain binder and putting the product in the silo as soon as cut; Second, cutting the sweet clover with a mower, following the mower with a hay loader without loss of time, and loading directly from the swath. Water is a necessary element if the sweet clover is dry.

FARMERS TROUBLED WITH CABBAGE CROP

Some Forced to Replant Twice This Season—Fail to Take Root

BY W. F. WINSEY

Shiocton— Some growers in this vicinity have had a hard time lately getting their fields of cabbage started on account of the drouth and hot weather. They have set plants twice with planters and once or twice afterwards by hand. Notwithstanding several showers lately, the last one on Thursday, the plants are not taking root and growing with the rapidity usual in Shiocton fields in former years. Thus far the cabbage plants are free from pests.

Instead of waiting for the cabbage to grow, the farmers are very busy making hay and finishing the cultivation of corn for this season. A large part of their corn is beginning to tassel out and is large and very promising. With cool weather for ripening large yields of small grain are expected.

Ely Culbertson—International Bridge Champion

A Sociologist Who Became Bridge Marvel of the World

EIGHT years ago a mild mannered young man with a pronounced Russian accent walked into the exclusive Knickerbocker Whist Club in New York. The club numbered among its members at least 90 per cent of the experts and writers on card games in the United States.

After the newcomer had played several rubbers of bridge, this unknown "foreigner" had the temerity to tell those with whom he played that they had a lot to learn about the game. They laughed at him, and called him a Bolshevik.

They did not realize that they had a prophet in their midst, and kept him in the wilderness of nonentity by the force of their reputations. But the "foreigner" stuck to his guns and demonstrated by his invariable success as a player that something was wrong with the old theories of bidding at auction bridge.

As this prophet continued to win more games the experts began to see the light. As the result the Culbertson System is practically universal wherever bridge is played in America and Europe.

Although the aristocrats of bridge called Culbertson a foreigner, he is an American in the strict sense of the word. He was born in the oil fields of Rumania. His father was an American mining engineer who developed Russia's second largest oil field in the Caucasus. His mother was the daughter of a Cossack chieftan. He received his early education in the Caucasus and later studied in European universities, specializing in sociological and sciences and philosophy.

When Russia fell into the hands of the Bolsheviks, his father's claims in the Caucasus oil fields were confiscated, and young Culbertson was thrown on his own resources in Europe. He tried to organize Russian monarchists in France into a strong party, but failed because those with whom he worked preferred to wait and hope for a return of the Czarist regime rather than roll up their sleeves and go to work. He then tried his hand at business, going into the promotion of the sale of coal, coffee and other commodities.

Culbertson saw few possibilities for himself in Europe and decided to come to his own country. He arrived in New York in 1922 and went immediately to Washington to file a claim of $4,000,000 in behalf of his father's oil interests in Russia. Instead of being satisfied with paper profits, he looked around for an appointment as an instructor in the social sciences in an American university.

Just before an appointment to a small middle western college turned up, Ely Culbertson met a young woman who became his wife. She was already one of America's best woman bridge players, and before long convinced her husband that bridge offered a better field to a professor of the social sciences than a university. Not only is the game a powerful factor in social welfare but the art of playing is an exact science as well, she told him. By pointing out that bridge would be an organized outlet for intellectual relaxation Josephine Culbertson won him over.

Cards, however, were not unknown to him when Culbertson decided to apply his scientific training to bridge. At college and at the Cafe de la Couronne, in Geneva, where he studied international politics, he was known as the worst and the most stubborn player.

The "why" of every move interested him more than winning, and he asked so many questions that eventually no one wanted to deal him a hand. As a result he turned his analytical mind to the scientific aspect of cards, rather than the game itself.

Thus, under the inspiration and tutelage of his wife, Culbertson set out to teach the world the social sciences through bridge. He had plenty of theories, but knew that theories would not be listened to until he made a reputation for himself. He decided to attract attention by winning games.

He deviated from his decision when he sprang his bombshell at the Knickerbocker Whist Club. The cold reception he got convinced him more thoroughly that he must demonstrate his prowess at cards before he could get players to listen to his principles.

While Culbertson continued to demonstrate his superior skill at the game, he worked night and day in perfecting his Approach System of auction which subsequently was modified and extended to contract as the Forcing System.

When he enters the Knickerbocker Club today he is hailed as a hero. Those who disregarded him in 1923 have mastered his methods of play and regard them, as do millions of teachers and players in this country and in Europe, as the simplest and most scientific of all that have thus far been proposed.

He takes the honors and plaudits of the bridge playing world with grace. He waves them aside with boyish pride. Ninety per cent of his success, he says is due to his wife who is his partner in tournaments.

Besides being an outstanding analyst he is conceded by most bridge players to be the greatest ranking player. His record of national and international championships in auction and contract has never been equalled in the history of bridge. As team captain he holds a record of victories comprising all of today's American and European contract bridge championship team-of-four events. They include Vanderbilt's U. S. Championship Trophy; National Trophy American Bridge League and the British American Championship Contests.

He is a lecturer and teacher of the game; editor-in-chief of "The Bridge World" author of that phenominal best-seller, "The Contract Bridge Blue Book" and president of the National Bridge Association.

Mr. Culbertson's lessons, succeeding the Whitehead series, starts today on page 18

TWO DISCOVERIES

PIERRE arose and, keeping his eye on his companion, and his weapon ready, moved to Bruce's body and carefully searched the dead man's clothing, transferring everything that he found to his own pockets. This done, he stood gazing down at the still form on the ground as if lost in thought.

The other man moved a stealthy step nearer and instantly found himself covered by the gun in Pierre's steady hand.

"Don't make that mistake again," said Pierre sharply. "Get your pack—we're going. No, get your pick and shovel first. I can't leave Bruce like this. I couldn't tell Ann that we did not even bury him. You must dig a grave. Dig it there." He pointed to a spot a few feet away.

"But think of the exertion in this heat!" protested the other. "Short of water as we are, you're crazy to think of such a waste of strength and time. We'll do well if we last to make Dripping Spring as it is."

As well might the man have protested to an inanimate machine. Pierre Donovan forced him to do his bidding. While the other toiled with pick and shovel, Pierre sat on guard.

It was a gruesome scene—the desolate surroundings, the dead body, the murderer forced by the fear of death to dig a grave for his victim; the outwardly impassive and implacable watcher with his weapon ready for instant use.

The man's task was perhaps half completed when suddenly with a startled cry he threw aside his pick and went down on his knees. Pierre, thinking the man's action a ruse to throw him off guard, did not move.

The man sprang to his feet and, seizing his pick, used it for a minute with fierce energy. Again he half disappeared in the grave. An instant later he arose, beside himself with wild excitement. In his hands was a large piece of white quartz.

"I've found it!" he yelled, waving his arms. "To think that it was right here all the time! We've been walking over it—sleeping over it— we've made fires and cooked over it." He roared with laughter; he danced a wild jig; he threw his hat in the air; he was mad with triumphant joy.

"Come here, boy," cried the man; "come here and see!"

"I'm not interested," Pierre returned coldly, still thinking the man's actions a trick to entice him within reach. "Go on digging."

For a minute the man looked at Pierre dumbly — he had forgotten the situation. Then he roared with laughter. "I'll say I'll go on. You poor fish! I've struck the lost Mother Mountain lode.

"You're wasting your energy," said Pierre. "Finish the grave so we can be on our way."

The man gazed at Pierre as if dumfounded that any one could be so stupid. Then he said sarcastically, "I suppose you know gold when you see it" and tossed a piece of the white quartz at the young man's feet.

Pierre did not even pick up the piece of quartz. "I tell you I am not interested," he said. "Go on with your digging."

"Do you realize what this strike means?" cried the other. "Do you realize that there's millions in this vein, the richest ever discovered? Are you human or are you a bloodless dummy?"

"I used to feel things," said Pierre. "I guess I'm dead — I'm sure that something in me is dead."

The other was quick to take advantage of what seemed to be a change in Pierre's mood. "I think I know what you mean, boy," he said in a tone of kindly sympathy.

"But listen, with a hundredth part of the wealth that's right here under our feet you could—you could build a most beautiful theater in the world to the memory of your mother."

Pierre started. "What do you know of my mother?"

"I know what Bruce told me," the other answered gently. "She was Harriet Noel. I remember seeing her on the stage once. 'Didn't she used to stand in the wings while you were acting your kiddie parts?'"

The unexpected assault upon his emotions threw Pierre momentarily off his guard. The other, seeing the opening, moved to make the most of it. But Pierre leaped to his feet, on guard again. The man stopped, but smiled as one who, knowing that the cards in his hand insure the final outcome of the game, might smile at his opponent's success in taking one trick.

"To hell with your gold!" cried Pierre with passonate earnestness. "Look what your talk of gold has done for poor Bruce there! Look what it has done for Martin Bevis! Look what it has done for Ann! Look what it has done for me! Anything that I could do with this gold as a memorial to my mother would be an insult to her."

"All right," returned the other calmly. "But I'm not going to turn by back on these millions. I'm going to put up a location notice if you kill me while I' mdoing it."

As he spoke he took from his pocket book a printed form and proceded to fill it in while Pierre, disconcerted by the man's confident manner and by the feeling that there was something back of it which he did not understand, watched him.

"There!" he said, when he had finished writing. "I have located this lode in your name, Bruce's and mine. I've put Bruce in so that his wife could have his share. You and Ann together own control—I take only one-third.

"Suppose you succeed in getting me to Red Butte and turning me over to the sheriff? That won't bring Bruce back or do away with the fact that he was a thief and murderer. I say that for Ann's sake we ought never to let her know how her husband died, or that he was guilty of that bank crime and was planning to let her father suffer for it. We will report that you and Bruce and I were together when we struck the lode; and that when we were on our way back Bruce wandered off the trail into Skeleton Sink. We'll say it was impossible for us to go after him because we were so short of water that we barely made it to the Spring ourselves. That story will go without question. With the fortune we have here we'll find a way to clear Ann's father. It will all be easy enough with these millions to help us."

The other man faced him with a triumphant laugh. "Well, son, it's been a long time since we met."

"Are you Roy Donovan?"

"Surest thing you know."

"My—my father?"

Roy Donovan laughed. "That's another card in our little game heh, kid? I somehow can't quite see Harriet Noel's boy turning his own father over to hang for murder, can you?"

Roy Donovan followed stealthily, step by step.

Dropping his gun, Pierre swung the pack over his shoulder and picked up the canteen. But he paused and, as if his strength were not equal to the anguish of the situation, he leaned heavily against the low, rocky wall, his face hidden in his arms.

The older man, moving swiftly, silently reached the gun. Another instant and the weapon was in his hand.

AIR PROGRAMS WITHDRAWN IN HOT WEATHER

BY ROBERT MACK

Copyright, 1931, By Cons. Press

Washington— (CPA)— Summer doldrums have enshrouded broadcasting, with many of the most popular programs off the air during the sweltering days of July and August.

A tabulation made today shows that about a dozen and a half sponsored programs of the two major networks are withdrawing, probably to return to the microphone with the arrival of fall. Somewhat offsetting the loss of these programs, however, is the introduction of several new features, with the remainder of the time filled in by sustaining features.

While it is not unusual for programs to be curtailed during the summer, this year it appears that the pruning has been greater than for any preceding year. This has occurred despite the claim of the networks that the summer radio audience is just as large and as responsive to advertising appeal as that of other seasons.

On the other hand, the commercial program sponsors evidently cling to the view that in summer the average citizens flock to the resorts and don't sit huddled about their receiving sets.

Static Worse Now

Moreover, it is a generally recognized engineering fact that summer reception conditions are inferior to those prevailing in cooler weather, while static bombardments are at their worst.

In its efforts to block any appreciable curtailment of summer programs, Columbia Broadcasting Co. has made a special study of radio as a medium for summer advertising, in which it endeavors to show that the reduction in audience during July and August is negligible. This study, it claims, shows that the July-August home-audience is 91 per cent as large as the March-April audience; 90.3 per cent as large as that for May-June, and 92.6 per cent as large as that for September-October.

Many individuals who go away for periods of any great length either take their radios with them or else have radios in their cottages, Columbia claims. The midget set is so compact that it can be transported as easily as a suitcase, and so low in price that many families now enjoying two sets. Group listening at summer resorts, roadside stands and tearooms, dance pavilions, and other vacation places tends further to counteract the loss in size of the audience as may take place for other reasons, it avers.

As a final thrust, Columbia brings out that introduction of the screen grid tube, the superheterodyne set, and similar innovations have tended to overcome poor summer reception.

Your Birthday

WHAT TOMORROW MEANS TO YOU "CANCER"

If July 13th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:30 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 2:30 p. m. to 4 p. m., and from 9 p. m. to 10:30 p. m. The danger hours are from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m. and from 6 p. m. to 8:45 p. m.

July 13th is shown to be a day of advantage. Success in business ventures; happiness in a social way; excellent for sports. Outside influences will touch your life with friendly hands, and new interests will come your way.

The child born on this day, July 13th, will have a stolid, plodding nature, and although not brilliant in its school work it will not make a bad mark in the world. Its stick-at-ive-ness will carry its feet onward toward the desired goals. It will be full of good cheer and will have a friendly attitude towards the world in general.

Born on a July 13th, nature has supplied you with a goodly number of enviable traits, which are unfortunately offset by contradictory characteristics which prevent you from making the most of your gifts. You are outstandingly clever. You seldom fail in anything which you choose to do, but apathy, languor and selfishness, have made you elect to do as little as possible. You like to watch life at its games, as at its work, and only be flicked by the edges of its flying skirts. You are a cynical, impatient and many times bored, bystander.

You do not make many friends. Your caustic tongue and cool indifference keep those who admire you at arm's length. You chafe against all stupidity, humbug and sentimentality, which makes discourse difficult for you with many people. You have strong convictions, but you defend your beliefs more through your acts than words. You are so cock-sure about your own judgments, that it annoys you to have to put up an argument in their defense. You are not a physical moral or mental coward, when big issues are at stake, but you take a "what-does-it-matter" view toward petty annoyances. You are loyal, and honest, and you do not sidestep your blatant duties. You believe very much in personal liberty, and you loathe ties and obligations.

Successful People Born July 13th

4—Mary E. Wooley—Educator.

5—Robert Bridges—Editor "Scribners."

6—John Jacob Astor, 4th—Capitalist.

WHAT TOMORROW MEANS TO YOU "CANCER"

If July 14th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a. m. to 11 a. m. from 4 p. m. to 6 p. m., and from 11 p. m. to midnight. The danger hours are from 7 a. m. to 8:25 a. m., and from 2 p. m. to 3:30 p. m.

Scientists and professional men will have every factor in their favor on July 14th, and much more progress will be made than under ordinary astrological influences. It is not a favorable time for love affairs, marriage or close personal associations. Worry about family affairs!

Children born on this July 14th will have every factor in their future, and will be inclined to take life easily. They will have pronounced talents, which should be cultivated, but they will be below par as students, in general.

Born on July 14th, you take your responsibilities all too seriously. You have an inborn presentiment that you, and you alone, can perform each task in the way it should be done. You impose tasks upon yourself with a morbid delight, over which you need never bother your head. Your mind from morning to night, is continually fretting over pettifogging details, which could creditably look after themselves. You never take a holiday from worry.

You are not a restful or interesting companion, as it is difficult for you to ever relax so as to enjoy the moments of the present. Your tired mind cannot stay in focus for long at a time, and it flits from the past, through the present and on to the future, almost in the same breath. There is no one who desires affection and understanding more than you do, and it is a pity that your attitude toward life is found boring to the average person. You are too much of a machine to be intensely human. Your moral integrity and your honesty are above reproach. You never shirk, but you do sometimes whine. Less time in self-pity, and more time spent in self-analysis, would inure to your benefit. You could not help, as a woman, become a slavish and nagging wife and mother. As a man, you cannot help being irritable and exacting.

Successful People Born July 14th

2—Arthur Capper—Ex-Senator.

4—William H. Burr—Engineer.

6—Amanda M. Douglas—Author.

Ann Harding in East Lynne
Clive Conrad Brook Nagel
Women envied her — men adored her — life cheated her. When a girl walks out on her husband in search of happiness, will she find it in another's arms? Does the world expect too high a price for love—for beauty—for the dreams of youth?

NOTICE OF CORRECTION

Due to a typographical error on the part of the Post-Crescent the price published in D. P. Steinberg's advertisement in this column Friday, July 10th, and Saturday, July 11th, was wrong—the adv. appeared as follows:

"GREEN BAY STREET 5 ROOM bungalow. Large living room with fireplace. Sunporch. Priced at $4,500 for immediate sale. DANIEL P. STEINBERG, Realtor, 206 W. College Ave. Tel. 157."

The correct price should have been $5,400 and not $4,500.

GERMAN CRISIS RENEWS HOPES ON STOCK MART

Heavy Foreign Selling Expected as European Exchanges Close

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Editor

New York—(AP)—The abrupt turn for the worse taken by a financially sick Germany over the weekend found the New York stock market in a hopeful frame of mind today.

With only the New York and London markets open—Berlin being closed as an emergency measure, and Paris closed for a holiday—heavy foreign selling was expected. Both New York and London, however, quieted down after the first flurry, with the New York market making substantial recovery from the lowest. Foreign exchange trading, however, was almost demoralized, and German bonds were acutely weak.

In stocks, early losses of 2 to 3 points in such issues as American and Foreign Power, Westinghouse Electric, International Telephone, New York Central, American Telephone, and Baltimore and Ohio, were roughly cut in half by a midday rally. Losses of 1 and 2 points in General Motors and American Can were completely regained, and U. S. Steel reduced an opening loss of 3¼ to about a point. Atchison lost nearly 5, and regained only a little. Auburn recovered more than half of a drop of nearly 9. Trading turned dull after the first half hour, when 40,000 shares were traded.

The weekend news that the Darmstaedter and und National Bank, one of Germany's four largest, had been forced to suspend, was discouraging to Wall Street, where it had been understood that the difficulties of this institution, rumored for some time, were being taken care of.

In Wall Street, all eyes rested upon Basel, where it was hoped that a plan would be evolved at the conference held at the world bank for an immediate credit to the Reichsbank, sufficient to restore confidence. Wall Street has had fears of a radical uprising in Germany ever since the gains by the national socialist and communist parties in last autumn's elections, and has little doubt that the leaders of these organizations are using the present situation to still up the German public.

Prepare For Loans

Private bankers weer prepared to participate in an international loan, but because of the delicate international political aspects of the problem, were awaiting upon the initiative off the federal reserve, which in turn, and for the same reason, awaited upon the negotiations at Basel.

Not only the German mark was sharply depressed in the foreign exchange markets, but quotations on such currencies as the pound sterling and the French franc were substantially lower. Exchange trades complained that the situation was so confusing that it was extremely difficult to transact business. The German mark, closing last week at 23.70 cents for cables, was rumored to have been quoted as low as 16 and 18 cents. Most quotations, after an excited opening, however, were around 22 cents.

Domestic news was largely ignored, in the excitement over the foreign situation. The week end decision of Oklahoma independent oil producers to shut down their well's pending the return of more normal prices, had a steady effect upon the oil shares, which were fairly well taken.

The announcement that the Interstate Commerce commission had placed a valuation upon the railroads about three billion dollars higher than in 1921, for the purpose of hearing the railroads plea for an increase in freight rates, had little market effect.

DECLINE STAGED ON NEW YORK BOND MART

New York—(AP)—Led by German obligations the bond market staged a general decline today, as part of the reaction to the financial crisis in Berlin.

From the opening, heavy selling appeared in the obligations of that government but the trading as a whole was quiet and even dull in some parts of the list.

Within the first fifteen minutes of trading the 5½s of 1965, the so-called Young plans bongs, and the 7s of 1949 lost 6¾ and 5¾ points respectively. The former equalled their previous 1931 low at 63 and the latter reached a new low at 52. A certain measure of support developed at these levels, however, and both bonds recovered part of their losses.

Nevertheless such losses in bongs indicated that the bonds were under heavy selling pressure. The turnover in both issues was unusually heavy and approximated $500,000 at par value for each issue in the first two hours. Lower prices appeared in other German loans also but the activity and pressure on them was not so great. Other foreign bonds were generally lower but the trading in them was dull.

Loans of the United States government were unusually dull without a definite trend.

The trend of domestic corporate obligations was generally lower and the trading in them was quieter than even the quiet trend of the market recently. Stock privilege loans as a class scored many of the larger losses in keeping with the reaction in stocks.

Railroad bonds ignored the weekend news from Washington to the effect that the Interstate commission had valued the railroads of the country as of Dec. 31, 1930 at $3,600,000 more than in 1930 as a step in the hearings on the proposed 15 per cent increase in freight rates. Public utility and industrial loans reached lower levels also.

An equally important aspect of the market was the dullness in all these issue

BEARS FROLIC ON LIVESTOCK MARKET

Light Hogs Hold Firm Due to Scarcity—Delay Cattle Shipment

Chicago —(AP)— Light hogs, due to scarcity of choice weights averaging less than 210 lbs. were held firm, while a bearish spirit was manifested on the bulk of the 27,000 fresh hogs on sale in the open market. Packers having taken 18,000 of the total supply of 45,000 on through billing, cut much of the competitive demand out of the market. Salesmen had to look to shippers for early action and they offered $7.60 for selected 200-lb weights, but were only mildly interested in other classes and weights. Most bids were 10c lower than Friday's average and there was no action worthy of mention on the heavier classes of butchers and packing sows.

Delay was encountered in getting the estimated supply of 1,260 cars of live stock into the local stockyards today. They affected cattle trade chiefly. Slow action characterized the market from the outset, though receipts of 15,500 were not too liberal. Calves, estimated at 2,000 head for the day, continued to attract attention. Best light steers and yearling heifers were most sought after and fully steady prices were quoted for these grades.

Total receipts of 12,000 sheep and lambs in the sheepsheds here included 2,200 forwarded straight to killing plants and were 6,000 less than the number marketed a week ago. Better prices were asked, but initial action consisted largely of inspection tours.

GRAIN PRICES COLLAPSE TO LOWER LEVELS

Lack of General Speculative Dealings Is Feature of Trade

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN
Associated Press Market Editor

Chicago —(AP)—Despite wheat buying here against sales at Winnipeg, Canada, Chicago grain values collapsed today to new bottoms unparalleled for many years. Lack of general speculative dealings on either side of the market was a feature, with traders holding off pending developments as to bank troubles in Germany. Most of the pressure on wheat came from hedgers protecting themselves against loss on rural purchases.

Almost immediately wheat dropped to below 51 cents a bushel for this months contracts, and went to within ¼ cent of the lowest level ever touched on the Chicago board of trade by any future delivery of wheat. Simultaneously corn tumbled to a depth unreached heretofore since 1910. Contributing to weakness of all grains were big receipts of newly harvested domestic wheat, including 2,947 cars at Kansas City, compared with 2,119 a week ago and 1,178 at this time last year. Chicago wheat arrivals totaled 950 cars, against 512 on the corresponding day last week and 382 in 1930.

Reports of pressure of Russian offerings of wheat at Liverpool had an additional bearish effect, unrelieved by small decrease of the amount of wheat on ocean passage. On the price downswings, however, a steadying influence was some buying based on the fact that the market had been breaking for more than a week. It was urged that this circumstance would alone warrant rallies, particularly as wheat had now become the cheapest of foods. Corn and oats were bearinsly affected by wheat weakness and by auspicious weather for corn growth.

Provisions gave way with hog values and with cereals.

CURB MARKET DULL; TRADING DWINDLES

Uncertainty of German Financial Crisis Keeps Traders Guessing

New York—(AP)—After a flurry of nervous selling in the early trading, caused by concern over the German financial crisis, the curb market settled into a dull session today. Declines were reduced, substantially in most instances, and the list marked time, keeping its eye on the foreign news.

The uncertainties of the German problem brought a rather active liquidating movement at and immediately after the opening, when some leading shares lost a point or more.

All groups were affected by the uneasiness although utilities and oils were the softest. Shares with a foreign background receded. Gulf and Humble reacted a couple of points and Cities Service sagged below 11.

Specialties and industrials suffered from dullness. Further selling came into Deere, which traded only a few points above its year's low. British Woolworth was steady and so was Swift.

There was some activity in Goldman Sachs, among the investment trusts, at easing quotations. Others in the group were quiet.

The call money renewal rate was 2 per cent.

DIVORCE SUITS ON INCREASE IN WISCONSIN

University Student Compiles Report on Marriage Duration in State

That Wisconsin residents who step just outside of the state to be married have a shorter duration of their married life, and that divorces are obtained at a much more rapid pace in the state at the present time than they were a generation ago, are two facts revealed in a study of divorces obtained during one year in every county in Wisconsin made at the University of Wisconsin recently.

The study was made by Miss Barbara Ingersoll, Madison student at the University, under the supervision and organization of C. L. Dedrick, research director in the sociology department.

Consisting of a survey of the 2,707 divorces which were obtained in Wisconsin in 1929, the study was primarily concerned with the period of time which elapsed between the marriage and divorce of parties, and with the duration of the out-of-state marriage of Wisconsin residents which ended in divorce.

For purposes of comparison as to divorce rate, the survey made use of the United States census study of marriages and divorces in Wisconsin from 1887 to 1906, so that any changes in the duration of marriages contracted in that period compared with divorces in 1929 could be determined.

Although Wisconsin has a low divorce rate as compared with the country as a whole at the present time, the survey points out that the state's divorce rates is climbing rapidly.

Married Life Shorter

While pointing out that the large number of divorces obtained in the state are due largely to the out-of-state marriages which Wisconsin residents desire in order to avoid state laws on the five-day waiting period and the physical examination of the male, the study shows that married couples who are getting divorces today have had slightly more than half a year less of married life than those married a generation ago.

Of 1,336 marriages where both parties were residents of Wisconsin at marriage and who obtained divorces during 1929, 761 were performed in Wisconsin and 575 out of the state. The survey showed that the marriages performed inside the state made an average duration of five years, while those performed outside the state lasted on an average of only four and four-tenths years.

Of 77 divorces obtained in Douglas county in 1929, where both parties had been residents of Wisconsin, 48 marriages were performed outside of the state, and only 29 in the state. In Kenosha county, of 58 divorces in which both parties had been residents of the state, 32 marriages had been performed across the state line, and only 26 within the state. In Dane county, of 45 divorces in which both parties were residents of the state at marriage, 25 were out-of-state.

Pointing out that couples who desire divorces now obtain them more rapidly than in former times, the survey presents figures to show that the total average duration of marriages at present is less than the period 30 years ago, and that although the average duration from separation to divorce has greatly decreased.

During the period from 1887 to 1906, the average total duration of marriages was 10.4 years, the survey shows. At the same time, the average duration from marriage to separation was seven and seven-tenths years, and the average duration from separation to divorce two and seven-tenths years.

In 1929, however, the total average duration of marriages had slumped to nine and eight-tenths years, but the average duration from marriage to separation had climbed to eight and one-tenth years, while the average duration from separation to divorce had decreased to only one and seven-tenths years.

Divorces Faster Now

Regarding the decrease in the period between separation and divorce and the greater rapidity with which divorces have come to be obtained in Wisconsin, the study gives as a reason the fact that divorce is now much more socially approved than it was in the period from 1887 to 1906.

"There seems to be less hesitancy on the part of parties who are living separately to get a divorce, and the possibility of a divorce seems to be more in the minds of married people in general than formerly," the survey declares. "Greater mobility of people has enabled married persons to more easily get away from each other and from their mutual acquaintances."

"The employment of women provides an alternative to the continuance of an odious marriage relationship," it is asserted. "All of these factors undoubtedly contribute to the shortening of the period between separation and divorce."

Pointing out that one must look further to discover why the period from marriage to separation has increased during the last 30 years the survey explains that the number of older married persons applying for divorces is increasing as well as the number of younger married people.

"Since these old people are older, their marriages are on the average of longer duration," the study continues. "If many of these longer duration marriages end in divorce after only a very brief period of separation, they would contribute probable more to the duration from marriage to separation, and to the total duration than to the period from separation to divorce."

"We may say that almost regardless of the number of years couples have lived together, if they decide to secure a divorce, 25 per cent will be divorced within about five months after the final separation, 50 per cent within a year and two months, and 75 per cent within two and one-half years."

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

by Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

Five Do's and Don'ts of the Culbertson Standard System

If you wish to win a National Championship with a partner whom you have not seen before and who has never played the Culbertson Standard System, try the Five-Rule-System, which I announced to my newly-found partner, W. J. Carpenter from Salem, Ohio, a few minutes before we optimistically decided to compete for the Championship against the field of sixty-four veteran players. It worked.

The National Contract Bridge Team of Four Championship for the year 1930-1931 was played in Cleveland under the auspices of The American Bridge League. Billy Barrett, an 18-year-old wizard from New York completed our collegiate Team of Four. All were good enough players to know that our case was almost hopeless. I believe in keeping up the fight, however, so I gave my partner these rules:

1.—Do not support my first trump bids of one or two unless you hold four small trumps or at least three trumps headed by the Queen.

2.—Always start your bidding with any biddable suit (be it even a four-card minor) rather than with notrump and, except with extraordinary hands, start not higher than one in a suit and then let nature take its course. (Approach Method.)

3.—Do not pass my Opening suit bid of one except when you hold a very weak hand—less than one honor-trick—or when the opponent on the left obligingly keeps the bidding open. If you have not enough trumps to raise my bid suit, no other suit worth while mentioning, then bid one notrump with any hand that contains from 1½ to 2 honor-tricks—for instance an Ace and a Q J, or two Kings guarded and a Queen guarded. "The Backbone of the Culbertson System" I expounded, "is the negative one notrump response to give your partner another opportunity to bid, without which the great advantage of the Approach Method explained in the Rule 1 is nullified."

4.—Bid the full value of your hand when raising partner's bid or responding with notrump.

5.—Always keep the bidding open, until a game is contracted for, after either partner makes a Forcing Signal. The word "forcing" means one of two things only: you bid or die. There are two kinds of Forcing Signals which automatically announce game at some bid yet to be determined:

(a) A Jump Takeout in a new suit by partner of Opening bidder or by Opening bidder himself. (b) Any Opening two-bid in a suit (when there is no part-score towards game). If partner holds an absolutely trickless hand his response is the "Bust" two notrump.

There was one invisible Rule X, more important than all the other rules put together—Bridge Psychology, which deals with imponderables and studies partner's and opponents' mental reactions to bidding and playing situations.

To my immense astonishment our Team won. Frankness compels me to admit that the Championship was won through brilliant bidding and play on the other half of our foursome, although my young partner did his bit nobly. For instance, he took anywhere from five to ten minutes to make a single bid or a pass. After the first few minutes the enemy would become visibly nervous and fretful; after five or six minutes they would glare at Jimmy while he heroically remained oblivious to anything around him; finally after eight or ten minutes these veterans of Bridge, who traveled from afar to this yearly event, did not care whether they won the Championship or not.

Someone stated that our victory was the most remarkable in the history of Bridge but to me it was a decisive proof that our present conditions of Championship scoring are far from being satisfactory.

My partner did not think so. As he spoke to me his voice was firm in the consciousness of a well-won victory:

"Although you made some mighty funny bids, your system is wonderful and your rules are miraculous. They worked even when applied at the wrong time. But . . ." and here the new Champion cautiously peered around to make sure that we were alone, "tell me please, what's that negative notrump you were talking about before the Match?"

I made a superhuman effort not to burst out into an eerie cackle and gathering the broken fragments of The Backbone of The Culbertson System meekly disappeared.

CULBERTSON STANDARD HONOR TRICK TABLE
(Defensive Basis)

"x" means any low card. Q x or J x or K unguarded are "plus" values. In Bidding two such "plus" values are valued as ½ tricks; two half tricks are worth one full trick.

½ TRICK	1 TRICK
K x or Q J x Q x and J x of different suits	A. K Q or K J x K x and Q x of different suits
1½ TRICK	2 TRICKS
A J 10 A Q x K Q 10	A K Not more than two tricks in the same suit can be expected to win against opponents' trump bid.

ENGINEERS TO FIND SOURCE OF IMPURE AIR

Invent Instruments to Compute Rate and Source of Pollutions

New York—(CPA)— Man, for all his genius, cannot control the air, but he is doing much to keep it pure. Great strides have been made in the last two years by the small group of scientists and engineers who are working through Stevens Institute of Technology toward the abatement of smoke in the metropolitan area, and late last week another victory was indicated.

In the large tower room of Castle Stevens at Hoboken three men leaned over an amazingly intricate bit of machinery on which they had labored more than a year to perfect. As they leaned forward with eyes riveted on their apparatus, a small light flickered, a gadget slipped into place, several small wheels spun around and this reporter knew by their smiles that their efforts had been rewarded.

They then looked up—Samuel Gibson Frantz, the consulting engineer who had designed the machine, Col. Whitlock, research professor of mechanical engineering at Stevens, who had assisted him, and Leo Stawinski of the Mohawk Machine and Tool Co. in whose shop the machine was developed and built. Mr. Frantz explained what had happened.

Records Wind Conditions

"The purpose of the instrument," he said, "is to record on a strip of paper the wind conditions over Stevens Castle at all times during the day and night so that computations may be made showing the amount of air pollution coming from various directions. Later, the instrument will be equipped to record the amounts of ultraviolet light and sunlight falling on the castle roof, and this information will be turned over to the United States public health service.

"For the present, however, we are chiefly interested in the rate at which the air is being polluted," Mr. Frantz said. "To find that out we must get the velocity of the wind and its direction all through the day in order to learn where the pollution comes from, and to what extent fresh air has diluted the smoke of the city. Only in that way can we find where the pollution was produced and at what rate.

"The results will be used in conjunction with records made by an automatic smoke measuring device which is a duplicate of those placed by Stevens Institute in the Central Park and Whitehall building observatories of weather bureau, and operated by them.

"Our ultimate objective is to find the principal sources of smoke pollution in the metropolitan area and to check on the progress made in purifying the air as time goes on. This new installation completes the third observatory in the area for the scientific study of smoke pollution in connection with air currents."

SPANISH SOCIALISTS WON'T GAIN CONTROL

Republican Groups Pledge Unity to Assure Majority in Assembly

Madrid—(AP)—A promise of concerted action on the part of various Republican groups appeared today to have removed the possibility of the Socialist party controlling the constituent assembly when it convenes Tuesday.

The left Republican party under Minister of War Manuel Azana, the radical republicans under Foreign Minister Alejandro Lerroux and the leftist group, known as Autonomous Republicans, under Minister of Communications Martinez Barrios, have agreed to maintain their alliance for the work of the assembly.

Such an alliance means that the left republicans will have a bloc of at least 150 seats, while the Socialists will have only an estimated 122, although they emerged from the recent elections as the most popular single party.

This move caused a widespread belief that Senor Lerroux may become the first president of the constitutional government. The impression was strengthened by the recent statement of Minister of Finance Indalecio Prieto, a Socialist, that "the hour of Socialism had not yet struck."
